G. O. P. Picks Dempsey for State's Attorney Race

HUGHES QUITS AS CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR

Courtney's Chances Are Enhanced.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

Addition of a new headliner and withdrawal of an old star yesterday featured the big show in 1944 Illinois and Cook county politics:

1 John T. Dempsey, lean, blond chairman of the Republican Cook county central committee, will be the G. O. P. candidate for state's attorney as the result of a determined draft movement, according to all indications.

2 Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes, only Democratic state office holder and No. 1 choice of party leaders for nomination for governor, said yesterday in Arizona that he will not run for any office this year.

These two events have mutual significance. Hughes' statement cleared the way for State's Atty. Thomas J. Courtney to run for governor. He has been the No. 2 choice of downstaters in recent party conclaves for the top state office.

John T. Dempsey [top] and Edward J. Hughes.

If Courtney runs for governor, the Republicans believe it will increase the chances of electing Dempsey as state's attorney. Courtney has been far ahead of his ticket when running for prosecutor in 1940 and 1936.

Move to "Draft" Courtney.

Altho Courtney has yet not said he wants to be governor, his friends report a steadily increasing interest in the subject.

Despite Courtney's official silence, a "rump conference" of downstate Democratic state's attorneys is scheduled for tomorrow in Springfield to draft him for governor. And C. W. Burton, prosecutor of Madison county, said this plan was conceived as a result of conversations with Courtney in Chicago a few weeks ago. He said he last talked with Courtney Saturday.

The Democratic state central committee early this week adopted a resolution pledging a free and open primary. State's Atty. Burton said tomorrow's meeting was planned to arrange a "rump convention" at which Democrats generally rather than party workers would be invited to express their views.

"We don't want our candidate picked out of a hat," Burton said. "We want a man who has shown the independence of machine approval that Courtney has shown."

Statement a Surprise.

Secretary of State Hughes' statement was a bit of surprise because word was brought back from Arizona a few days ago that he was likely to heed requests that he run for governor. Albert J. Horan, executive committee chairman of the Cook county central committee, visited Hughes at Tucson, Ariz., where he is recuperating from high blood pressure.

Hughes said that he could not give the time and energy demanded of a campaigner in a Presidential year. He added that he expects to be active even tho not a candidate, and hinted that he will make his voice heard in party affairs.

Twelve years in his present office, Hughes' withdrawal from the race was seen by members of both parties as aiding the candidacy of the Republican nominee for secretary of state. Hughes' name has appeared on tens of millions of forms sent to motorists and others. Arnold P. Benson is the regular G. O. P. organization candidate for secretary

Women's War Too? Millions Don't Think So

BY MARCIA WINN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—The United States has 16,300,000 women in its labor market, women who are working or seeking work.

Three years ago 2,300,000 of these were unemployed. Today 300,000 are unemployed. It is the tightest women's labor market in the history of the country.

On Dec. 7, 1941, the United States had 14,500 women officially in uniform. Of these, 14,000 were army nurses, 500 were navy nurses. Today it has 179,000 in its seven war time uniformed corps. This is one-third as many as the war and navy departments hope to have by the end of June, one-sixth as many as can be used.

The labor market can use as many more women as it can get. The uniformed women's corps can use 325,000 in a hurry. Where are they coming from? Not from each other. Moreover, the uniformed corps are forbidden to recruit women in defense areas. This is half the country.

Another Group.

There is another group of women, five and a half million, of whom no one hears. These are women between the ages of 20 and 55 who have neither jobs, children under 16, dependents, nor farmhouse duties. For the most part, they are not in the labor market; they are neither working nor seeking work.

In November, 1942, 4,400,000 of these said they could take jobs if they "had to." A possible 50,000 have. A possible 15,000 have gone into the women's corps. The remainder are sitting and staring tearfully at the hobgoblin around the corner, the women's draft, the proximity of which is due to their lethargy.

The women's draft probably will fail to pass congress. Powerful forces oppose it—labor, the women's bureau, the southern bloc, the war man power commission, and many of those whom it threatens. But the war and navy departments are almost rabidly behind it. One reason for their attitude is the untouchables of this war, the 4,400,000 women who could work but do not.

Allocation as Needed.

The portion of the labor draft bill [the Austin-Wadsworth bill] which applies to women, specifies that they be allocated as needed to munitions, farms, or the women's services, just as Great Britain has done for the last three years.

Of these three, the most publicized need is that of the women's services. The services have never been at a loss as to what to do with women. The problem has been to get women into them. For some quaint reason women don't seem to think the services [1] necessary or [2] efficacious. Few bother to find out.

Of the seven groups—the WAC, the WAVES, the SPAR, the marine corps women's reserve, the WASP, the army nurse corps, the navy

SENATORS VOTE TAX INCREASE OF 2¼ BILLIONS

Spurn F. D. R. Plea for More.

BY PHILIP WARDEN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—The senate late today passed unanimously and sent to the house a bill providing for an increase of about 2 billion 275 million dollars in taxes this year. The bill fails by more than 8 billion dollars to provide the 10½ billion dollar tax increase demanded last week by President Roosevelt.

Because the bill has been virtually rewritten since it passed the house late in November, the house is not expected to accept the bill as it stands. The bill appears certain to be sent into senate-house conference to be drafted into final form. The senate bill adds about 130 million dollars to the measure enacted by the house. It would bring total federal income to more than 43½ billion dollars a year.

If the bill gets out of conference, is approved in its final form by both houses, and is accepted by the President by Feb. 19, the new excise taxes will go into effect March 1. They would increase sharply consumer costs of liquor, toilet preparations, theater tickets, and other so-called "luxuries." The liquor tax rate was increased from $6 to $9 per 100 proof gallon.

Individual Tax About Same.

The bill places about the same tax burden on individual incomes as the present law except that it provides for repeal of the earned income credit. Persons in the low income brackets would pay slightly higher taxes than heretofore as a result of the revised victory tax, which in the senate bill is a 3 per cent levy on all income over $624 a year, regardless of family status.

The bill is the 17th tax measure to come before congress in the Roosevelt regime. It derives almost half of its revenue from the increased excise taxes on luxury goods. Higher postal rates, including an increase in the air mail rate from 6 to 8 cents; a new boost in corporation excess profits taxes, and the larger income provided by the minor revisions in the taxes on individual incomes will provide the remainder of the 2 billion 275 million dollars in new tax revenues.

The senate version of the bill retains a house provision requiring labor unions, farm coöperatives, and other non-profit organizations to file with the commissioner of internal revenue reports on the sources of their income and its disposition.

Curb on Hobby Losses.

The senate added a provision limiting income tax deductions for losses incurred by an individual in the operation of "hobby businesses" such as racing stables, unprofitable publishing enterprises, and other hobbies that heretofore have provided substantial income tax deductions for the wealthy. This provision has been called the "Marshall Field amendment."

The bill also freezes the social security pay roll tax for 1944 at the present level of 1 per cent each on employers and employes, instead of permitting an automatic advance to 2 per cent, as provided in the social security act.

War contract price renegotiation provisions as amended by the finance committee underwent some change in the seven hour floor debate on the bill today. One change eliminated power companies supplying electrical or gas energy to war plants from immunity to renegotiation.

The senate also wrote in an amendment setting next Dec. 31 as the date for terminating renegotiations, altho the President was given six months leeway in changing the date, either way. Only those contracts entered into before the termination date would be subject to renegotiation. Another change grants the right of court review to a contractor dissatisfied with his renegotiation.

A proposal which would have permitted individuals and corporations to put aside up to 20 per cent of their taxes as a post-war reserve was rejected.

Seek 'Worker' in Robbery of $8,660 Jewels

An enterprising prowler who attired himself in work stained overalls and presented himself at the home of Wilbur R. Pounder at 7550 Chicago avenue, River Forest, as the man who had come to "measure the pipes," is believed by River Forest police to have stolen jewelry valued at $8,660 as he wandered at will thru the house.

Maid Admits Him.

A crew of workmen had been repairing the heating plant in the house for a week. They completed their job last week, but when the man in overalls knocked at the back door Monday and explained his mission, the maid, police said, assumed that it was part of the repair job and admitted him.

After a survey of the basement pipes, police said, the man moved to the first and then the second floor. In Mrs. Pounder's bedroom on the second floor, the jewelry rested in a box on a dressing table. Presently the man sauntered out of the house after saying everything seemed "O. K." Chief of Police Carl Sonderlin said the jewelry apparently went with him.

May Quiz Workmen.

Lt. Raymond Rheingruber, who questioned the workmen, said there was no evidence that any of them knew of the jewelry or even had been above the first floor. He said, however, that eventually they may be asked to submit to lie detector tests.

The stolen jewelry included a straight line diamond and platinum bracelet valued at $2,500, a diamond platinum ring, $2,500; a platinum sapphire bracelet, $1,500; a diamond platinum necklace, $500; a diamond circle bracelet, $725; a platinum diamond ring, $500; a diamond bracelet, $375, and a platinum wedding ring, $60.

DANBURY DISCOVERS WHAT HAPPENED TO ITS MISSING CONVOY

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—The mystery of the missing army convoy of Danbury, Conn., has been solved, the FBI announced tonight, explaining that it was only a hoax perpetrated by a soldier who wanted to cash a bad check.

Director J. Edgar Hoover identified the man as Edward Robert van Dover, 22 years old, who has been absent without leave from Camp Alliance, Neb., since Dec. 23, 1943.

Posing as Staff Sgt. Edward Arthur, the FBI director said, Van Dover drove into Danbury on Dec. 27, went to the USO and said he was the advance guard for a convoy of paratroopers who would spend the night in Danbury. Citizens of the town prepared to entertain the soldiers. Cots were placed in the local armory, and the women began preparing the meal.

Later in the day, however, the "sergeant" reported that the convoy had been involved in an accident at White Plains, N. Y. He left to "investigate" after cashing a $20 bad check.

Van Dover, who is from Brooklyn, was arrested by police officers at Somerset, Ky., Wednesday. He is being held by army authorities at Bowman field, Ky.

PRISONER RELIEF SHIPS AWAITING JAP CLEARANCE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 21.—A Red Cross spokesman in London said today that several ships from the United States are waiting at Vladivostok, Siberia, for instructions to sail to Japanese ports with relief supplies for American and British prisoners and internees. Following representations to Japan thru diplomatic channels and the Red Cross, there are "indications the Japanese will prove willing to let them thru," the spokesman said.

The ships are the first allied vessels sent with comforts for the 300,000 prisoners in Japanese hands. Two previous consignments of supplies were carried in diplomatic exchange ships.

Six Steel Plant Employes Are Stricken After Eating

One woman and six men workers in the Signode Steel Strapping company plant at 2600 North Western avenue were taken to Loretto hospital yesterday when they became sick after eating in the company's cafeteria. The cafeteria was closed temporarily pending an investigation by city health authorities of the possibility of food poisoning. The plant is filling contracts for steel strapping for the war department.

Boy, 10, Killed in Fiery 'Air Raid Shelter'

Norman Dewey Jr., 10 years old, of 443 West 81st street, died last night in St. George's hospital of burns he received when he was trapped with a playmate, Walter Maenza, 5, of 454 West 82d street, in a tunnel under a pile of blazing logs in the rear of 8216 Vincennes avenue.

Maenza, also in the hospital, was given a fifty-fifty chance by physicians in his battle for life.

Trapped by Blazing Log.

With a group of other children from the neighborhood, the boys yesterday afternoon dug a tunnel under a pile of logs and old railroad ties on a plot of land between the alley in the rear of 8216 Vincennes avenue and an adjoining railroad embankment.

They crawled in and out of the tunnel for a while and then some one set fire to the logs, after which the children pretended the tunnel was a bomb shelter.

Pretty soon the tunnel got hot. The children scrambled out—all but Norman and Walter. Before they could get out, a blazing log fell across the entrance to the tunnel, trapping them inside.

Extricated by Firemen.

They finally were extricated from the tunnel by firemen, headed by Capt. Patrick McGovern of engine company 73.

Gresham police took them to the hospital, where Norman died a short time later.

News of his death stunned his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Dewey. Wednesday their 4 day old son, James, died of a skull fracture resulting from a premature birth.

The dead boy was a nephew of Sgt. William Barron of the East Chicago avenue police.

WAVE OF PIGEON DEATHS BLAMED ON POISONER

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—An unknown person, spreading poison in the vicinity of St. Patrick's cathedral and in Central park was called the pigeon killer of New York today.

Police and civilians were asked to be on the lookout for any one tossing small seeds, looking like wheat, about the streets and in parks after postmortem examinations disclosed the pigeons had been poisoned. Deliberate poisoning of pigeons is a felony in New York.

Twenty pigeons were found dead at 5th avenue and 50th street yesterday.

Germans Raid London Amid Blitz Scenes

LONDON, Jan. 22 [Saturday].—(AP).—In Britain's biggest air show since the days of 1940-'41 the German air force raided London and the southeast coast last night and lost eight planes—the most shot down in an enemy night raid in 10 months. Early today air raid sirens wailed and flashes of gunfire lighted the pre-dawn sky in a second raid. The all-clear was sounded within less than an hour.

Many casualties were reported in the London area, including a mother and two babies who were injured when a bomb wrecked the rear of a house directly opposite a well-filled surface shelter. Persons trapped in the shelter were extricated by rescue workers.

Longest Raid Since Oct. 7.

The first raid was the longest since Oct. 7, when 60 Nazi planes crossed the channel, and shells bursting over London could be seen from 20 miles away.

The raiders dropped a number of flares, one cluster coming down together in one spot and silhouetting the dome of St. Paul's cathedral.

Flee Toward Thames.

More raiders than at any time in months seemed to have reached the London suburbs but the barrage held most of them there and, flying almost at housetop levels to escape the flak, they fled back toward the Thames estuary. While the spectacular raid was puny according to present day standards the fierceness of the barrage excited Londoners.

SALE OF NANCY'S FURNITURE NETS HEIRESS $3,600

NASSAU, Bahamas, Jan. 21 (AP).—All of Nancy Oakes de Marigny's household articles were sold today for $3,600 in spirited bidding at a public auction, and reliable reports from official quarters stated that the once "penniless" heiress had won back restricted control of her $12,000 annual income.

An American artist, Frederick Soldwedel, bought two hurricane shades on a bid of $22. The shades figured prominently in the trial of Nancy's husband, Alfred, who was acquitted of the murder of his wealthy father-in-law, Harry Oakes. He claimed he might have burned hairs on his arms while lighting candles in them the night Oakes' burned and beaten body was found.

Mrs. de Marigny will be permitted to take the proceeds of the auction and any savings bank balance she may have to Havana, where she lives with her husband. It was reported that the exchange control board also will permit her to withdraw amounts needed for medical and living expenses from the $1,000 monthly her father directed that she be paid.

VICTIM'S TWO SAFETY BOXES WILL BE OPENED

Key to Slaying May Be in Purse.

The many sided inquiry into the murder of Mrs. Frank Starr Williams, rich wife of a state department attache, in her room in the Drake hotel, turned last night to two safety deposit boxes which she had rented there only a few hours before she was fatally shot by a fur clad woman Wednesday evening.

The slayer, a "gray haired, middle aged woman, wearing a black Persian lamb coat, and flowers in her hat or hair," fired four shots, two of which were aimed at her victim's daughter, Mrs. Patricia Goodbody. These bullets missed. The assassin escaped.

Whether the safety boxes will yield secrets bearing on the murder case is problematical. It is predicted by friends of the slain woman that they will disclose considerable jewelry, perhaps as much as $30,000 worth.

Purse Believed in One.

One of the boxes is believed to contain a purse, and in that purse detectives hope they will find clews to the identity of the slayer. The boxes will be opened by Coroner A. L. Brodie at 11 a. m. today. One of the puzzles detectives hope to solve is why Mrs. Williams rented the boxes so long after her arrival from Washington. She registered at the Drake on Jan. 6, leased the boxes Jan. 19, 13 days later, and was fatally shot that night.

It is said that Mrs. Williams was fond of jewelry, and often wore valuable gems altho cautioned by friends against such display. When shot, Mrs. Williams was wearing an $8,000 diamond ring.

Investigation yesterday broadened, but with inconclusive results. An "international" angle was mentioned, and a luncheon conversation was repeated. Two "suspicious" cars were investigated, the Drake's guest registry was scrutinized, and phone calls from Mrs. Williams' room were traced. A preliminary inquest was held.

Consider Lie Detector Tests.

In addition, Assistant State's Atty. Joseph A. Pope said that as a routine measure, several witnesses may be asked to submit to lie detector tests to clarify minor points in the case. Pope added that he had asked William J. Welsh, attorney for the Williams family, to inform Mrs. Goodbody that police wish her, among others, to take the test. Welsh's reply is expected today. The tests are not compulsory.

At the end of the day science was called into the case, and crime laboratory technicians took over room 836, eighth floor scene of the slaying in the Drake. For one thing, police reported, it was established that the first bullet, fired in the bathroom at Mrs. Goodbody was fired at a distance of probably 18 inches.

Two of the day's developments touched upon [1] the luncheon conversation, and [2] the suggestion that the mysterious gunwoman might have entered Mrs. Williams' apartment while Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Goodbody were there, rather than while they were out, as had generally been surmised.

Conversation in Restaurant.

The conversation took place between Mrs. Williams and her daughter in a Michigan avenue restaurant at luncheon on Jan. 12. It aroused the interest of a waitress, Mrs. Julia O'Hare, 47 East Division street, who reported it to the police. After talking to the daughter, police said the talk concerned $2,000 but there was no mystery about it. Mrs. Goodbody's husband, Lewis J. Goodbody, a broker in Bombay, India, had written Mrs. Williams asking her to advance $2,000 to his wife so that she might rejoin him in Bombay. Because of the war, Goodbody could not send the money out of India. The two women had debated whether $2,000 was enough.

The second development bore upon what is perhaps the most puzzling element in the entire case—the unlocked door to Mrs. Williams' room. When Mrs. Williams returned to the room with her daughter, she found the door unlocked, and was disturbed because she knew she had not left it so.

Mrs. Goodbody has told how she visited the bathroom twice, and on the second visit discovered the assassin lurking behind the bathroom door. The woman began shooting.

At first, police assumed that the woman slayer had entered Mrs. Williams' room during her absence, and had hidden in the bathroom to await her return. This seemed to explain the unlocked door.

Yesterday, it was learned that Mrs. Goodbody had not noticed anyone behind the door on her first visit to the bathroom. This fact altered much of the preliminary reconstruction of the crime.

If, as it now appears, the slayer was not in the bathroom on Mrs. Goodbody's first visit, it is not certain that the slayer entered the apartment before Mrs. Williams' return. It is possible, police said, that the assassin entered the room while Mrs. Williams and her daughter were in the bedroom.

This probability was further strengthened by the fact that when Mrs. Williams discovered her door unlocked, she became flustered and left her key in the lock on the outside of the door.

First information concerning the new time for the assassin's entrance was suggested at a conference at the Ambassador hotel. Present were Mrs. Williams' sister, Mrs. Louise Roos, wife of Col. Robert A. Roos, retired, of Burlingame, Cal.; Joseph A. Pope, assistant state's attorney; John L. Sullivan, chief of detectives; Capt. Frank Reynolds, and Lt. John Quinn of the Chicago avenue station, and family friends.

Sister Tells of Warning.

Mrs. Roos told the authorities "everybody adored my sister," and said no one could have had a motive to kill her. Unless, she added, it was thieves.

"I often warned her against wearing her jewelry in public," she said. Mrs. Williams was a happy, relaxed woman, Mrs. Roos said, but "had strong convictions, and was very frank in her views if she thought some one was doing wrong."

Mrs. Roos recalled that her sister had written an 800 page manuscript of her life in Japan with her husband, when in the years before Pearl Harbor, he was an American attache in Tokio. This book was too candidly written, said Mrs. Roos, and the state department discouraged its publication. Col. Roos at this point suggested that because of her known anti-Japanese sentiments, Mrs. Williams' death might have had some international motivation. Police earlier had discounted this theory.

Uncle Distillery Official.

Mrs. Roos' description of her sister as happy was confirmed by other relatives and friends. The extent of her wealth has not been revealed, but it is believed that the bulk of it came from her late uncle, Joseph S. Rosenfield, a vice president of the Sunny Brook Distillery company. Her father was Isadore Swabaker, formerly of Wheeling, W. Va.

Mrs. Williams' former husband, Edgar R. Born, chairman of M. Born & Son, tailors, whom she divorced in 1936, one month before becoming the wife of Williams, said last night he had no idea of her wealth. He assumed it came from whisky stock. He doubted she had insurance, he said, "because she didn't believe in it." Born is the father of Mrs. Goodbody and another daughter, Miss Elizabeth Born, who has been married and divorced twice.

Earlier in the day Coroner Brodie presided at a brief inquest in a south side undertaking establishment. Mrs. Williams' husband, and her two daughters attended, as well as Williams' brother, Keith, of Vicksburg, Miss., and several witnesses.

Only Two Witnesses Heard.

Only two persons testified, Williams and Stanley A. Cook, 7228 Coles avenue, who was visiting Clyde Brewster, of Lancaster, Pa. in the latter's room near the Williams apartment the night of the shooting. Williams merely identified his wife's body, and said he knew no reason for the slaying. Cook told of hearing the shots, seeing the killer run from the Williams apartment, stuffing what apparently was her gun in her purse. He also told of hearing Mrs. Goodbody scream, "Stop that woman!" He could have stopped her, he admitted, but he was too stunned to act quickly enough. The inquest was postponed to Feb. 8.

The gun, it developed, was at least 33 years old, and its ownership could not be traced because the manufacturer's record did not go back that far. The weapon was found on a fourth floor service landing at 4 a. m. Thursday, more than nine hours after the shooting. Although police searched the building, it is now admitted that they may not have searched that far down.

The only other activities during the day were negative. The register of guests at the Drake was examined, particularly as to those guests who checked out after the shooting, but no clews were found. Phone calls from Mrs. Williams' apartment prior to the shooting, it developed, were made to two hotels, the Blackstone and Ambassador, but no names had been recorded.

At the windup of the second full day of investigation last night, Chief Sullivan commented:

"I am completely mystified."

Other police held the same view, and the last hope theories were that the shooting was a "revenge murder" or a case of mistaken identity.

WILLIAMS' FIRST WIFE IS PATIENT IN NURSING HOME

Front Royal, Va., Jan. 21 [Special].—Mrs. Mabel Macher Williams, first wife of Frank Starr Williams, state department official, whose second wife, Adele Born Williams, was fatally shot Wednesday in a Chicago hotel, [the Drake], has been a patient in Maple Shade, a nursing home here, since Jan. 13.

Mrs. Mary Burruss, who operates the home for people suffering from nervous ailments, said today that the 67 year old Mrs. Williams had entered on the above date and had not been away since. The home, a small institution, is housed in a white frame residence set far back on a hill just outside this city of 12,000.

Mrs. Williams' brother-in-law, Herbert E. Green, president of the Arlington Ice and Fuel company in Baltimore, Md., also said today that his sister-in-law had been brought here on Jan. 13. Police had sought to check her whereabouts when it was disclosed that she had left a private rest home at 2910 Garrison street in Baltimore on Jan. 12 after being admitted there on Aug. 21, 1942.

GIVES SELF UP TO DENY CRIME, THEN CONFESSES

Joseph Malone, 18 years old, 717 South Hermitage avenue, confessed yesterday, police said, that he participated in the attempted robbery and shooting Jan. 4 of Paul Schmitt at the door of Schmitt's bakery at 535 East 79th street. Malone was charged with assault to rob and assault to kill.

Joseph Malone.

Two other defendants in the case, Mrs. Kitty Guiterez, 26, of 629 South Marshfield avenue, and Ralph Cammiso, 30, of 1516 Grenshaw street, were before Judge Joseph H. McGarry in Felony court when Malone and his attorney, Bernard McDonnell walked in. McDonnell said Malone understood he had been implicated and wished to surrender and clear himself because he is to enter military service soon.

Sgt. Timothy O'Connell of the detective bureau arrested Malone outside the courtroom and confronted him with Mrs. Guiterez. The sergeant said Malone confessed he held the gun when Schmitt stepped from the bakery. Judge McGarry continued the cases against Mrs. Guiterez and Cammiso to Feb. 16.

Appellate Court to Rule Monday on Sturch Appeal

The Appellate court Monday will hand down a decision in the appeal of Eddie Sturch, ex-convict and minor Democratic politician, from a sentence of three months in jail and a fine of $200 imposed Feb. 5 when he was found guilty in Criminal court on a malicious mischief charge. He was charged with terrorizing patrons of a tavern at 701 North Clark street, smashing bottles of liquor and firing a couple of aimless shots Dec. 2, 1942.

'LITTLE FELLOW' SEES HIS FINISH IN AP DECISION

New York, Jan. 21 [Special].—Josh L. Horne, one of three directors of the Associated Press who represent small newspapers, declared in an interview today that the federal court decision relaxing the rules for obtaining membership in the news gathering organization would mean the "death of small newspapers." Mr. Horne is a lifelong Democrat who publishes the Rocky Mount, [N. C.] Telegram, a newspaper with 8,000 circulation in a city of 26,000 population.

The southern publisher assailed the government anti-trust suit against the Associated Press on the grounds that it was inspired by Marshall Field for political reasons alone.

Should Be Politics Free.

"The Associated Press, as a cooperative organization whose members embrace all political faiths, should be entirely dissociated with politics," Mr. Horne said.

Mr. Horne recalled that at a meeting of directors of the Associated Press in 1939, Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who is also a member of the board, expressed concern over the discontinuance of the morning Chicago Herald-Examiner, a Hearst publication.

"Col. McCormick, with whom I disagree on many matters including politics, stated before the board at that time," Horne said, "that THE TRIBUNE would not oppose an application for morning paper Associated Press membership if it came from a legitimate, bona fide publisher.

Field Comes in to Fight.

"Marshall Field some time later announced his intention to start a morning newspaper in opposition to THE TRIBUNE, but he admittedly conceived it in a spirit of vindictiveness toward THE TRIBUNE because of its stand on international issues.

"Field's application for a Chicago membership therefore was identified with a political issue, and the government's suit and the subsequent court decision have caused the Associated Press to be associated with the political question. That is unfortunate.

"Furthermore, I don't think anybody could be elected to membership if the federal bureau of investigation pried into AP affairs and was used to get proxies, as in this case. American editors are not easily frightened. If they were they wouldn't be in the newspaper publishing business.

Will End Small Papers.

"That this decision, if allowed to stand, will destroy small town newspapers is unquestionable. The small paper's obligations to the Associated Press are three—to receive the daily press report, to pay assessments, and to report news in its territory.

"The degree of efficiency with which the small newspaper reports the news in its area determines whether another member of the Associated Press is needed in that area. The news which I gather and report to AP from my area is passed on to the publishers of the large metropolitan newspapers.

"THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE pays thousands and thousands of dollars to Associated Press for the same news which I get for $100 from AP. I gather part of that news and I get the AP report cheaper because of this. If this court decision stands I will be compelled to give the news I have gathered to anybody.

Thus Loses Property Right.

"If that happens THE TRIBUNE and other big newspapers will not pay heavy assessments. I am thus losing my property rights in something that has a very real value.

"The metropolitan press, with large incomes, will not be damaged materially if the Associated Press is broken up. Col. McCormick always can turn to other organizations for news. But the small newspapers will die. I may be compelled to turn my news over to be posted in every poolroom and bank lobby in Rocky Mount. Who will want to read my newspaper then? I have as much power on the AP board as Col. McCormick, and I am supporting the Associated Press appeal."

Air Hostess Wed

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 21 (AP).—Blonde Stella Spero McNay, former Transcontinental and Western Airlines hostess, who met her husband, Lt. Col. Joe McNay, when the fighter pilot called for a date with her twin sister, is grounded for life.

This statement was made tonight by the bride when she and Col. McNay stopped in Nashville en route to the air force officer's farm in Missouri for a brief honeymoon. They were married in Lebanon, Tenn., Thursday night with twin sister Jennie as maid of honor.

Flying on a TWA plane last May Col. McNay met Jennie, also an air hostess, and plans were made for a dinner date in New York. He called Jennie to remind her of the engagement—but Jennie had a date for the evening. Twin Stella doubled for the occasion, the couple recalled.

When Col. McNay returned to Lebanon, where he is chief of staff of an air division, a correspondence between the two followed. Shortly before Christmas Stella consented to become Mrs. McNay.

150,000 Tax Delinquents for 1942 Given Notices

County Treasurer Victor L. Schlaeger announced yesterday that his office had mailed notices to 150,000 delinquent 1942 real estate taxpayers. Of the demands for payment 85,000 went to residents of areas outside Chicago. Schlaeger said the number of delinquents is small and the delinquents are principally owners of vacant lots. The 1942 real estate taxes are about 91 per cent paid.

CHARGES LABOR DRAFT PLEA IS POLITICS-BRED

BY LAWRENCE BURD.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Rep. Calvin Johnson [R., Ill.] charged in the house today that President Roosevelt's request for a labor conscription act was an "insincere" political move designed to gain service men's votes for a fourth term.

Rep. Johnson.

"New Deal schemers realize that 10 million soldier votes will control the elections," Johnson said. "They also realize that bungling on the home front has caused a loss of confidence in the administration. Therefore, the soldiers overseas must be impressed. Their votes must be won.

"The soldier resents strikes and labor bickerings and condemns them. In this state of mind political schemers realize soldiers are ripe for suggestions.

Only "News" from OWI.

"The only news they receive other than letters from home is that which the office of war information decides to give them. They are under the leadership of the commander in chief and they must be impressed with his sincerity, so with a grandiloquent gesture, national labor conscription is advocated.

"Advocated, I charge, insincerely and advocated for no reason except to impregnate the mind of the soldier, whose vote is sought, with the belief that the administration is behind him and must force labor to back him also. I consider this inference a reflection on the patriotism of the American worker."

Man Power Crisis Past.

"We have passed the man power crisis," he told the house, "the war man power commission has revised downward its figures of employment needs by hundreds of thousands. We are closing steel mills and banking blast furnaces. We are closing aluminum plants and even munitions industries. I charge that the suggestion of national labor conscription is only one segment of a carefully coördinated program—another segment being the proposed federal controled soldier vote."

Johnson recalled that the New Deal has previously used other methods, such as WPA jobs and subsidies, to "buy election votes," and declared the labor draft plan is part of a "deliberate attempt to build up sensations to impress voters."

IDLE WAR FACTORIES CAN'T BE FREED YET, DONALD NELSON SAYS

Donald M. Nelson, chairman of the war production board, warned the United States Conference of Mayors in the Stevens hotel yesterday that the country is "coming into a period in which there well may be a certain amount of idle manufacturing facilities, idle materials, and scattered pockets of temporarily unemployed men and women."

"Almost certainly, great pressure will be exerted on Washington for permission to use these idle resources in new construction for civilian uses now prohibited," he said. "It would be pleasant to grant permission to go ahead with such projects—but it is a satisfaction which the war production board will have to deny itself a while longer."

The WPB, however, is planning to test the use of small lots of idle materials by small concerns in the production of consumer goods under controled conditions, he said.

Mayor La Guardia of New York was reëlected president of the mayors' conference, and Mayor Kelly of Chicago was reëlected vice president.

Let's Hope There Isn't a Fall Among Them, Too

Bainbridge, Ga., Jan. 21 (AP).—Snow, Blizzard, and Summer came to the Bainbridge air field the same day. D. F. Snow of Danbury, Conn., P. D. Summer of Louisville, Ky., and Robert Blizzard of Los Angeles arrived in the latest class of basic cadets.

CIRCUIT JUDGES DENY DIVORCES BY DEPOSITION

Circuit court judges in Chicago decided yesterday not to change the rule that plaintiffs in divorce cases must appear in court. Judge Harry M. Fisher proposed the change to permit soldiers to obtain divorces on depositions.

Circuit Judge Robert J. Dunne had announced previously that regardless of the court rule he will continue to accept depositions from soldiers who cannot make personal appearances in their cases. Superior court judges agreed a week ago that they will not accept the written testimony.

As a paradox to the Circuit court judges' decision, the Circuit court yesterday permitted an attorney to file a divorce case by deposition for a soldier in Texas, after it had been refused Thursday in the Superior court. There is no difference in the court costs.

CITY TO DELAY ACTION ON PAPER MILK CARTONS

Until the Dean Milk company case is definitely settled, no action will be taken by the city council health committee, Ald. Joseph S. Gillespie, chairman, said yesterday in discussing the Illinois Supreme court ruling which held that paper milk containers violated a city ordinance.

Gillespie said the company had time to petition for a rehearing and that it might be appealed to the United States Supreme court. If the decision is affirmed and there is a shortage of glass milk bottles, the council committee will decide what steps to take, Gillespie said.

TOBIN PRESENTS FLORIDA PALACE BACK TO UNION

He'll Live Within His Pay —of $30,000!

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Jan. 21.—Daniel J. Tobin, 69 year old president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, disclosed today that he has deeded back to the union the palatial $45,000 Miami Beach home given him two years ago by his executive board and that the union plans to use it for aged board members and officials.

"It is a monstrosity of beauty, but not the kind of place for plain people like my wife and myself," Tobin said. They now live at a Miami hotel.

"We lived for years in a five room house just outside Indianapolis and I used to drive a team of horses before I became president of the IBT. I don't want a crown of glory. I will stay just as I am and live within my salary." He is paid $30,000 a year and expenses.

Can't Get Help, Anyway.

The union leader also explained that it was impossible to live in the nine room mansion because "you can't hire servants."

"We stayed at the house for several days," he said, "but we didn't feel comfortable. Besides, I felt that the general public and the younger members of the union would not understand this home was a sort of 'living monument' to me, which my union felt I should enjoy during my lifetime."

The house was given to him, he related, after the IBT convention voted several years ago "to do everything possible to preserve and possibly lengthen my life, so a committee headed by Dave Beck [west coast vice president of the IBT] set out to buy me a home here as a surprise."

Visits It Frequently.

He said he has been a frequent visitor to the spacious home while attending the current executive board meetings of the American Federation of Labor, of which he is a vice president, but explained: "I just go out there week-ends to putter around in the garden or sit on the lawn and sun myself."

The union, he said, is now trying to purchase vacant property adjoining the estate to build an additional 14 or 15 rooms, because the present house is "too big for a few people and too small for a lot of people."

Hammond Cafes' Ration Points Vanish in Mails

James V. Hall, chairman of the Hammond [Ind.] war price and ration board, has asked Robert Wilhelm, acting Hammond postmaster, to investigate the disappearance of approximately 50,000 ration points which had been mailed to industrial users and restaurants and which may have been stolen from the mails. More than 25 concerns have complained of not receiving their points altho board records showed they were mailed out, said Hall.

TRIBUNE DROPS SATURDAY ADS ON HELP WANTED

Big Volume, Lack of Paper Force Cut

Starting today, THE TRIBUNE will discontinue publishing "help wanted" classified advertisments in its Saturday editions. This decision was forced by ever increasing newsprint restrictions and a steady increase in "help wanted" advertising volume.

Every day except Saturdays, "help wanted" ads will be accepted and published. No other want ad classifications are affected.

Must Cut Use 23 Per Cent.

In making the announcement, Chesser M. Campbell, advertising manager of THE TRIBUNE, said that if it weren't for rationing of newsprint, THE TRIBUNE would be carrying each day thousands of lines of advertising that now cannot be printed. He said that in the current first quarter of 1944 THE TRIBUNE must use 23 per cent less newsprint than it did in the same quarter a year ago, but by employing new ideas and economies, the total volume of advertising carried will remain nearly as great as last year.

Out of Proportion.

Campbell explained that "help wanted" advertising volume was increasing far beyond its just proportion in the face of paper rationing, and if the increase were permitted to continue, "help wanted" ads would use newsprint at the expense of other types of advertising. The decision to omit help wanted advertisments on Saturdays was made only in the interests of adjusting this disproportion.

The omission of such ads on Saturdays will furnish an extra five full pages to all other types of advertising each week.

PAPER PROTESTS FILM SEIZURE BY ARMY OFFICERS

Birmingham, Ala., Jan. 21 (AP).—Charles A. Fell, managing editor of the Birmingham News and Age-Herald, said today that a formal protest had been made to the war department over the interference by army officers with a staff photographer assigned to take pictures of a bomber crash.

The protest described the action of a group of officers who seized the photographer's camera and destroyed the film of a picture made of the wreckage. The camera was later returned.

It set forth that the action of the officers was illegal and in contradiction to orders of the war department and the office of censorship to the effect that pictures of army airplane wrecks occurring on private property may be obtained without interference by army authorities.

Nine men were killed and a tenth was injured in the crash a mile southwest of the Birmingham army air base. The plane, a B-24 Liberator, was based at Will Rogers field, Oklahoma City, Okla.

AFL VOWS FIGHT ON LABOR LAWS IT DOESN'T LIKE

BY GEORGE HARTMANN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Miami, Fla., Jan. 21.—The executive council of the American Federation of Labor today received a report from Joseph Padway, AFL counsel, on the federation's fight in the courts of states in which legislation considered by the federation to be detrimental to labor's interests has been passed.

The AFL has instituted suits in the courts of Kansas, Colorado, Texas, Florida, Alabama, Idaho, South Dakota, Arkansas, Minnesota, Michigan, Massachusetts, and Pennsylvania, where labor union control legislation in varied forms has been passed.

Padway said that regardless of how the state courts decide the cases, every federal issue involved will be taken to the United States Supreme court for final determination.

Incorporation Provided.

In general the laws controling labor unions provide for incorporation, licenses to operate, restrictions and prohibitions on strikes and picketing, and control of books and records of unions by demands for periodic accountings. Padway said his general defense in all the cases is that the laws are in "abrogation of workers' rights under the Constitution."

Paul Robeson, Negro, singer and movie actor, who is a member of Actors' Equity, an AFL organization, was labeled "antagonistic to the AFL" by William Green, AFL president, during his press conference today.

The New York City central body of the AFL notified the executive board that Robeson had received honorary membership in several CIO organizations, including the National Maritime union, the International Longshoremens' union, and the State, County, and Municipal Workers union.

Council Held Powerless.

"Robeson has appeared in various parts of the country where we have tried to organize Negro workers in plants and has swung them over to the CIO," Green said. "He is an AFL member who also has membership in CIO unions which are a 'bit on the red side.'

"We of the council cannot do anything about him. It is up to Actors' Equity, his own organization to deal with his case."

Sentenced to Jail Term for Restaurant Burglary

Municipal Judge Mason S. Sullivan in Boys court yesterday sentenced Vito Zavala, 18 years old, 2154 North Halsted street, to three months in the Bridewell, and ordered his companion, Charles Martin, 17, of 714 Webster avenue, put under court supervision until Sept. 22 for the burglary of a restaurant at 367 East Grand avenue Jan. 20.

Divorce Granted

Mrs. Edna Elrod with her daughter, Lynn Ellen, in the county building yesterday.

Mrs. Edna Elrod, 33 years old, 6209 Blackstone avenue, was granted a divorce yesterday by Judge John A. Sbarbaro, of the Superior court, from her husband, Lee, 35, a war worker employed in Los Angeles, Cal. Questioned by Atty. Irving Eisenman, she testified that Elrod forced her and their child, Lynn, 3, out of their Hollywood home on May 3, 1942. She then came to Chicago. At a previous hearing, Atty. A. S. Frankenstein, for Elrod, challenged Mrs. Elrod's right to sue for divorce in Chicago on the ground that she was a resident of California. The question was dropped yesterday, however, and the decree was granted on the ground of desertion. Mrs. Elrod waived alimony.

1 DEAD, 13 HURT AS FIRE TRUCK AND BUS CRASH

Five firemen were hurt, one of them fatally, and nine bus passengers were injured yesterday in the collision of a fire truck and a Chicago and West Towns Railway motor bus at Ogden avenue and Austin boulevard, in Cicero.

The bus passengers, most of them women, were found at Berwyn hospital to be suffering minor injuries. Fireman Arthur Baker died of his injuries. The other firemen, Lt. William Zahrobsky, George Tiechman, James Kazel, and Morton Stevens were seriously hurt. They were traveling south on Austin boulevard en route to a prairie fire at 61st court and 37th street in Cicero.

The bus driver, Alfred Conrad, 3126 Clarence avenue, Berwyn, said he was traveling west on Ogden avenue and that the fire truck was sounding no bell or siren. The bus is 20 years old.

Joseph W. Sinnott of 7956 Prairie avenue identified the body of a man who was killed by an automobile Jan. 12 as that of his father, William Sinnott, 80, of 734 North La Salle street. Sinnott was hit by a car driven by Miss Marie Hagdahl of 1318 Argyle street. The widow, Mary, lives with a daughter, Mrs. Clara Ortell, at 1401 West 67th street.

When the Chicago Theater of the Air presents the operetta "Belle of New York" tonight in Medinah temple every member in the cast of 100—even the engineers and producers in the control room—will be attired in costumes reminiscent of the turn of the century, the period portrayed in Gustave Kerker's work. Marion Claire will star as Violet, James Gerard will portray the male lead, and Angelo Raffaelli and Earl Wilkie will sing supporting roles. Henry Weber will conduct the orchestra and chorus.

A feature of the broadcast will be the singing of the Four Harmonizers, champions of the Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Singing in America, Inc. The members: Leo Ives, Charles F. Schwab, Harold K. Sinclair, and Fred W. Stein.

Hull Again Denounces Report on Latin Spending

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull reaffirmed today his criticism of Sen. Butler's [R., Neb.] attack on government boondoggling and war spending in Latin America. ICKES AID SAYS HE'LL APPEAR IN LETTER MYSTERY

BY JOHNSON KANADY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—George N. Briggs, suspended confidential aid to Interior Secretary Ickes and the mystery man of the "Hopkins letter" affair, will confer with justice department officials Monday, Henry A. Schweinhaut, special assistant attorney general, announced today.

C. Nelson Sparks.

Schweinhaut said he received a telegram signed by Briggs at noon today, saying the missing key figure in the letter mystery would call on Schweinhaut Monday at 10 a. m. The telegram was sent from New York.

The attorney said he "assumed" that Briggs is coming back to Washington to appear before a grand jury in the letter mystery. The jury is investigating charges made by Harry Hopkins, confidant of President Roosevelt, that a letter purportedly written by Hopkins, in which the Republican nomination of Wendell Willkie is predicted, is a forgery.

Subpena Issued.

A subpena was issued for Briggs on Tuesday, Schweinhaut said, but was not served personally because of inability to find Briggs. C. Nelson Sparks has said Briggs acted as agent for Ickes in procuring the alleged Hopkins letter for publication in Spark's book, "One Man—Wendell Willkie."

Schweinhaut said the Briggs' subpena was slipped under the door at Briggs' home in near-by Virginia when court officials were unable to locate Briggs. It was issued for Briggs' appearance before the grand jury last Wednesday, Schweinhaut said.

"When he didn't appear, I assumed he hadn't received the subpena," Schweinhaut said. He asserted the telegram today was the first definite indication his office has had of Briggs' whereabouts, despite published reports Briggs has been in custody.

Voluntary Appearance.

"I gather Briggs has now received the subpena," Schweinhaut said. He added, however, that there is a possibility that Briggs has not gotten the notice, and is volunteering to return. In any case, Schweinhaut said, Briggs' appearance Monday will be voluntary "from all practical purposes."

Hopkins, whose charge that the celebrated letter is a forgery has been supported by the justice department, testified for 10 minutes before the grand jury today. His appearance at the courthouse with Schweinhaut and G. Maynard Smith, both special assistants to the attorney general in charge of the investigation, was a surprise.

After leaving the jury room, Hopkins told reporters: "Obviously I can't discuss what I told the grand jury. But I can repeat what I said before. This letter is a forgery. There is a forger in this picture. I think I know who the forger is. That's all I want to say."

Pale and Haggard.

Hopkins would not elaborate on who the "forger" is. Hopkins, who came to the courthouse from Bethesda naval hospital, where he is a patient, appeared pale and haggard. He is said to have gone immediately back to the hospital after testifying.

Frank Phillips, chairman of the board of the Phillips Petroleum company of Bartlesville, Okla., who, according to alleged correspondence from Briggs to Sparks, once had the controversial letter, was another witness today. He told reporters he has never seen the letter, doesn't know Briggs, never met Sparks, and never met Dr. Umphrey Lee, president of Southern Methodist university, to whom the "Hopkins letter" was addressed. Dr. Lee has denied receiving the letter.

Phillips came to the courthouse voluntarily soon after lunch. He was in the jury room five minutes. He told reporters he came without being called because he understood he would be subpenaed if he did not appear.

SOUTH SIDE RAPS EXPRESS STREET SYSTEM PLANS

Plans for an extensive express highway system for Chicago's post-war needs were explained yesterday before the city council committee on traffic and public safety and immediately brought objections from representatives of two sections of the city.

H. Evert Kincaid, executive director of the Chicago Plan commission, told committee members of the 260 million dollar post-war plan which provides for 67 miles of express highways to serve all parts of the city, and connect with routes outside the city. Fifteen years would be required to complete the development.

Sections of the plan which brought objections yesterday were the southeast route which would extend from the present Outer drive and the proposed south route in Halsted street.

Aldermen Nicholas J. Bohling [7th] and Roy E. Olin [8th] led in opposing the southeast route. This proposed route would attach to the Outer drive just north of Jackson Park, follow a new highway to be cut thru the park, extend along the lake shore to 71st street, then cut west in back of the new filtration plant and the steel mills.

The aldermen complained this route would destroy beach and recreational facilities along the lake front and would lower property values in an area where they are unusually high.

Ald. Arthur G. Lindell [9th] argued that high property values would forbid construction of the proposed south route in Halsted street.

NEW DEAL ASKS $100 PLEDGES TO 'HELP WIN WAR'

Financial support of the Democratic party is necessary to win the war, according to form letters urging contributions of $100 each for "complimentary" tickets to the Jackson day dinner in Washington, D. C. tonight. A disabled naval officer complained to THE TRIBUNE of the pressure put on him for a donation.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Vice President Wallace, Secretary of Interior Ickes, and Secretary of State Hull are among those whose names are printed on the letters as members of the Jackson day committee of the capitol. Other cabinet members and a dozen Democratic senators including Sen. Lucas of Illinois are named as sponsors of the fund drive.

Signed by Joseph Davies.

Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia, signs the letters as treasurer of the committee. Excerpts follow:

"The Democratic national committee has announced the formation of Jackson day committees thruout the country.

"The 1944 elections will be the most important of our times. It is the duty and privilege of every citizen to dedicate his efforts to an ultimate and complete victory of the allied nations.

"An integral part of that duty is the active participation in the 1944 elections, for these elections will determine whether or not the administration of the war, as well as the vital peace settlements to follow, shall continue under the successful direction of the party which recognized the dictators' threat to American liberties, and which has carried us thus far toward victory."

"Welcome" for $100.

This letter concluded by saying that all who complied with directions on an inclosed pledge card [to contribute $100] were welcomed at the "complimentary" dinner.

The final missive started with an ominous "the committee has not had a response to its communications" and again implied that this was a sure way to lose the war.

"We are confident you desire to continue your support of the Democratic party. As an instrumentality of progressive government it must be able to continue to perform its invaluable service for the nation. We must win the war. We must guide the peace to come in accordance with the principles of democracy.

Termed "Improper Procedure."

But at least one recipient of these "win the war" appeals did not respond.

"I have neither replied nor complied," the officer told THE TRIBUNE.

"If I am an isolated case it makes no difference. But it seems an improper procedure to put such pressure on a disabled officer who is more than willing to help win the war, but is not willing to help elect Democrats, even tho he is on duty in Washington."

Officer, Lawyer to Oppose Representative S. A. Day

Col. Edward Davis of Evanston and William J. Condon of LaGrange yesterday announced that they intend to run against the Republican organization candidate for congressman-at-large, Rep. Stephen A. Day. Davis, formerly an executive of Goldblatt's department stores, said he is resigning as state purchasing agent, the duties of which were circumscribed by a recent reorganizaton. Condon, a lawyer, said he was a Democrat until 1940 but rebelled against the third term.

of state, against State Treasurer William G. Stratton.

Horan said last night, however, that attempts will be made to get Hughes' name on the ballot for secretary of state. Mayor Kelly, leader of the Cook county Democrats, was on his way to Washington last night.

Late yesterday the subcommittee on candidates reported that it had voted unanimously to draft Dempsey for state's attorney, altho he still was saying "No." All 80 ward and township committeemen have been invited to a special meeting today to add to the insistence.

Republican leaders, including Gov. Green, did not see how Dempsey could withstand the pressure. A "home body" devoted to his four children, Dempsey has shied away from various possible candidacies and already has arranged to manage the campaign of Gov. Green and that of Arnold P. Benson for secretary of state.

As public administrator of Cook county, with a private law practice yielding more than the $15,000 a year salary of state's attorney, it was conceded that Dempsey stands to lose money as a candidate.

Dempsey served more than five years as an assistant state's attorney under Republican regimes and was said to be a hard hitting prosecutor.

In 1940 he was one of the small minority of Chicago ward committeemen supporting Green for governor in the primary. That battle won, Dempsey was elected chairman of the county committee and since has had the respect of Gov. Green.

F. D. R. HAS WORD FOR 4TH TERM DRAFT—IT'S 'OH'

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21—Democratic leaders today presented a resolution to President Roosevelt favoring a fourth term nomination, but said they heard only a noncommittal "O" in reply.

Presentation of the resolution, which had been adopted by a group of midwestern Democrats, capped a round of activities preliminary to the Democratic national committee meeting tomorrow, when Robert E. Hannegan of St. Louis will be named as the new party chairman to succeed Frank C. Walker, who is ready to resign to devote all his time to the postmaster generalship. The committee is expected to vote to hold the national nominating convention in Chicago in July.

A copy of the resolution was given Mr. Roosevelt at a reception at the White House at which the political leaders and their wives shook hands with him and Mrs. Roosevelt, had tea and sandwiches, and talked briefly in small groups or individually with the chief executive.

Report Coalition Support.

Minnesotans, on leaving the reception, reported they had received the President's blessing on a proposed merger of the Farmer-Labor and Democratic parties in their state. Wisconsin members said Mr. Roosevelt told them he favored a similar coalition of Democrats and Progressives there.

Elmer F. Kelm, Minnesota state chairman, and Elmer Benson, former Farmer-Labor governor and senator from that state, called on the President before the White House reception and told him of the plans to unite the Democrats and Farmer-Laborites in that state. Kelm later told reporters the President gave the step his blessing.

President Says "O."

Kelm also said he showed the President the fourth term resolution adopted by the western group and the President would not not comment, but said "O."

Thomas R. King, national committeeman and state chairman of Wisconsin, said he told the President about the Wisconsin situation with respect to Democrats and Progressives and the President favored a coalition of the two.

Edward J. [Paving Block] Flynn, New York committeeman and predecessor to Walker as national chairman, laughed when reporters asked him whether there was any talk of a fourth term at the reception.

"You fellows have been trying to get that out of him for a long time," he replied. "Who am I?"

Expect Harmonious Session.

The midwestern group's adoption of the fourth term resolution removed virtually all possibility of any disharmony at tomorrow's meeting since it also indorsed Hannegan for national chairman.

Hannegan was advanced because the President insists that the party chairman must be an Irish Catholic. James A. Farley, the man who put Roosevelt in the White House, is an Irish Catholic. The fact that Hannegan, like Farley, does not drink or smoke was also in his favor.

Democrats say that any resemblance between the two men ends there. Hannegan hasn't genial Jim's organizational genius, magnetic personality, or political acumen.

Farley Not Interested.

Farley, who broke with Mr. Roosevelt on the third term issue, was in town as Democratic committeemen and women were gathering for tomorrow's meeting, but showed no interest in the organization of the fourth term machinery.

The New Dealers had hoped to tie Farley into the fourth term drive some way or other during the visit. However, the New York state Democratic committeeman spurned invitations to meet with the committee, attend the White House tea for the party chiefs, or go to the $100 a plate Democratic fund raising Jackson day dinner tomorrow night.

Farley left late in the afternoon without putting out $100 for a dinner ticket. And it wasn't for lack of money, because the former postmaster general is now selling Coca-Cola at $50,000 a year.

Unanimous on 4th Term.

National committeemen and state chairmen from 13 states attended the meeting of the midwestern conference. Chairman James C. Quigley said the fourth term resolution was approved unanimously.

Most of the committeemen have sized up the campaign as certain to be a fourth term effort. A few, however, expressed the private opinion that President Roosevelt would look over the situation at convention time before making a decision whether to run again. These leaders agreed that if the party prospects did not look promising at that time, the chief executive would decline to run.

ANTI-4TH TERM DRIVE PLANNED FOR DEMOCRATS

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 21 (AP).—Robert O'Brien, Des Moines, Ia., president of Tabor college and former secretary of state in Iowa, is quoted in a World-Herald interview as saying a drive will be launched in Chicago next month to consolidate anti-administration Democrats in their stand against a fourth term.

O'Brien is reported to have said the campaign will be started Feb. 4, when Harry Woodring of Topeka, Kas., former secretary of war, is scheduled to speak before the Chicago Executives' club.

O'Brien was quoted as saying:

"The move started with the private conversations of a few people who were disturbed about the future of our country. They felt a fourth term and a continuance of certain New Deal policies would mean the extinction of the republic."

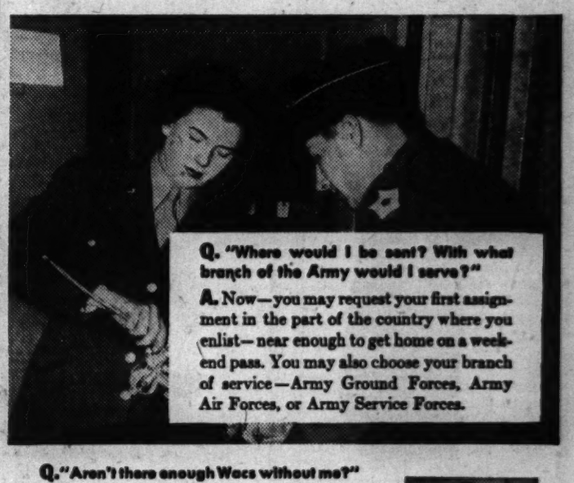
Is this what you've wondered about the WAC?

Q. "What kind of job would I do?"

A. Any one of 239 types of Army jobs. All kinds of special skills are needed—clerical workers, medical technicians, mechanics, teachers. Women without experience can get expert Army training—in skills for which they have natural aptitude.



Q. "Where would I be sent? With what branch of the Army would I serve?"

A. Now—you may request your first assignment in the part of the country where you enlist—near enough to get home on a week-end pass. You may also choose your branch of service—Army Ground Forces, Army Air Forces, or Army Service Forces.

Q. "Aren't there enough Wacs without me?"

A. No! General Marshall says: "Many thousands more Wacs are needed." Unless more women join at once, the War Department cannot meet the demands which come in daily from Army Ground Forces, Army Service Forces, and Army Air Forces.

CEILING PRICES ON VEGETABLES ORDERED BY OPA

Limits on Seven Go Into Effect Next Month.

Ceiling prices on seven fresh vegetables will go into effect next month in an effort to prevent sharp increases in price during the winter and early spring, the office of price administration announced yesterday in Washington.

The vegetables to get a cents per pound or bunch ceiling price are carrots, spinach, peas, snap beans, egg plant, peppers and cucumbers. The regulations are expected to be expanded soon to bring six other vegetables—lima beans, cabbage, lettuce, cauliflower, celery, and tomatoes—under the same type of control.

Pegging Schedule Announced.

Chester Bowles, price administrator, announced a schedule yesterday for pegging the retail prices. The schedule fixes ceilings at all sales levels prior to retail and will be the basis for retail prices to be set in February.

Bowles said that next month local OPA offices will announce community prices in cents per pound, varying slightly thru the season as prices normally vary.

"The new regulation provides a solid framework for stabilizing retail prices over fresh vegetables," he said. "Because these products are perishable and seasonal and are shipped from widely scattered growing areas, they are the most difficult items in the cost of living to control."

Estimated Chicago Prices.

The Chicago office of the OPA said that a preliminary survey indicated that the following ceiling prices would become effective in the Chicago metropolitan district:

Carrots, 10 cents a bunch, January thru May; spinach, 14 cents a pound, January thru June; peas, 25 cents a pound, January thru March; snap beans, 24 cents a pound in January and February; egg plant, 16 cents a pound, January to July 15; peppers, 20 cents a pound, January thru May; cucumbers, 18½ cents a pound, January thru March.

These prices are under the community ceiling prices placed on beans, carrots, peas, and spinach on a week to week basis in the metropolitan area by the OPA for the last nine or 10 weeks. This area includes Lake, Cook, and Du Page counties in Illinois and Lake county, Ind. The prices listed are for the smallest stores and in larger markets may be lower, OPA said.

DODGE MILK COUPONS

BY FLOYD NORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Coupon rationing of milk will be avoided this year if dealers in 112 marketing areas keep within quotas based on June, 1943, consumption, the office of war information said today. Chicago is one of the areas. June consumption was the highest in history.

In a comprehensive report on the milk supply, based on data from the agriculture department, war food administration, and the office of price administration, OWI said that production in the next four or five months will be adequate to meet dealers' quotas in most markets.

"It is too early to tell what the production will be in the late summer and fall of 1944," OWI said. "However, if dealers and consumers coöperate in the quota program, there should be no need to resort to coupon rationing on any market, according to WFA and OPA."

Ready to Ration, Tho.

OPA officials recently said they have plans ready to institute milk rationing in any area where WFA determines it is necessary. They said the supply prospect is "gloomy" in several areas.

The WFA quotas limit deliveries to consumers to 100 per cent of fluid milk they received last June, 75 per cent of cream, and 75 per cent of milk by-products. Dealers' sales are similarly restricted.

OWI reported that fluid milk and cream consumption has reached an all time high. Consumers [not living on farms] used 39½ billion pounds of milk last year, besides milk products such as cheese, ice cream, and butter. On-the-farm use took 22 billion pounds; butter makers, 34 billion; cheddar cheese makers, 7.8 billion; evaporated milk, 6.6 billion, and ice cream, 4.2 billion pounds.

Expect Production Decline.

With consumption rising steadily, production in 1944 is expected to decline to 116 billion pounds on the basis of present production trends, according to the bureau of agricultural economics. This output would be 1 billion 800 million pounds less than in 1943.

OWI noted, however, that WFA said production might be raised to 122 billion pounds of milk this year—a record high—if farmers meet their goal to increase milk herds by 2 per cent and raise production per cow by 50 pounds for the year. The feed supply will determine whether this goal is met, WFA said.

TWO SHIPS CRASH OFF EAST COAST; ONE IS SET AFIRE

Crew Flees Vessel; No Casualties Reported.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 21 (AP).—One of two merchant ships involved in a collision off the Delaware capes this evening caught fire and was abandoned by her crew an hour later, the 4th naval district announced tonight. The navy said it received no report of casualties.

The navy withheld identity and destination of the vessels involved in the collision. It said navy and coast guard ships were dispatched to the scene, about five miles off Cape Henlopen, Del., and stood by while men were taken off the burning ship. Survivors were landed at Lewes, Del.

Residents of Rehoboth Beach, Del., said flames from the burning ship were clearly visible from the waterfront. At 9 p. m., approximately three hours after the fire was first seen, it appeared to be subsiding.

The collision was the third involving ships off the Delaware-New Jersey coasts within two months.

Sixty-nine bodies were recovered and 46 other navy men were reported missing after the navy patrol boat St. Augustine, a converted yacht, sank after a collision Jan. 6.

Twenty men, 10 of them navy personnel, were killed or listed as missing after the tanker Altair caught fire after a collision with the tanker Bostonian last Nov. 21.

SOLDIERS' VOTE BY STATES GOES TO HOUSE FLOOR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—The Vursell bill retaining supervision of voting by service men and women in state hands in this year's elections was reported to the house today by the rules committee. Rep. Worley [D., Tex.], leading advocate of federal control over service voting, conceded defeat for his plan in the house.

The house is expected to consider the measure Tuesday, and the senate, which last month killed the administration supported federal vote bill, may also take up this legislation again next week.

Back New Lucas Bill.

The senate elections committee yesterday revived the question by approving a new bill, sponsored by Sen. Lucas [D., Ill.], for federal regulation. Senate leaders were undecided tonight whether this measure or a bill to outlaw food subsidies will be first on the calendar Monday.

The rules committee, headed by Rep. Sabath [D., Ill.] recommended four hours of house debate on the Vursell vote measure, with additional time for amendments.

Worley, chairman of the house elections committee, told the rules group he will seek to substitute on the floor his bill, providing for the use of uniform federal ballots, including only federal offices and carrying no names of candidates.

Expects It to Lose.

"My bill was defeated in the elections committee and I expect it will be defeated in the house," Worley said.

The Vursell bill prescribes that state ballots, carrying the names of all candidates — from President to constable—shall be sent to service men and women who request them thru postal card applications to be distributed by the army and navy. It recommends specific changes in state absentee balloting laws to give all military personnel a chance to vote.

Vursell told the rules committee that administration stalwarts have delayed action on soldiers' vote legislation for nearly two months while they built up "a propaganda machine to smear and browbeat those opposing the 'bob-tailed' federal ballot which would sell the soldiers short."

"Joining in this compaign," Vursell said, "has been every Communist league and all the Reds and radicals in America."

Oh, Yeah?

WAC AND WAVES FALTER IN DRIVE TO GET RECRUITS

Women's Apathy to Them a War Mystery.

One is the women marines, which has a quota of 18,000 enlisted women and 1,000 officers by June 30 and already has 13,210 enlisted women and 654 officers. The other is the women pilots or WASP, which has 1,000 members, a waiting list of 1,300, thousands of applications, and the ability to absorb only 100 a month. It has curtailed all recruiting until January, 1945.

There's Drama and Glamor.

Both of these organizations contain elements of drama and glamor. The women marines train at the same camp as men, handle guns, practice amphibious landings in Higgins boats, wear smart uniforms made gay by touches of scarlet, and can wear high heeled pumps if they please. They join usually because of a personal interest in marines [male].

The women pilots ferry planes, ranging from training planes to the B-26 or Marauder bomber, work in tow target squadrons for gunnery practice, do highly skilled and dangerous work [several having lost their lives], and wear French blue uniforms with propellor and wings on their lapels and the air corps insignia on their sleeves, all with the status of a civilian employe of civil service. For every woman pilot in the WASP, one male pilot unquestionably is freed for combat duty.

The major women's services are staggering and stumbling along. All had breathless starts, a boom which lasted until April, 1943. By July the WAC, the weather vane for them all, was getting from 300 to 400 girls a week, chicken feed. Gradually all followed suit.

30,000 the First Week.

Yet 13,102 girls signed up for the WAC the day recruiting was thrown open, 30,000 the first week. Army commands, looking over their posts to see where a woman could do a man's work and relieve him for combat duty, found 52,000 niches that week, later found 600,000. A possible tenth of these now are filled by women, for by Jan. 15 the WAC had 63,935 women in khaki, a sad contrast to the 150,000 it had hoped to have.

For a while WAVES recruiting far outdistanced the WAC. Headed by a college president, Capt. Mildred MacAfee [of Wellesley], they went out for the college crop and made a magnificent showing. But by last fall it, too, was slipping, altho it attained its minimum quota, 47,600, by Jan. 1.

Capt. MacAfee does not like to say in so many words that her recruiting has fallen off. She hedges by saying the service could use as many girls as it can get. "WAVES," she said, "are still needed, are needed over and over again, to win the war."

Would Raise Quota.

She now has a quota of 92,400 by the end of 1944 with a recruiting goal of 1,200 girls a week. If this weekly goal is attained—a feat which looks highly improbable on the basis of the present intake—the quota will be raised to 110,000 and happy to do it, ma-am.

The SPAR [semper parata; always ready] has made a better showing. It is, of course, a tiny corps, the women's reserve of the coast guard. Its quota by June 30 is only 8,000. It now has 6,658 girls, 516 of whom are officers.

These girls have done an outstanding piece of work in replacing men. Here in Washington they now outnumber the men of the coast guard two to one, and gradually are replacing all men in the pay and supply divisions at the 12 shore stations thruout the country, the largest complement [529] being in Boston. The majority of them do specialized work and have ratings. Of the 6,658 now enrolled, 90 per cent are on active duty.

A Common Bond.

It is unfair to compare any of the services, for each has its own mode of operation, but the two major ones, the WAC and the WAVES, have a common bond now in their downhill recruiting figures. No one seems to know why, but many possible explanations are offered:

False optimism about the war, opposition by men, the fact that women never have been properly informed on what the corps are doing, the fact that women "just don't give a hoot," the tedium and regimentation of military life. The first three reasons probably are true.

What will they do if the draft does not pass? Col. Hobby flatly says she does not think the corps' quota can be filled by voluntary enlistment. The draft, and probably the draft alone, will save the WAC from costly malnutrition. Capt. MacAfee, more cagey, says merely that she thinks "women will go for it [the draft] if the need arises."

In an effort to ascertain just what the major women's corps, the WAC and WAVES, and the two nursing services have done so far, THE TRIBUNE has made a survey of their work and accomplishments. The survey, to be shown in succeeding articles, may answer women's questions: Are we needed? Why?

LAWYER BLAMES ARMY FOR FLOOD OF NEW DIVORCES

Suggests War Office Act as 'Master.'

New York, Jan. 21 [Special].—The New York State Bar association was told today "the war department has created the impression in the military forces that all a serviceman has to do is write a letter to a lawyer and get a post card back divorcing him."

The report came from Jackson A. Dykman, prominent Brooklyn attorney who is a member of the association's committee on war work and who will be elected without opposition tomorrow as the new president of the organization.

At the same time the committee disclosed it had cleared 2,500 cases of service men's marital problems, not including cases referred to bar presidents or to individual members of war committees.

Marital Woes in Majority.

Dykman said marital woes formed by far the greatest percentage of servicemen's legal problems.

"I am getting an average of a letter a day from men on the fighting fronts and in the camps," he said, "telling me something about their wives and saying they would like me to get them divorces or annulments."

Many of the women who are receiving allotments "may not even have lived with a serviceman," he said, "but the war department so far refuses to do anything about it."

In most of the doughboy divorces, Dykman told the lawyers, word reached the man in uniform, either from relatives or friends, that his wife had been unfaithful. The husband immediately wanted to bring suit.

Suggests Hearing Both Sides.

As one solution to the problem, Dykman proposed an arrangement whereby the serviceman's commanding officer would make a record of his complaint and the Red Cross back home "could get the wife's story."

"Then, with both reports on file," he said, "I would let the war department decide the matter."

The war committee's report did not comment on this proposal, but it said army and navy officials, "apprehensive over the rapid rate of increase in matrimonial cases and their effect on military morale," were making a thoro study of the situation.

OFFICER OF WAC TAKES STAND TO DEFEND HERSELF

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—First Lt. Virginia Wight, WAC officer accused of insubordination and fraternizing with enlisted personnel, was reported to have taken the stand in her own defense today at an army reclassification board proceeding. The hearing is being held in secret.

Her testimony was understood to have completed the case of the defense and it is expected the hearing will end this week-end.

Military officials have refused to discuss the proceedings, other than to acknowledge a hearing is under way. For the last few days this was conducted at a conference room in the Pentagon building, but today that room was vacant.

ADMITS LOAFING BY CIVILIANS IN NAVAL SERVICES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—The navy frankly admits loafing, inefficiency, and overmanning exist among its 700,000 civilian workers in a report to the senate naval committee, but blames the situation on the rapid war time expansion of its pay rolls.

"The necessity for expanding the navy's civilian personnel more than 900 per cent in such a brief period, during a tight labor market, obviously created some inefficiencies," the department said.

"Frankly the obtaining of maximum utilization of all personnel is one of the navy's most difficult problems," it continued.

Walsh Bequested It.

The report was made at the request of Sen. Walsh [D., Mass.], chairman of the naval affairs committee, who said he had received complaints of loafing and overmanning in the navy's shore establishments.

The navy said some idle time was unavoidable in the training of thousands of workers for repairing battle damaged sea craft and other specialized jobs. Between June, 1938, and June, 1943, the navy civilian pay rolls skyrocketed from 76,194 employes to 706,857. More than 75 per cent work in navy yards, air stations, ordnance stations, and other shore installations.

Reporting it had 40,000 trainees in navy yards and 80,000 in shore establishments, the department said:

"The impression gained by an onlooker is that these men are loafing when as a matter of fact they are not qualified to do regular work and are being taught as trainees."

Does 'Best It Can.'

As to loafers the navy said it "has to do the best it can with what it can get." It explained it had had to hire workers "who in normal times cannot hold full time jobs because of lack of physical, mental, and moral stamina resulting in an inability on their part to work steadily and efficiently.

"There are also loafing and idleness from inexperienced planning and scheduling on the part of management; from inexperienced supervision on the part of supervisors; from thousands of inexperienced workers who haven't the 'know how' of shipbuilding and repair."

Many of the navy's problems came with the hiring of women workers, the report explained; then hastened to add: "The navy wants it clearly understood that on the whole women have done a very excellent job."

NEWSMAN LOST IN BERLIN RAID IS A PRISONER

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—Lowell Bennett, International News Service correspondent, who failed to return from the R. A. F.'s Dec. 2 raid on Berlin, is a prisoner of war in Germany.

Leo V. Dolan of the News Service's London bureau, received a letter from Bennett today dated "somewhere in Germany," in which Bennett said:

"Dear Leo, that's a helluva dateline—but it could have been worse."

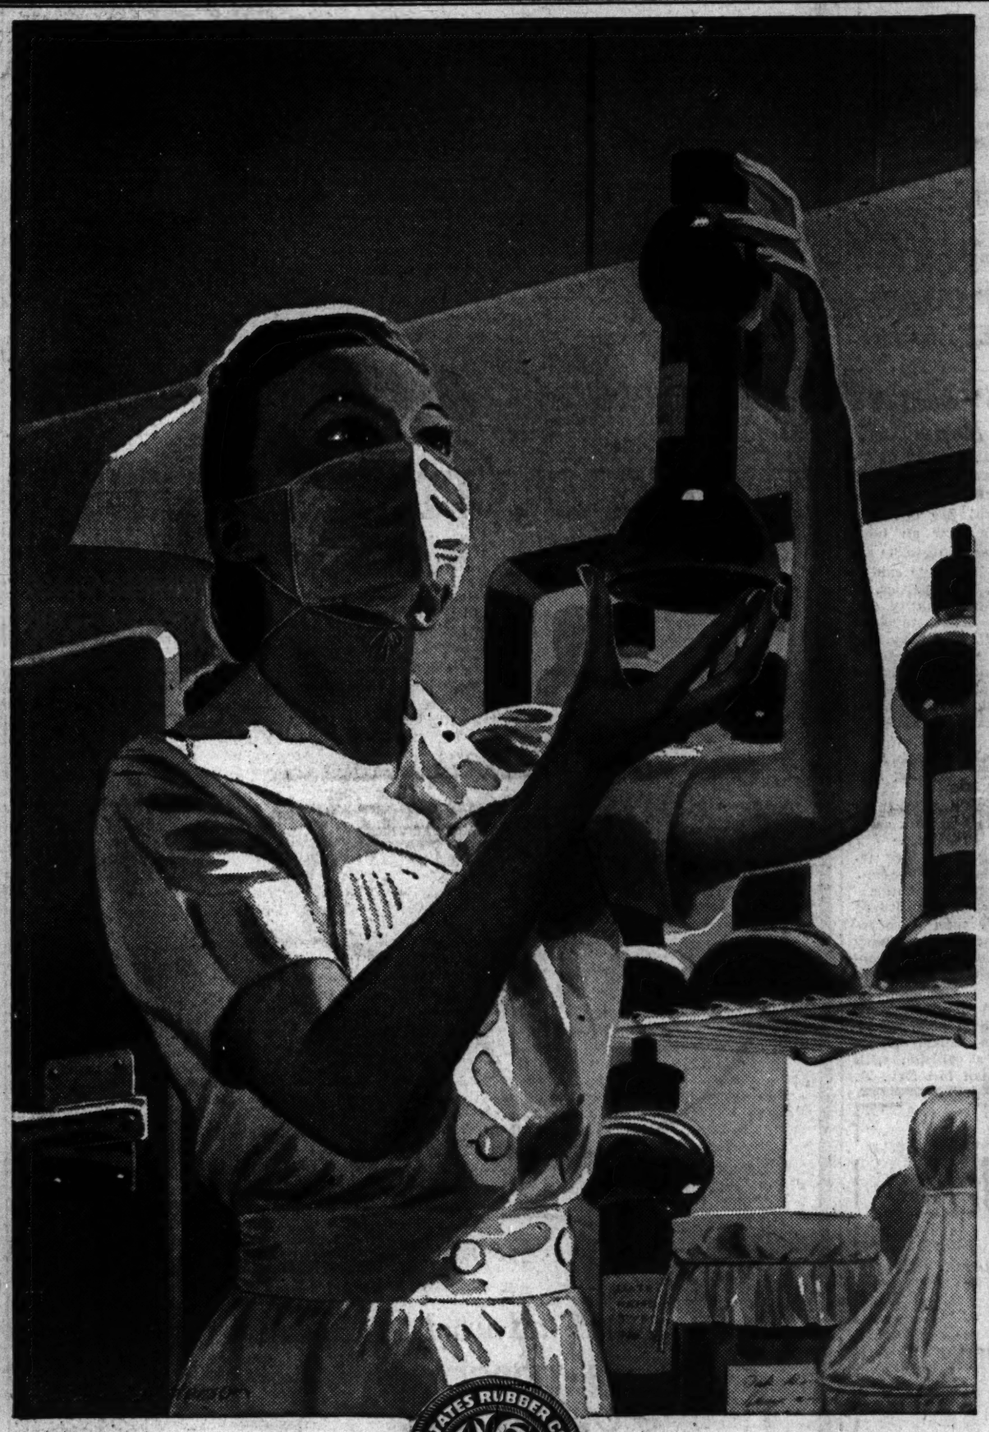
Bennett, 24 years old, from South Orange, N. J., was aboard one of the 41 bombers lost in heavy attack on the German capital.

The correspondent's letter ended with a sentence that intrigued newspaper men here and made them wonder if Bennett was attempting to get thru a tip.

"Tell Turney I'm saving my expense accounts, and watch out for that 'secret weapon,'" he wrote. His letter did not explain his capture—whether the plane made a forced landing or if he parachuted.

Aberg Announces He'll Etner Race for Delegate

Madison, Wis., Jan. 21 [Special].—W. J. P. Aberg, Madison attorney and chairman of the state conservation commission, today announced his candidacy as a delegate at large to the Republican national convention as a Willkie supporter.



that men may LIVE

to build a better world

In this flask is the force of life. I know . . . for I have seen its work.

I have seen the livid look of pain and shock and utter exhaustion change to the clearer pallor of normal illness. I have seen lips blue with approaching death regain the hue of health.

And I have felt gratitude deep beyond expression that men and women have given gladly of their blood that other men may live... that useful lives may be prolonged to their full term.

For blood banks and the plasma that goes to the front are bulwarks against encroaching death.

To them, I . . . and you . . . and men and women in every land . . . owe a debt too great ever to be repaid save by our working and our striving to build a better, freer world.

UNITED STATES RUBBER COMPANY TRADE MARK

SERVING THROUGH SCIENCE

A donor's blood that has been stored in a blood bank can be safely and successfully injected into a patient's veins only if filtered during the transfusion—materials removed are minute blood clots and fibrin which unavoidably precipitate during storage. The more rugged plasma, which can be stored longer and shipped farther, is filtered before entering the bank—all tissue matter removed, leaving only the basic fluid, free of blood cells, fibrin and other solids.

A piece of Multipore rubber stretched over an electric light to show typical pore structure. This specialized rubber, a development of United States Rubber Company laboratories, is a versatile material. It can be produced with as many as 6400 pores to the square inch or as few as 1100. The pores may be as large as 12/1000 inch diameter or as small as 4/1000. It can be made as soft, elastic rubber or vulcanized into hard rubber and may be either plain sheeting or backed by a fabric.

The lives of accident victims who have lost quantities of blood and the lives of sufferers from various blood depleting diseases are far more sure of being saved today than ever before because it has been made possible to store whole blood for immediate indirect transfusion. Plasma plays the important double role in the battle zones of both replenishing the blood stream and hastening recovery from shock. The need for blood plasma is great. Your local Defense Council can tell you about blood donor service.

AMOUNT OF PAY ON MUSTER OUT SPLITS PARLEY

'Hell of a Fight' on Sum Predicted.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—Senate and house conferees adjourned their first conference on the mustering out pay bill today as far apart as ever on the principal item in dispute—the amount of discharge pay to be given the military.

Senators on the joint committee assigned the job of reconciling the house and senate versions held out for pay ranging from $200 to $500 as compared with house insistence on a payment of $100 for service folk discharged before 60 days' service and $300 for those serving longer periods.

Agree on 3 Changes.

The conferees agreed to house amendments which:

1. Deny mustering out pay for men and women drawing above $200 a month base pay [or above the rank of army captain]. Under the senate versions payments would be made for majors, lieutenant-colonels and colonels as well.

2. Deny discharge pay to those eligible to retirement pay.

3. Deny it also to students at service schools, including the military and naval academies.

Chairman Reynolds [D., N. C.] of the senate conferees forecast a "hell of a fight" in the conference committee before an agreement is reached as to the amount of the mustering out payments.

Says He'll Stand Pat.

Reynolds declared he would insist upon the senate's figures despite arguments of house conferees that this would cost 5½ billion dollars, or a billion 900 million more than the house plan.

"The house is debating our paying a billion and a half a year toward European relief and rehabilitation," Reynolds told reporters. "Before we spend that for other peoples we ought to rehabilitate our own. I'm for taking care of our men first. Stalin is standing up for Russia, Churchill is for Britain, and Reynolds is for America."

SEIZE 4 ROBBERS BEFORE VICTIM REPORTS HOLDUP

When Emil Marcus, 57 years old, of 3338 Ogden avenue, telephoned the Lawndale police early yesterday that he had been abducted by four men, slugged when his wallet yielded only 40 cents and shoved out of their car, the police told him they already had the men in custody and invited him to drop in and identify them.

At the station Marcus identified the four, and Patrolmen William Lydon and Frank Janousek said the men confessed. The policemen had arrested them on suspicion at 28th and Whipple streets and found Marcus' wallet in their possession.

Births in Bermuda Reach All-Time High of 955

Hamilton, Bermuda, Jan. 21.—The increasing pressure of Bermuda's population on an area shrunk by United States bases is emphasized by figures revealing 955 births last year among an estimated 35,000 permanent residents within 1,800 square miles. This 955 represents an all-time high and is made more complicated by the fact that about 21 per cent of the births are illegitimate.

SWISS INTERN CIANO'S WIDOW AND 3 CHILDREN

BERNE, Switzerland, Jan. 21 (AP).—Countess Edda Ciano, daughter of Benito Mussolini and widow of the former Italian foreign minister, is interned in Switzerland under strict police watch, along with her three children, it was officially announced today.

The countess took refuge in Switzerland Jan. 9, the day after the trial of Count Ciano on charges of treason began at Verona. She was interned immediately. Her children arrived three days later when it was announced that Ciano had been executed for voting with 18 other members of the Fascist grand council to oust Mussolini from the dictatorship last July.

The Swiss announced that Dino Alfieri, former Italian ambassador to Germany and also condemned to death in absentia at the Verona trials, had entered Switzerland last October. Because of the death sentence against him, the Swiss revoked for the time being an order that he leave Switzerland as soon as his health is restored. He was placed in a hospital.

MILLIONS WASTE IS LAID TO LAND IN SHIPPING DEAL

Purchases Old Vessels Without Investigation.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—The government's purchase of 10 cargo ships from the Southern Pacific company [Morgan Line] in 1941 at a price of $4,733,952 "resulted in a wasteful and extravagant expenditure of public funds," Lindsay Warren, controler general, has reported to congress.

The report, made public today, said the vessels were bought outright by the United States maritime commission of which Rear Adm. Emory S. Land is head, when they legally could have been requisitioned for immediate war use pending a full investigation of their value.

"The fact that $3,580,000 had to be spent to recondition the vessels shortly after their purchase," Warren's report said, "suggests that at least this condition of the contract [taking the ships on an 'as is' basis] was unreasonable and not in the public interest."

Vessels 17 to 30 Years Old.

Transmitted "for the information" of congress, the report said the vessels ranged in age from 17 to 30 years, that they aggregated 66,590 deadweight tons, and that the purchase in June, 1941, was in compliance with a directive by President Roosevelt that the maritime commission immediately acquire 2,000,000 tons of cargo shipping for war shipping purposes.

"The commission purchased the vessels on an 'as is' basis without warranty as to physical condition," the report said. "Well might it be said that the government bought 'a pig in a poke'—in fact, 10 of them."

Called "Unsound" Deal.

"It is true, of course, that such determinations may be controled in many cases by other than dollars and cents economy," it continued.

"However, in the purchase of these Morgan Line vessels there is evidence indicating that the commission utterly disregarded its responsibility to the congress and to the taxpayers of the United States by pursuing a course of action which was unsound and improvident at the very outset."

F.D.R. SIGNATURE ON UNRRA PACT IS LASHED IN HOUSE

Called Impeachable Offense by Day.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—President Roosevelt was accused in the house today of committing an "impeachable offense" in signing the united nations relief and rehabilitation agreement.

The accusation came from Rep. Day [R., Ill.] during a session in which the Roosevelt administration was charged with usurping the powers of the senate and overriding the Constitution by presenting the UNRRA program as an executive agreement.

Members of the house, considering legislation which would authorize the United States to contribute 1 billion 350 million dollars to UNRRA, said the so-called agreement is a treaty requiring ratification by two-thirds of the senate. Some said it would create a super-state that could not even be legally proposed to the senate.

Clamor for Passage.

While many members of the house demanded that the Constitution be upheld, even in the administration of relief, internationalists clamored for passage of the bill authorizing American participation in UNRRA to show the world the good faith of the United States in international coöperation.

Rep. Wadsworth of New York, whose colleagues call him a New Deal Republican because of his espousal of administration causes, was given extra time by the Democrats to defend the Roosevelt administration.

Rep. Gearhart [R., Cal.] on the other hand, seeking time to complete his argument that UNRRA is unconstitutional, was turned down by both the Republicans and the Democrats. Rep. Eaton [R., N. J.], an UNRRA advocate, was allotting the time for the Republicans and Chairman Bloom [D., N. Y.] of the foreign affairs committee was in charge for the Democrats.

"The UNRRA resolution," Day said, "presents the most flagrant violation of the Constitution that has been presented to congress by the New Deal administration. Violations of the Constitution at the hands of this administration have grown so frequent and so violent that they are positively immoral, and so regarded by millions.

Loss in Popularity.

"The great loss in popularity which the New Deal has suffered is due in large part to the utter disregard of established law.

"The UNRRA resolution is not just a measure for relief of the suffering peoples in foreign lands. It is admitted that UNRRA is an international body formed by 44 nations. The agreement constituting UNRRA has no standing under the Constitution and could not be submitted to the senate for approval.

"It was an impeachable offense to have even signed it."

Warning that approval of UNRRA means the creation of a super-state and violation of the Constitution, Rep. Smith [R., O.] advised the foreign affairs committee to draw up a new relief program, and said:

"There is a growing conviction among the people thruout the country that their officials in Washington are giving their country away. They want it stopped."

GAIN IN NURSES' AIDS IS REPORTED AFTER PLEA BY HOSPITALS

Chicagoland hospitals yesterday revealed that an increase in applications for nurse's aid training was noted following an appeal carried in the Jan. 16 editions of THE TRIBUNE. The appeal urged women, especially those with free time during daylight hours, to enter the volunteer ranks of nurse's aids to relieve the acute shortage in Chicago of registered nurses.

Sister Mary Kelly, superintendent of nurses at St. George's hospital, said several women had applied at the hospital. Two of them were accepted for duty and the remainder, who had not yet taken a training courses, were referred to the Red Cross.

Dr. Roger De Busk, executive director of the Evanston Hospital association, also reported a large increase in applications following the printing of the story. He urged all out response from Chicago area women to relieve the acute shortage of registered nurses in the region's hospitals.

Movie Thrillers Used to Reduce Absenteeism

"We show the films on Mondays and Tuesdays," Lemmon said. "The number of persons on the job those days is 14 per cent higher than on other days. Twenty-four minutes are required to show a chapter.

ASKS N.Y. BOARD TO HEAR UNION RACKET CLAIMS

Grand Jury Acts in Aqueduct Case.

Newburgh, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP).—Legislation to protect "labor union members who are the victims of illegal or arbitrary conduct within their own unions" was recommended today by an extraordinary Orange county grand jury.

The recommendations were contained in a report of an 18 months' investigation by the grand jury into charges of labor racketeering on the 300 million dollar Delaware aqueduct project in the Hudson valley. The aqueduct supplies water for New York City.

The report asked the New York legislature to establish a state labor relations board panel to deal with complaints of union members against corrupt officials.

Members Must Take It.

"At present labor union members who are the victims of illegal or arbitrary conduct within their own unions are virtually without redress," the report said. "They may complain to the international union involved, but it has been our experience that in some unions such complaints are a mere waste of time."

The extraordinary term was convened by former Gov. Herbert Lehman to investigate charges of corruption among officials of local 17, International Hodcarriers, Builders and Common Laborers' union at Newburgh.

The inquiry, continued by Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, resulted in a Sing Sing sentence for Samuel Nuzzo, former business agent of local 17, on charges of looting the union treasury.

5 More Indicted.

Five other labor leaders including Joseph S. Fay of Newark, N. J., vice president of the International Union of Operating Engineers [AFL], are under indictments charging conspiracy to force "kickbacks" from nonunion workmen.

The grand jury report charged that from 1937 to 1942 workmen on the aqueduct were hired or fired at the whim of union officials and said that at least $260,000 was squandered or stolen from the local 17's treasury by Nuzzo or others.

YANK WHO BATTLED 30 GERMAN FIGHTERS IS AWARDED 2 MEDALS

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—Maj. James H. Howard of St. Louis, Mo., who was decorated by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek for his exploits while a member of the famous "Flying Tigers" in China, today was awarded the distinguished flying cross, the air medal, and an oak leaf cluster to the air medal for his feats over Europe.

Maj. Howard, who alone attacked 30 Nazi fighters over Germany during a big American air raid Jan. 11 and bagged a probable total of six, was among 64 pilots of the new long range P-51B Mustang fighters to be awarded 75 decorations today.

The DFC and air medal were awarded to Col. Kenneth R. Martin, 27 years old, of Kansas City, Mo., who led all of the secret trial missions of the Mustangs before they were put into active duty on the European front.

FULL U. S. SHIPS SAIL TO BRITAIN; RETURN EMPTY

BY ROY GIBBONS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Jan. 21.—American ships that have been running to England and other parts of the United Kingdom heavily loaded with thousands of tons of lend-lease food and commodities still being rationed in this country are returning practically empty, the British information services admitted here today.

The only cargo that the American vessels are carrying back to this country is "whisky taken from prewar stocks," it was explained, by a spokesman for the agency.

The spokesman, who requested that his name be withheld, said the size of the shipments coming back from England indicated that "the British have nothing to spare." To this, he added, that "anyhow you have everything over here, and there seems to be very little that we could send you that would be of any great use."

Denies Shipping Trick.

He denied a rumor circulating in shipping circles here that the British, with an eye to post-war trade, are using their own ships to send British wares to this country while compelling American vessels to return with nothing but ballast in their holds.

The British representative said that the British ships could better afford to come empty to this country than to stand the demurrage expense of lying in port to discharge a cargo and then clean up the vessel for a return load to England.

Another Report Denied.

He said that as many British as American ships come into this country in ballast and denied there was any truth in a report being repeated here that American ships under jurisdiction of the war shipping administration had recently been ordered equipped with permanent ballast because of the scarcity of English shipments.

John Gammie, deputy representative of the British ministry of war transport in this country, and Victor Frees, vice president of the United States lines, joined in denying the reports of British boats coming over heavily laden. Gammie termed it "absurd," while Frees, who says his company's vessels are getting a "good share" of British shipments, claimed the report to be "wholly untrue."

U. S. OIL DRUMS GO TO SEA, SUNK FOR SUBS BY JAP FIRE

GUADALCANAL, Solomons, Jan. 22 [Saturday] — (AP). — There were some drums of oil on the beach at Empress Augusta bay. A storm washed some out to sea.

To prevent them from falling to the Japanese, a United States dive bomber was sent to destroy them.

RUSSIANS WIDEN LENINGRAD LINE; GERMANS FLEE

Seize Rail Town 30 Miles Southeast of City.

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—The Russians, broadening their front in a wide battle to hurl the Nazis from the huge rail and highway network around Leningrad, reached out 30 miles southeast of the city today and captured the rail junction and military stronghold of Mga.

The capture, announced by Premier Marshal Josef Stalin in a special order of the day, knocked off the tip of a salient long held by the Germans to the southeast of the former Czarist capital. Southward and southwestward other Russian units raced to envelop the beaten Germans. The Nazis were reported retreating steadily and facing entrapment in the Baltic area.

Nazis Rolling Back.

Moscow's midnight war bulletin recorded here by the soviet radio monitor announced that "under continuous blows of soviet troops the enemy is rolling back in a southerly direction and abandoning one fortified place after another."

The capture of Mga was part of a new break-thru on a 30 mile front southeast from the Neva river. The rail junction is 10 miles southeast of the Neva and 17 miles south of Schluesselburg. It is also 15 miles east of the Leningrad-Moscow trunk railroad, long lost to the Russians but now once again within their grasp.

Fourteen other towns, including a railroad station 10 miles east of Mga on the railroad to Volkhov, also were reported captured. By taking Mga the Russians also opened a permanent rail line to tap lend-lease supplies flowing down the railroad from Murmansk thru Volkhov.

Southwest of Leningrad, where other troops had snapped off a German corridor to the sea on Thursday, the bulletin announced that "our troops have completely liquidated and dispersed groups of routed German troops who had been encircled in previous engagements."

West of Novgorod, less than 100 miles south of Leningrad, the Russians continued their offensive toward Estonia.

The southward push of the Russian army was hammering the Germans toward the strong Red forces pushing west of Novgorod and threatening to trap the Nazis fleeing from the east.

Kill 40,000 Germans.

Far to the south, in lower White Russia, Gen. Constantine Rokossovsky's armies struck out in the Mozyr area and captured a district center 35 miles to the northwest and eight other communities in the Pripet marsh zone.

In the northern drives the Russians already have counted 40,000 Nazi troops slain and 4,000 captured.

The Germans in retreat were reported carrying out a thoro scorched earth policy. The soviet army newspaper Red Star disclosed that the Nazis had sacked Peterhof, former elaborate summer residence for the czarist court.

NAZI WAR REPORT

Following is the German Friday bulletin as broadcast by Berlin and recorded by the Associated Press:

"Northeast of Kerch [Crimea] soviet attacks supported by tanks were frustrated. A German submarine chaser sank one enemy submarine in the Black sea.

"n the area of Zhashoff [south central front] German troops repulsed several enemy attacks in bitter fighting.

"West of Rechitsa [Gomel area] several strong enemy attacks were frustrated also yesterday.

"n the large scale defensive battle which has been going on since Dec. 13, 1943, in the area of Vitebsk, German troops have frustrated breakthru attempts by the soviets with 50 rifle divisions, and numerous tank formations.

"By Jan. 18 the bolsheviks lost in this sector more than 40,000 dead. The number of wounded is many times as high. One thousand two hundred three enemy tanks and 349 guns were destroyed or captured.

"North of Nevel the soviets continued their attacks all day long. German troops held their positions and destroyed a large number of enemy tanks.

Reds Widen Leningrad Front

(Story in adjoining column.)

Developments reported yesterday from Russia.

Reds Mute on Offer; Deadlock Likely.

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—Efforts to settle the Russian-Polish border dispute apparently were deadlocked tonight until Moscow answers overtures made by Washington.

The Poles, insisting the dispute was a matter for the allies, are waiting anxiously to see whether the soviet government replies to the mediation offer made by Secretary of State Hull. It was believed Prime Minister Churchill after conferring with Polish leaders may have communicated with Premier Stalin but the Poles refuse to consider a shakeup in their London coalition government to make it acceptable to Moscow.

The soviet government has declined to deal directly with this London government.

No Word from Moscow.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—Secretary of State Hull said today the soviet government has not accepted this country's offer to act in a liaison capacity and look to a resumption of diplomatic relations between Poland and Russia.

Chaos in Old Poland.

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—The Polish telegraph agency said today that underground sources had reported chaos spreading thru the eastern part of old Poland as the result of the Germans' retreat.

The agency said Ukrainians evacuated from around Berdichev and Vinnitsa are being driven along by the Nazis, clogging roads, and thousands are dying.

Rumor: Aged Two Months.

ALGIERS, Jan. 21 (AP).—One of this war's most persistent rumors—the tale of a visit by a German mission headed by Foreign Minister Joachim von Ribbentrop to North Africa to discuss peace terms—has been in circulation here for two months.

Investigation of the origin and development of this rumor disclosed that some captured German officers were brought to Algiers from Italy by plane. Within a few hours a report that two plane loads of high German officers had arrived was going thru Algiers.

At that time Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt were en route to the Cairo conference. Their trip was known to practically every one in North Africa. It took only slight imagination to link up the two stories.

Win Stronghold

Fighting in Jugo-Slavia.

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—Jugo-Slav Partisan troops have stormed back into the mountain stronghold of Jajce in western Bosnia, former headquarters for Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz, the Partisans announced in their war bulletin today.

In addition to the reoccupation of Jajce, which has changed hands half a dozen times and last fell to the Germans on Jan. 12, the bulletin told of street fighting in the eastern Bosnian town of Tuzla.

In the Glamoc area, 30 miles southwest of Jajce, and around Prozor, 40 miles southwest, the liberation army claimed new setbacks for the foe. Tuzla is the hinge of a 55 mile front stretching thru the Spreca and Drina valleys from Doboj to Zvornik. Doboj is 30 miles east of Banjaluka. Tito's men entered Modric, on the Bosna river 20 miles northeast of Doboj, and Gradacac. Ten miles northeast at Modric a raid on the German garrison yielded booty for the Partisan bands, the bulletin said.

NAZIS BUILD NEW HITLER LINE 65 MI. FROM ROME

ALLIED HDQ., ALGIERS, Jan. 21 (AP).—Battalions of forced Italian labor are rushing to completion a powerful new "Adolf Hitler" defense line 65 miles south of Rome, Nazi prisoners reported today. They indicated that the enemy has scant hope of holding his present "Gustav" line much longer against the onslaught of American, British, and French troops.

The British firmly held the town of Minturno, two miles northwest of the Garigliano river, after allied planes and artillery smashed an incipient German counter-attack on that west coast communications hub, and French forces north of Cassino captured the foot of Mount Il Lago, a Nazi strongpoint across the Rapido river from the village of Sant' Elia. The Gustav fortofications thus were being shredded fast.

Batter Nazi Defenses.

Ever since their landing on the Salerno beaches in September, Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's 8th army troops have been forced to batter their way thru a succession of Nazi defense systems.

According to German prisoners—some 300 of whom have been captured by the British since they opened their Garigliano offensive Monday night—the "Adolf Hitler" line extends from 1,700 foot Mount Cairo, six miles northwest of Cassino, down across the Liri valley in the area of Pontecorvo to the Aurunci mountains near the coast. On an average, the line is about six miles nearer Rome than the enemy's present defenses.

Allied headquarters announced today that British troops had seized Minturno after hard fighting, some 24 hours after the Germans reported they had abandoned the "totally destroyed" town. After consolidating their hold on the town, the British pressed on against German positions to the north. Another British force, apparently the one that established a beachhead near Suio, seven miles up the Garigliano, was reported assaulting the twin Nazi fortress villages of Castelforte and Ventosa.

French Hit Nazi Flank.

French forces that crossed the Rapido river four miles above Cassino threatened to flank German troops defending that fortress.

American patrols probing for weak spots in Cassino's defenses crossed the Rapido below the town for the first time, but were forced to retire. A German patrol that forded the stream also was beaten back. Patrol activity alone enlivened the 8th army front.

TWO ITALIAN SPIES, 18, ARE SHOT; CONFESSED IN TRIAL BY THE AMG

NAPLES, Italy, Jan. 21 (AP).—Two 18 year old confessed Italian spies who admitted allegiance to the fascist youth organization and who were convicted of furnishing information to the Germans concerning allied movements in Italy, were executed today by a firing squad.

The allied military government said the spies were Luigi Cancellieri and Mauro Bertoli of Bari. Arrested in December along the 5th army front, the two confessed to the AMG general military court that they went on missions into allied lines, telling Germans of allied troop movements, units, vehicles, and shipping.

The two were convicted on charges of violating the AMG proclamation for allied occupied territories which says that serving the enemy as a spy or communicating with him is punishable by death. Their conviction was affirmed on appeal by the allied commander in Italy.

BRITISH DESIGN 150-TON PLANES FOR PEACE TIME

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—Of five aircraft companies named by the British government to design new transport plane types to carry the nation's colors on world routes after the war, two are engaged in planning craft weighing more than 150 tons, the magazine Aeroplane says.

The firms planning these Leviathans, the magazine said, are the Bristol Aeroplane company and Short Brothers.

Two other companies were said to have or to be producing "civil versions of the Lancaster and Halifax [four engined bombers] which will match the Douglas DC-4 and the Lockheed Constellation."

On Wednesday Lord Privy Seal Beaverbrook disclosed in commons that Britain is projecting a 100 ton 50 passenger plane capable of spanning the Atlantic in 15 hours.

Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg of the Illinois house of representatives will be one of those to discuss rehabilitation of war veterans at a meeting in Legion hall at 6308 Woodlawn avenue next Tuesday night. Daniel Lewis is in charge of the program for the Illinois Republican Service Men's league.

CURTIN EXPLAINS PACIFIC PACT AS BASIS FOR UNITY

CANBERRA, Australia, Jan. 21 (AP). Prime Minister John Curtin said today the agreement reached at ence is a landmark in international collaboration in the Pacific in development of a joint foreign policy.

"If any or all of our other neighbors in the Pacific find themselves in general agreement with the principles as publicly declared," Curtin said, "and if they accept the method by which we are attempting to apply these principles, they may be assured we are eager to collaborate with them in entering a more extensive regional understanding."

Sees High Value to Allies.

Atty. Gen. Herbert V. Evatt of Australia viewed the conference, held this week, as of the greatest value for the cause of the allied nations in the Pacific.

The agreement provided no final peace settlement should be made with any enemy until all hostilities are completed. New Zealand and Australia will seek agreement with each other on any armistice and will participate in any armistice commission.

Agree on Jap Settlement.

They declared that Japanese territories in the Pacific should be disposed of only with the agreement of New Zealand and Australia, and that the disposal should be part of the general Pacific settlement.

They proposed establishing a post-war southwest and South Pacific zone of defense based on Australia and New Zealand and stretching thru the arc of islands above Australia from the northeast of the commonwealth to Western Samoa and the Cook Islands.

Survivor of Prisoner Ship Sinking Arrives in Britain

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Jan. 21.—A survivor of the Italian war prisoner ship Scillin, which was sunk Nov. 14, 1942, was picked up by a British submarine and recently returned to northern England, it was learned today. Despite the war office's opinion that the prisoners aboard the Scillin must be presumed to be dead, the survivor was said to be convinced more men must have been rescued. The prisoners had been held in an Italian camp at Bengazi, Libya.

ORDER REMOVAL OF TWO ALLEGED GERMAN AGENTS

Chicagoans and 25 to Be Tried in East.

Otto Greiner and Gustav A. Schmidt, former members of the defunct German-American Vocational league, yesterday were ordered removed to Newark, N. J., for trial with 25 others on an indictment which charges conspiracy to violate the federal statute which requires agents of a foreign country to register with the secretary of state.

Otto Greiner [top] and G. A. Schmidt.

The German-American Vocational league has been described as a propaganda agency for the Nazi regime in Germany.

Has Contract with Army.

Greiner, who is 45 years old and lives at 7824 Karlov avenue, Skokie, has a business at 55 East Washington street, where he manufactures glass eyes. He signed a contract to supply his product to the army only two weeks ago. Schmidt is 50 years old and lives at 2223 Leland avenue. Both are naturalized citizens.

Maximilian J. St. George, counsel for the pair, told Judge Michael L. Igoe that Greiner came to the United States on a visitor's visa June 26, 1924, subsequently went into Canada, and returned under an alien quota. He became a citizen in November, 1932, and three years later joined the vocational league.

Schmidt came to the United States in September, 1924, and became a citizen in June, 1930. His counsel told Judge Igoe that Schmidt had joined an organization which later became the vocational league.

League Sent Him Abroad.

Shortly after Schmidt's arrival in the United States, the lawyer said, he found employment with Sears, Roebuck & Co. and soon became a division manager. Schmidt returned to Germany in 1936 and $175 of his expenses was paid by the league.

After St. George declared that the indictment in New Jersey was faulty, Richard J. Hughes, an assistant United States attorney in Newark, told Judge Igoe that it was drawn by a federal grand jury aften nine months of investigation.

Judge Igoe then said he could find no fault with the indictment and since the pair admitted their identities he would have to order them to New Jersey for trial. St. George said he would appeal.

YANKS DISCOVER A 'CUTE TRICK'—IT'S A HAMMOCK

BY ARTHUR VEYSEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE GLOUCESTER, New Britain, Jan. 21.—The jungle hammock is a wonderful invention. It is a contraption which the boys here are always falling out of, except when they want to. At these times, which is when air raid alerts sound, the boys get mixed up in their hammocks more efficiently than the whites of eggs that are whipped into an angel food cake.

Jungle hammocks are fairly new. They got their first big trial here. Even a general used one. At the front lines, of course, the boys sleep in foxholes, if they sleep at all, so hammocks are a comparative luxury.

To understand the jungle hammock, take the case of Capt. James Donohue. It is typical. Before entering the army he lived at the Chicago Towers club [now the Medinah club].

What the Hammock Looks Like.

The captain, like thousands of others, picked out two trees about 10 feet apart. He cleared away the undergrowth. To each tree he tied a rope holding the main part of the hammock, which resembles any other hammock except that it has a double bottom. The captain learned the "value" of the double bottom the next night.

A couple of feet higher on each tree he tied a second rope to hold up a piece of rubberized cloth. When sticks are placed crosswise under the cloth it acts like a roof. Mosquito net walls are sewed firmly all around to the roof and the hammock. In the net are two slide fasteners. It is these which talk in times of stress.

At dark the captain and thousands of other soldiers crawled into their hammocks. Two hours later one tree, an eight incher, collapsed. Hundreds of others did likewise, for the trees here are rotten and have little more strength than weeds.

Muttering a few choice army words, the captain picked out two more trees and started anew. These trees—they were so big he could not reach around them—held. But he had to turn over carefully to avoid flipping himself out.

The Rains Come.

The next night at dusk a strong wind came off the sea. The captain's hammock did a pretty flip, its roof acting as a sail. Later came rain and it was then the captain learned about the double bottom. Rain blew in thru the net and soon the captain was sleeping in three inches of water because the double bottom was waterproof.

While less patient men began building leantos, the captain hunted out chunks of canvas and draped them over the side. His hammock now is waterproof. So he sat down and wrote a letter home.

"Remember those racks we used to put clothes in on a Pullman?" he asked. "Well, I am still putting my clothes in one, except that no longer do I first take them off."

ESQUIRE FILES SUIT TO SAVE MAILING RIGHTS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—Esquire magazine, whose Varga girl drawings and other features got it in bad with Postmaster General Walker, filed suit in federal District court today to preserve its second class mailing privileges.

The suit, asserting Walker issued his order banning Esquire from using second class privileges after a special hearing board had voted 2 to 1 to clear the magazine of obscenity charges, described the ban as contrary to law and "to the established practice of the postoffice department and the postmaster general." The Walker order was issued to become effective Feb. 28. It said the magazine was not the sort of publication intended by congress to be eligible for special second class privileges, which include expedited handling at a low postage rate.

Walker was charged in Esquire's suit with having ignored the merits of the case and with proceeding solely to compel a court review of the meaning of the statute covering second class mail.

YANKS MAY GET ANOTHER 'PATCH' FOR GLOUCESTER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAPE GLOUCESTER, New Britain, Jan. 21.—The marines now are rounding out their fourth week on Cape Gloucester and for their excellent work here the marine outfit may get an addition to the shoulder patch which already identifies its men as veterans of Guadalcanal.

The marine commander, Maj. Gen. W. H. Rupertus, has suggested that to the present patch a red bar with the Cape Gloucester inscription be added.

"Maybe in the future we can add a white stripe for the Philippines and a blue one for Tokio," the general said. "Then it will be quite a patch."

YANKS SINK 2 JAP SHIPS IN CHINA SEA RAID

Allies Gain in Burma.

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 21 (AP).—Allied ground forces expanding their bridgehead on the Mayu peninsula of southwestern Burma have captured new Japanese positions near Buthedaung in hand-to-hand battles, an allied East India war report announced today.

Other allied advances were reported near Leftwedet, 3½ miles west of Buthedaung.

The announcement made no reference to the new land front in the upper Chindwin area of northwestern Burma which yesterday's war bulletin said had been opened near Tamu.

On the northern land front, American-trained Chinese forces continued their eastward drive to oust Jap forces from the route of the new Ledo road to China, wiping out a strong enemy patrol.

Allied bombers Wednesday night raided Bangkok, Thailand's capital.

MANLEY SCHOOL IS TAKEN OVER FOR NAVY WORK

The navy takes possession today of Manley High school, 2935 Polk street, for use as a pre-radio materiel school to train 1,500 sailors. The school will offer the same work that is given at Wright Junior college, taken by the navy last June for training 1,000 men.

Manley students and faculty will begin the second semester, Jan. 31, at Harrison, Marshall, and Farragut High schools.

Triple deck bunks and other equipment for the Manley navy school will be moved in, beginning today, and the trainees are scheduled to arrive the last of next week.

YANK SUBS SINK 12 JAP VESSELS; BRITISH BAG ONE

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—American submarines, engaged in a continuing battle to ruin Japan's shipping, have sunk 12 more of the enemy's cargo vessels in the Pacific.

The blow, another step toward cutting off men and materials from the enemy's ocean bases, was announced today by the navy. The 12 raised the total of Japanese ships sunk by America's Pacific submarines to 408. In addition, 36 other ships probably have been sunk and 114 damaged by United States submarines.

Two Transports Among 12.

The official report did not indicate where the Japanese ships were attacked and sunk.

Two transports were included in the latest bag. They could have been carrying troops as well as supplies.

A large tanker also was included and might be considered as a major loss to the enemy, for ships that can carry fuel for planes and surface craft are badly needed by Japan.

The other ships were seven medium sized freighters and two small freighters.

The sinkings cut further into the badly depleted Jap cargo fleet, which has been reduced so severely that the enemy in many parts of the South Pacific has been forced to use barges in attempts to keep supplies moving.

British Sub Sinks Jap Cruiser.

LONDON, Jan. 21 (AP).—The sinking of a Japanese cruiser by a British submarine off Malaya was announced today by the admiralty.

The admiralty announcement did not identify the submarine — first British naval craft disclosed to be operating in the southern waters of the Indian ocean in some time—but noted that it was commanded by Lt. Comdr. L. W. A. Bennington, hero of exploits as skipper of the submarine Porpoise in the Mediterranean.

Escape Depth Charge Attack.

The cruiser, a 5,100 ton vessel of the Kuma class, was sighted in company with a destroyer in the northern approaches to the narrow Malacca strait which separates Sumatra from Malaya.

The submarine rushed to within a mile of the cruiser and fired a salvo of torpedoes, scoring two hits which quickly sank the ship. The escorting destroyer dropped depth charges in a counter-attack, but the submarine escaped.

Three large Jap supply ships also have been sunk by the same submarine, the admiralty said.

Bennington, 31 years old, when commanding the Porpoise in the Mediterranean, won fame by carrying supplies to Malta when that little island was holding out desperately against German air blows.

P-T RAIDERS SINK JAP TROOPS ON WAY TO MADANG

Yanks Bag Barges Filled with Re-enforcements.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Jan. 22 [Saturday]—(AP).—One hundred and sixty Japanese troops, apparently en route to re-enforce besieged Madang, New Guinea, were killed when speedy P-T boats caught them in their barges sneaking down the coast Tuesday night, headquarters announced today.

The American craft surprised four troop laden barges off Cape Croisilles, less than 25 miles north of Madang, and sprayed them with rapid fire guns. All the barges were sunk and all the Japanese killed or drowned.

Gen. MacArthur's spokesman said the enemy troops were well equipped and wore new uniforms, indicating they were replacements for the Madang area.

20 Other Barges Sunk.

Repeated bombings in the last few days have suggested Australian forces may be starting a new drive from their inland Ramu valley positions toward Madang.

On Thursday, 70 tons of bombs were dropped by allied planes on the Japanese being driven northward by the Australians. The Aussies last were reported less than 25 miles from Bogadjim, key to Madang's outer defenses.

On the same day other bombers struck Japanese positions north of Madang, attacking supply and gun locations and sinking 20 barges at Hansa bay.

Raid Japs at Amboina.

Liberator heavy bombers twice ranged 600 miles north of Australia on Wednesday to raid the Japanese seaplane base on Amboina Island in the Dutch East Indies. Five intercepting fighters were shot down. Two allied planes were lost.

A small force of Liberators harassed Rabaul, New Britain, Wednesday night. Boston bombers flown by Australians raked Gasmata, New Britain, the next night. Other Bostons attacked Rein bay on the north coast of New Britain.

A force of destroyers steamed to the northern tip of Bougainville Island in the Solomons to shell Japanese installations along the Buka passage.

Marshalls Raided Again.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—American bombers, raiding Japanese positions in the Marshall Islands Wednesday and Thursday, damaged one enemy cargo transport near Maloelap, the navy reported today.

Four raids were carried out on enemy installations in the islands northwest of the American-held Gilberts. Two planes failed to return.

Anti-aircraft fire from Emidj and Tmiet Islands in the Jaluit atoll brought down one of the American planes. The other was lost in a raid on Wotje, one of the larger Jap bases in the Marshalls.

FLEET OF R. A. F. NIGHT BOMBERS OVER GERMANY

LONDON, Jan. 22 [Saturday]—(AP).—Britain sent another fleet of heavy bombers over Germany and occupied territory last night in the wake of yesterday's allied armada of perhaps 1,000 aircraft which hit mystery targets on the French invasion coast, it was announced officially early today. Objectives of the night bombers were not immediately disclosed.

The daylight operations against the Pas-De-Calais area cost the attacking force 11 planes, six of them United States heavy bombers, but 19 German fighters were shot out of the sky.

The British sky giants departed on their latest foray two and a half hours later than their 5 p. m. start against Berlin on Thursday when they delivered the largest aerial attack ever made against the German capital, dropping 2,300 long tons [2,576 United States tons] of bombs.

Radios Leave the Air.

On their way over the channel the R. A. F. night bombers met allied planes returning from the day operation. Continental radio stations clicked off the air in the path of the new attack.

Yesterady's allied attack force dropped perhaps 2,000 tons of bombs as it raked the Nazi forward defenses in France.

While the Nazis generally did not offer stiff fighter opposition, the bombers were forced to fly thru thick flak. Generally accurate bombing results were reported with terrific explosions following some hits and smoke spiraling several thousand feet into the sky.

It is conservatively estimated that 7,500 sorties [individual plane flights] have been made against the Pas de Calais area in the last month. The specific nature of the targets along this important stretch of the French coast never has been made known altho the area has been given the popular name of the "rocket gun coast.

Six Lost from One Group.

The aerial bombardment of the area began in earnest Dec. 24 when about 1,300 sorties were flown against it. An attack of approximately the same size was made again on Jan. 4. Approximately 750 planes bombed the area on Jan. 7 and it was officially announced that 1,100 planes battered the same region on Jan. 14.

All of the six United States heavy bombers lost in the attack were from one group which at first was unable to find its target below the clouds, but persisted and made five bombing runs before releasing its bombs. This group, commanded by Col. F. R. Dent Jr. of Kerrville, Tex., encountered furious opposition from a pack of Focke-Wulf 190s.

A responsible informant in Stockholm said that 11 war factories in the German capital's east end were struck and the Borough of Neukoelln to the southeast was badly damaged.

ADVISES COREAN RECOGNITION AS BLOW AT JAPAN

Rally Chairman Calls It Good Strategy.

BY CARL WIEGMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ashland, Ky., Jan. 21.—Corean and American flags flew side by side today on the main street of this typical midwestern town, which has been selected as the starting point of a campaign to have the Roosevelt administration recognize the government in exile o. Japanese occupied Corea.

Corean leaders, several in United States army uniforms, and American friends of Corea from many parts of the country have assembled here for a two day conference to be climaxed tomorrow at 2 p. m. by a program on the national network of the Mutual Broadcasting System.

The purpose of the conference, as stated by Dr. Paul F. Douglass, president of American university, Washington, D. C., who is acting chairman, is "to get American public opinion sufficiently outraged so as to awaken the state department—that pallid copy of the British foreign office."

Charges Betrayal.

"Before the war, our state department followed a strong pro-Japanese policy in the orient," Douglass said. "We betrayed Corea, permitting Japan to annex its 23 million people in 1910 in violation of treaties with all the western powers.

"Since Pearl Harbor, the state department, aparently fearful of uncovering skeletons in its closet, has repeatedly rebuffed the Corean provisional government set up in China, while at the same time the White House and Washington officialdom keep on wining and dining the petty princelings from the occupied states of Europe."

Recognition Blow to Japs.

Dr. Douglass said he believed an accumulation of problems such as that of Corea, which the state department failed to face, got the United States into Word War II and will get us into World War III unless public opinion brings a new regime in Washington.

In a speech tonight before the conference, held in the Ashland Country club, Dr. Douglass said recognition of Corea would promote organized terrorist, guerrilla, and sabotage activities against the Japs, thus saving the lives of American soldiers. Ultimately, he said, Corea could be used as a base of attack, because it is a spear pointed at the heart of Japan.

The conference opened today with a luncheon at the First Presbyterian church. Among the guests was Dr. Syngman Rhee, first president of the provisional government and now its representative in Washington, who will be the principal speaker at tomorrow's broadcast.

"What Can We Do?"

Others introduced were the Rev. P. M. Redd, minister of the United Brethren church, and Frank D. Joseph, restaurant operator, who heard the story of Corea and went to the Corean-American council in Washington, asking "What can we do about it?"

N. Y. PUTS LEPKE IN DEATH CELL; LONG FEUD ENDS

Ossining, N. Y., Jan. 21 (AP).—The door of a death house cell clanged shut behind Louis [Lepke] Buchalter, chieftain of Murder, Inc., today a few hours after the state gained his custody from the federal government.

Lepke Buchalter.

He and two other members of the wholesale death ring that terrorized New York a few years back are scheduled to be electrocuted during the week of Feb. 7 for a murder committed in 1936. Sing Sing executions traditionally are done on Thursday, which would be Feb. 10.

Released from a 14 year federal sentence on a narcotics charge so the state may apply the death penalty, Lepke, who was brought here from New York City, was abrupt in his last words uttered before entering death row.

"Where Next?" He Asks.

"Where do I go—where next?" the gangster asked impatiently after being given a number.

Receiving Officer Jesse Collyer asked the routine question:

"To what do you attribute your criminal acts?"

"Not guilty," snapped Lepke.

Asked whether he had any property or money, the racketeer said "No."

He said he had a wife, Betty, and that he last resided in St. Albans, Queens, N. Y.

Enters Death House.

Lepke was taken to the Bertillon office, fingerprinted, and photographed, then to the death house, where he was given a bath and a prison-gray uniform before being assigned to a cell.

Surrounded by guards armed with machine guns and small weapons, Lepke made the 30 mile trip from the federal house of correction in New York to Sing Sing in a bullet-proof limousine.

He shielded his face with a handkerchief as he entered the car.

Long Feud Ended.

His release, after months of a custody dispute between United States Atty. Gen. Biddle and Gov. Thomas Dewey, was granted on the condition that he be returned to federal authorities if he is not executed.

Sing Sing officials declined to disclose whether Lepke's death row cell was so located that he could converse with Emmanuel Weiss and Harry Maione, convicted with him in the slaying of Samuel Rosen, a Brooklyn storekeeper.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

S. W. writes: "My son and several other young fellows who entered the army specialized training program took their basic military training. and. completed. their. pre-engineering training.. All were highly recommended for the advanced courses and were waiting assignment when suddenly they were all ordered back to various replacement centers. What is the army's idea of depriving these fellows of something they have tried so hard for and throwing them overboard without warning?

ANSWER: The fact these men were sent back to replacement centers after completing their pre-engineering training does not necessarily mean they are "thru." It is possible and probable that facilities were not immediately available at any of the advanced engineering schools, so the men could be assigned at once. In such a situation, it would not help things along by keeping the men at school waiting for advanced training and tying up the facilities which should be made available to incoming trainees. Probably as soon as facilities are available your son and his friends will be assigned.

R. W. R. writes: I am due to be inducted. My induction will be here in Chicago, but since it is necessary for me to take my family back east, I would like to know if it will be possible for me to go thru my final induction in the east [at the expiration of the three week furlough], or do I have to return to Chicago?"

ANSWER: It will be necessary for you to report to the recruit reception center named in your orders to active duty. If you are inducted in the sixth service command [in which Chicago is located] your orders will direct you to report on a certain date at one of the reception centers in this service command. If you had wanted to be inducted in the east, you should have made such arrangements by asking your local board to transfer your induction to some eastern draft board.

O. T. S. writes: "I am a historian and teacher of long experience who has been reclassified over the protests of the university. I am 37 years of age and have a wife and three small children. What earthly good can a person like myself be to the army? Do you know if they have any sort of work I might be assigned to?"

ANSWER: The G-2, military intelligence division, has a historical branch to which you may be assigned. The chief of the branch is Lt. Col. John M. Kemper. The principal business of this branch is the recording of military events of the war as they occur. Personnel serve both at headquarters and in the battle areas, writing detailed narrative accounts of individual operations against the enemy. This material probably will be issued in pamphlet form after the war.

EXPANSIONIST PLANS IN THE PACIFIC.

A conference between the heads of the Australian and New Zealand governments at Canberra produced some rather indefinite proposals for territorial expansion of the two British dominions after the war. The proposals appear to relate to the retention of the present possessions of the empire in the Pacific, to northward expansion of the two dominions as a means of establishing military defenses of their own territories and, strangest of all, to Sumatra, the rich island that the Japanese took from the Dutch but on which the British before the war controled about 40 per cent of the property. This is, to put it mildly, a rather ambitious program.

The dominions' statesmen appear to have overlooked the fact that the predominant power in saving their homelands from Japanese invasion and in driving the Japanese back has been supplied not by themselves nor by the empire, but by the United States. Thus it becomes rather ridiculous for the Australian press, in discussing the establishment of northern outposts against possible Japanese aggression in the future, to say: "In this wider area, in which sea power would be of particular importance, naval planning would be a combined empire responsibility."

Naval planning was presumably a combined empire responsibility before this war, and all it yielded was the loss of the Prince of Wales and the Repulse, the capitulation of Singapore, the toppling of the whole British and Dutch colonial structure in the Pacific, and the approach of the conquerors to the very gates of Australia. The naval planning that stopped the Japs was American naval planning and the responsibility for restraining them in the future will undoubtedly be an American responsibility.

It would be most unfair to deprecate the military contributions of Australia and New Zealand to the British empire. Their troops have been valiant on many fields and numerous in proportion to their population, but most of the fields were far removed from the Pacific, and the populations are small on the world scale. It is the force of the United States that is driving the Japs back. It is the United States that must have the bases in the South Pacific necessary to guard that area, not that this nation is greedy for territory, but merely because we are determined that never again shall we be forced to fight another war under the handicaps that the lack of our own bases and the weakness of the defenses offered by our allies have imposed upon us in this war.

The references to Sumatra are the most inexplicable in the whole program. The least attractive interpretation of the present war is that it is a struggle undertaken by us to restore to European colonial powers their sovereignty over subject races. Here, however, is an intimation that even the principles of legitimacy are to be discarded.

If the Pacific dominions are to advance a claim for sovereignty over some 8 million Sumatrans, solely on the grounds that the empire had property rights on that island which it was incapable of defending, what is to prevent the United States asserting sovereignty over an equal number of Australians on the grounds that without our defense they also would have been conquered? Americans have no intention, of course, of taking Australia against the will of the Australians, but such a proposal would be just as reasonable as the pipe dream attributed to Canberra.

MEN IN SPATS.

The state department has recently undertaken a series of broadcasts with the avowed purpose of familiarizing the American people with its work. Somewhere the American people picked up the notion that the department is staffed with men who went to Harvard, inherited wealth, drink tea, wear spats, and speak with a genuine or synthetic Oxford accent. It is just possible that this concept was born of patient observation within the walls of the state department of spat-sporting statesmen with Harvard polish and Oxford accents, but, at any rate, the gentlemen concerned are seeking thru their broadcasts to establish a different character for themselves.

They should be congratulated for a courage amounting almost to hardihood, but perhaps a word of warning to the radio audience is warranted. When "The State Department Speaks" is on the air, the listeners will do well to remember that the viewpoints expressed are not those which all Americans must accept without question as we accept Washington as the national capital and the dollar as the monetary unit. These men presently conduct the foreign relations of our government, but its foreign policy is formed by the American people and if they don't like it they can change it. They can even restore to it the sanity that characterized American policy for the first hundred years of our national existence.

CARLSON AND HIS BOYS.

The American Association for the Advancement of Science has elected Prof. Anton J. Carlson as its president. This is, of course, a tribute to Dr. Carlson's eminence as a scientist, but, more than that, it is an expression of the all but universal esteem which this man has won for himself in his many years of research and teaching at the University of Chicago.

Dr. Carlson has that rarest and most precious of teacher's gifts, the ability to kindle the imagination of the student. Dozens of his boys have achieved distinction in research, in teaching, and in the practice of medicine, and to a man they acknowledge their great debt to him. Among his disciples here in Chicago are such eminent physiologists as Dr. Andrew C. Ivy and Dr. Arno Luckhardt, whose careers in science can be said to have started in Dr. Carlson's laboratory.

Dr. Carlson's strength and honesty of mind, his candor and forthrightness, are proverbial. He says what he thinks, and sometimes his judgments are harsh but they never are cruel. Scores of his students will testify to his acts of kindness to them. If ever there was a director of research who was more insistent on giving full credit for their achievements to the men working under him, his name hasn't come to our attention.

PHONY POST-WAR PLANNING.

Speaker Rayburn came to Chicago with the connivance of the discredited Mayor La Guardia, head of the United States Conference of Mayors, for the apparent purpose of throwing a scare into that outfit. He visioned a man on horseback and a dictatorship if America fails to follow the fantasies that the New Dealers call post-war economic planning.

Their ideas of planning are pretty much limited to vast public works projects, for which too many of the mayors have a weakness, since federal subsidies give them a chance to make an impression on their constituents while the cost is extracted from the same constituents by federal income taxes instead of local tax rates.

Another speaker before the conference was Henry J. Kaiser, who also plumped for a vast program of publicly financed construction. Mr. Kaiser admittedly has engineering talents of a high order and the executive ability to pick assistants who carry his plans thru. If his speech before the mayors is a true index, however, his economic and social ideas are strictly of the pickup variety. His talk might be a transcription of Harold Ickes, played with a less scratchy needle.

The trouble with Speaker Rayburn and Mr. Kaiser, and the New Deal ghosts who do their economic thinking for them, is that they start out with the assumption of a great depression after the war. They contend that the government is going to have to bail the people out of whatever trouble the peace finds them in. This is the firm belief of Mr. Roosevelt's tax and spend crew, because it is the only formula they have ever been able to learn. They measure national wealth in treasury balances and the money turnover of public pay rolls. A pay check that hasn't the great seal of the United States on its face they view with high suspicion.

Speaker Rayburn, with Mr. Kaiser as his precursor, was trying to perpetuate this gang in office after the next election. As he comes from Texas, it may be presumed that Mr. Rayburn's worries are not personal. But the country is thru with the New Deal crew who have brought such ruin upon it and it certainly will be in no mood after it has got rid of the New Deal politicians next fall to countenance the continued economic depredations of the New Deal planners for whom the speaker was fronting. He adds nothing to his stature and to the supposed economic sanity of the Texas Democrats by allying himself with such people.

While this economic blue sky stock was being peddled to Chicagoans by imported emissaries of the little minds of Washington the real economic post-war problem was being stated by a Chicagoan in another city. James L. Donnelly, executive vice president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, told an Atlanta meeting of industrialists that the country's post-war goal must be "the production of the largest possible volume of peace time goods, in the shortest possible time, and at the lowest possible cost."

If that goal can be attained there need be no fear of a post-war depression. It can be attained unless the country is so foolish as to tolerate a dictatorial regime in Washington which stifles industry with taxes in order to carry out a sterile program of public works and other make-work devices.

The economic planning of the New Deal is worthless because it is all based on the fallacy that the objective should be employment purely as employment, regardless of whether the employment produces anything useful. What this country wants after the war is steel and automobiles, and washing machines and new homes, and better laundry service and more convenient local transportation. It is those things that American industry is prepared to furnish and to furnish, in Mr. Donnelly's words, in the largest possible volume, in the shortest possible time, and at the lowest possible cost.

The kind of employment that produces these things is the employment that raises the living standards of the nation. The kind of employment that the New Dealers are talking about is that which will merely pile added burdens of debt on the people and make it increasingly difficult to produce the articles that better living conditions. The public works program is not likely to result in a high percentage of usefulness, because the projects, as ten years' experience has demonstrated, are going to be allocated on a political basis and not on a basis of economic need.

Speaker Rayburn's talk of a man on horseback is a red herring. The more the government undertakes to regulate the economy and provide the employment in the country, the closer we are to dictatorship. The choice of the kind of post-war planning we are to have boils down to the question whether we are going to allow the national resources to be monopolized and dissipated by the addlepates who have already brought the country close to ruin, or whether we want those resources to be organized, processed, and distributed by the free enterprise that in the past brought our standard of living above that of any other country in the world.

Pat. U. S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS GRINS AND BEARS IT.

22d Jan.—Shall spend my week-ends for the next month and a half in trying to solve the greatest mystery story in the world, which is the income tax form 1040. Have already practiced on 1040 A, called the simplified form, and have arrived at what seems to be the right answer without understanding it clearly. Now I shall go to bat in the big league, as if facing a screwball pitcher. Consulting an expert would be a waste of time and money, for after I had spent hours in collecting figures on the income, the outgo, the check-off, and the rake-off, the expert would merely do the arithmetic and decide against me on all arguable deductions.

Am enjoying this mild winter, but have begun to worry over the drouth, like the war gardeners, and every morning after I roll out of bed I look out my window for snow without seeing any. If this dry spell runs into the spring, intend to start a cactus garden, like the natives of Arizona and California. But anyway, the unclouded skies make for fine stargazing when I walk my dog at midnight, and when I get my new spectacles I hope to be able to count a few stars in the Pleiades, which at present are a blur to me.

Forgathered with Vincent Starrett, August Derleth, and a few other bookworms the other night, and we took our minds off the war by talking about horror stories. Told them a true ghost story that caused their eyes to pop, but I cannot swear it is true because I got it second hand and the witness is dead.

Derleth is preparing a book of the greatest ghost stories he knows in print, and Starrett is hunting for the best spy stories, and they were both open to suggestions, but I couldn't remember anything they hadn't thought of already. Any one who would like to toss them a few titles can write me a letter, which I will pass on.

Now to tackle form 1040, which reminds me of the cryptogram in Poe's "The Gold Bug."

FOR THE LONELY.

I would not trespass on the hallowed shrine
Whose symbol burns in tiny stars of gold;
For speech is alien, and no words divine
The tender knowledge that your hearts enfold.
Yours still the comfort of their youthful day
When laughter nestled silver in your dreams;
Their joys and cares seem still not far away,
And all that was, remembered, softly gleams.
Our task, to build the world for which they died,
And in that morning when man's conflict ends
We shall turn humbly for a sign and guide
To you, bereaved, whose charity transcends
The battle's heat; and may your whispered word
Grant all men counsel that your sons once heard.

Those Traveling Roosevelts.

If Eleanor had made a stopover at New Madrid, Mo., during her cross-country tour, our First Lady would not have been the first one bearing the Roosevelt patronymic to cut a figure in the history of that ancient burg. An ancestor of her husband, Nicholas J. Roosevelt, grand-uncle of Teddy, and his bride were the only passengers on a vessel to make the first voyage down the Mississippi for the purpose of convincing Fulton, of steamboat fame, that "Old Man River" was suitable for steam navigation. The first paddle-wheel steamboat, named New Orleans, was built for this purpose and the Roosevelts were the only passengers on her maiden voyage in 1811. At New Madrid they encountered the first shock of a terrifying earthquake, the most destructive and extensive the country had ever known, probably the greatest upheaval and sinking of the earth's crust in a nonvolcanic region since history began. Terror and destructive shocks spread all thru the Ohio and Mississippi valleys into the Carolinas, Virginia, Georgia, Pennsylvania, even Massachusetts. But the Roosevelts escaped, and the New Orleans in 1812 docked in her namesake city.

MUSIC OF THE HEAVENS.

O, I have heard the golden horns
Whose immemorial fanfares, blown
From eastern skies, proclaim once more
The sun's ascension to his throne;

The silver harpstrings broadly swept,
As twilight deepens into night,
And stars spread over heaven's dark
In clear arpeggios of light;

And, out of darkness in the east,
The soft, incomparable tune
Played on a dulcimer of pearl,
The nocturne of the rising moon.

Mutiny in a Country School.

Linemaster: The item, "Country School Days 50 Years Ago" [Jan. 11], carried me to my own rural schoolhouse. The description was true in every detail. However, we added to our Friday afternoon program, every other week, a literary program of readings. We had one boy who refused to give a reading, but after much threatening on the part of the schoolmarm, he consented. This was his recitation:

O Lord of Love, come down from above
And pity us poor scholars;
We hired a fool to teach our school,
And paid her twenty-five dollars.

How to Shock the Old Man.

Ever since women brazenly adopted slacks as a work-and-play costume I've been afraid there would be violent repercussions on us modest men. Last night, while removing the pins from a pair of new lounging pajamas [a Christmas gift], I staggered back under the first shocking impact. The pants were missing! Hig.

Later: What I thought was a pajama top turned out to be a fancy sport shirt. Even so, I'm still suffering from shock.

THE PESKY COLD SORE.

COLD sores, or fever blisters, are not as simple as we would wish. They cause considerable annoyance, are unsightly, and may persist for weeks.

As a rule the victim realizes what is in prospect. A swollen, reddish spot develops somewhere about the face, and within a few hours may become transformed into a watery bleb or a cluster of them. In the meantime the blemish is painful and—if broken—will present a raw, oozing appearance. A week or two should wind up the episode but recovery will depend more upon the state of health than upon the remedy employed.

We know that a virus is responsible. Fortunately, in human beings, this particular species occasions but little disturbance. Should the patient become upset emotionally, fatigued, suffer a digestive derangement, or exhibit a fever—these eruptions are more likely to appear. They are quite common in pneumonia or in any wasting disease. Some individuals are so susceptible that every cold will be accompanied by one or more "pets."

The first rule in treatment is to cleanse the parts thoroly. This means soap and water and periodic gargling with an alkaline mouth wash. The application of spirits of camphor every few minutes, using the cork of the bottle, will be of benefit. If the outbreak seems to be spreading, a single mild X-ray exposure will prevent extension.

Some authorities advocate the employment of smallpox lymph or the withdrawal of blister fluid and its injection beneath the skin. Rarely will these measures be necessary and only then with patients who encounter the malady at frequent intervals.

A useful type of management includes puncturing each bleb [there are usually numerous segments] and removing the secretion. Pricking with a sterile needle [which should never be undertaken without skilled assistance] will allow the material to drain. The cells will collapse, a scab will form quickly, and drop off in less than a week.

There is some reason to believe that many lesions within the mouth, particularly with infants, are similar in character. Altho most of the cankers have been blamed upon plant fungi, we must not forget the possibility that cold sores may attack the mucous membrane inside the oral cavity.

For those who are addicts, good hygiene, adequate nourishment, and rest are our best preventives. Proper care of the teeth and of the airways is a part of the program. Gargling with a mild antiseptic is always in order.

If a true ulcer develops we may know that the tissues have been contaminated with bacteria. Then it is that a mild dusting powder, containing two to three per cent sulfathiazole, will be of value. Try as we may to avoid it, we will always touch the tender areas with the tongue. There is a certain amount of healing power in this procedure. As we know, when Rover gets hurt, he licks his wounds. The only danger is from a foul mouth which may plant pus-forming germs upon an already irritated surface.

COLDS FROM DRAFTS.

A. T. writes: Can sitting in a draft cause a cold? Where do the germs come in?

REPLY.

It may, by lowering resistance. The germs are present in the airways all of the time. They are ready to pounce upon you just as soon as you commit some foolhardy act which defies the rules of good hygiene.

BONE INJURY.

Mrs. R. B. writes: What is Köhler's disease? Is an X-ray necessary?

REPLY.

This malady may be the result of injury. It involves an important bone in the foot. The patient limps and complains of pain on walking. An X-ray will reveal the site of the trouble.

NO BARRIER.

Mrs. R. J. P. writes: I have been told that permanent bridgework will render ether ineffective. I expect to have an operation soon and want to be sure. Is this true?

REPLY.

SURGERY IS NEEDED.

M. C. writes: Is a cyst on the thyroid gland dangerous?

REPLY.

Much depends upon the character of the enlargement. Removal is the safest rule to follow as spontaneous disappearance is rare.

INTESTINAL PARASITES.

Mrs. J. B. writes: Is tapeworm the same as pork worm?

REPLY.

How to Win the War.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Neither the war department nor the department of psychological warfare has come to this department of higher thought yet for suggestions on how to bring the war in the Pacific to an immediate and victorious conclusion, but both probably will be around tomorrow, their tongues hanging out, for it is solved.

Our solution hinges on the very best Japanese superstitions, and altho the Japanese think it an insult to their language to have foreigners speak it or even mention their more sacred voodoos, the war department could have ascertained these things months ago in an hour by calling the Library of Congress and the Smithsonian institution. From two scholars conversant with customs Japanese we learned that the average Japanese is hounded from the age 1—the age at which he is born—to the grave by a coterie of five superstitions, violation of any one of which means death.

The numeral 4 is the most common, probably because you can't count without it. The Japs find the word most deplorable because in the native tongue it is pronounced, altho not written, the same way as the word for death, shi. Not only do the Japs avoid pronouncing it, but the more enlightened ones replace it with the Sino-Jap word, yotsu, pronounced yon, and in counting never say one, two, three, shi, but say one, two, three, give a startled look in all directions, and cry yon! This breaks the deadly charm somewhat, but no man who wishes to live past his bridal couch will marry a girl whose age differs from his by more than four years.

As a direction, the northeast does not exist. It is known as the demon's gate, and danger always comes from it. No homes are built with openings to the northeast, and no wells are dug on that side of the home. If a house must be moved, the shifting is done circuitously to prevent any opening from facing the northeast at any time. Nor will any Japanese sleep with his head to the north, for that is the direction in which corpses are laid out. The east is best, with the south running it a close second.

Fire is an arch enemy, a belief traced to the fact that Japanese homes are built of wood. No nail parings may be thrown into a fire. If so, it [the fire] will take revenge on the man by burning him or his home. Throwing persimmon stones into the fire will cause an epidemic of leprosy, and on days of the month in which the numeral 2 occurs the power of fire is considered very strong.

Cameras long were considered fiendish instruments, capable of absorbing the spirit of the person photographed. That belief no longer prevails, but it is unlucky to photograph a group of three persons. If so, the person in the center will die.

Finally, death rides in on a rainstorm.

Our suggestion is to pool these superstitions and make an invasion force of them. Take any island, take even the coast of Japan proper, and have our boys come riding in standing on boats covered with the numeral 4. They will come from the northeast in the middle of a driving tropical rain and will yell shi, shi, shi as they come. This might be more effective, and less hazardous on the vocal cords, if the advance boats be filled with radio broadcasters whose voices have undergone years of basic training for just such an undertaking. Better still, have public address systems on each boat with the sound directed toward shore.

Each of our boys will carry a camera which he will focus on groups of three persons, and the commanders of the invasion will casually pare their nails on the way in and drop the parings into the flame throwers, which already have been stocked with persimmon stones. It is doubtful whether either of the two latter resources will be called upon, as every Jap who can see or hear will be waving a white flag of surrender long before the shore is reached. Once they have surrendered, they will be forced to sleep with their heads to the north. Annihilation will be bloodless and complete.

WHY WOMEN DON'T WORK.

Gary, Ind., Jan. 15.—This is probably one good reason why there are 25,000 war jobs going begging in Chicago: We just can't afford to leave our homes and go to work! I know that, with all of my qualifications, I cannot afford to work for the salary that the war production board would allow any war plant to pay me. I have had 14 years' experience in mechanical drafting and simple designing with a little experience in electrical drafting. I can work from rough sketches or even oral instructions. I have had mechanical layout and sheet metal layout and fabrication. I have done blueprinting, kept cost records, and have a fair secretarial ability. In spite of this valuable and needed training I am just another housewife because I would have the following expenses to meet if I went to work:

1. Cost of housekeeper, $75 to $100, plus board and room. [I have a small child.]
2. Thirty to forty per cent for federal and state income taxes [my husband is gainfully employed so my whole salary would be subject to higher surtax rates].
3. About $30 a month transportation to any part of Chicago from my home.

From this, you can see that $200 a month would not even allow for lunches or upkeep of clothing, let alone purchase of war bonds or insurance. I do not ask that women be allowed a large profit for working, but I do think they should be able to cover expenses without digging into their husband's pockets. JUST A HOUSEWIFE.

LABOR SLAVERY AND ELECTIONS.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Is it not significant that the New Deal advocates universal conscription of all able bodied adults for war work in an election year?

In order to have the right of franchise it is necessary to have an established abode in a state, county, and election district for a stipulated period of time. If millions of people were to be shifted from here to there and everywhere else—how then could they have the privilege of voting in this year's national election?

NOBLE OPPORTUNITY.

Cave Junction, Ore., Jan. 13.—Should President Roosevelt announce that he has determined to eliminate himself as a possible candidate for the Presidency, he would immediately restore domestic tranquility, encourage social responsibility, inspire personal initiative, promote the general welfare, and greatly quicken every noble impulse in all Americans. REV. WILLIAM A. BROWN.

APPARENTLY HE RIDES THE BUS.

Chicago, Jan. 19.—Based on my experience as a daily commuter between the loop and Chicago's south side for the last 20 years I hereby offer the following solution to the transportation problem: Give the "L" lines a 15 cent fare, the surface lines a 4 cent fare, and the Chicago Motor Coach company a 2 cent fare. C. F. B.

READY FOR COMBAT.

Chicago, Jan. 18.—Here is a suggestion for a simple and speedy way to examine us draftees for induction. After March 15, any man who says he has gone and done it—figured his tax on the current income tax blanks—is, in my estimation, fit for anything!

AUG-DOLAK.

FOURTH PLAN.

Dubuque, Ia., Jan. 16.—In your editorial, "Three Plans," you say: "If there is still another plan, we should like to hear it." I am taking the liberty of proposing the fourth plan.

For 100 years, from 1814 to 1914, two great nations, Britain and America, lived in peace because of a harmony based on a common language and a common culture. In our country Anglo-Saxon traditions flourished. Dickens has always had his most enthusiastic audience here, and the most scholarly edition of Shakespeare is published in the United States.

When peace comes, this tradition, not of isolation, but absolute independence for both countries, can be renewed. As in the past, both nations will coöperate by the interchange of goods and by the interplay of cultural influences in the world of thought.

HERMANN S. FICKE.

DRY MILLIONS.

Aurora, Ill., Jan. 13.—I hear that the Anti-Saloon league has amassed $10,000,000 to wage its fight against John Barleycorn as a patriotic duty.

It seems to me that if these self-styled patriots wished to make a real patriotic gesture they would take that 10 million and buy war bonds. The organization made a mess of the country from 1919 to 1933. They had their chance and muffed it! Why go back to the dry era of people going blind from drinking anything containing alcohol?

GEORGE SZILAGE JR.

ARE WE AT WAR WITH MENDELSSOHN AND MOZART?

Chicago, Jan. 13.—Should our children sing German songs in our schools here in this country? I have a daughter that goes to a Catholic High school and she doesn't think it is right a. she has four brothers in the service. As for me and my wife, we don't think it is the proper thing to do with a war going on. P. E. KNOX.

IN THE SACK?

Barnesville, O., Jan. 15.—Slogans should be short and to the point. I submit—"Good-by, Santa Claus! ! !"

As an afterthought—"Take Harry with you!" W. N. BOSWELL.

INCREASED INSURANCE RATE.

Chicago, Jan. 20.—[Legal Friend of the People].—I have carried a policy in a fraternal insurance association for several years. Recently I received notice that the rate is to be raised and I question the legality of the increase. B. C.

In Taglia v. Societa, 279 Ill. App. 636, our Appellate court held that in absence of an express provision reserving to the society the right to change the insurance contract, the society had no such right. On the other hand, where the contract is expressly subject to the by-laws, or the society is in receivership, changes can, of course, be made. You should bear in mind that in many cases the change is justified by the fact that the initial payments were not on a sound actuarial basis; in other words, were not large enough to carry the risk. If this last mentioned factor enters into a large enough proportion of the insurance contracts, it may mean that the society must default if it cannot increase the assessments.

PLAN HIGHER PAY TO LURE MAKERS OF RADIO-RADAR

Federal Agencies Act to Add 3,000 Women.

BY CHARLES CHEADLE.

Higher wages and the immediate recruiting of 3,000 women in its radio-radar plants will be the first step in Chicago's program to increase its war production and avoid being put into a critical, limited-contract man power classification, representatives of six civil and military federal agencies said yesterday.

Listing the problem of adding 10 or 11 thousand new workers, mostly women, to the 50 or more radio-radar plants here within the next four months as first on its growing list of man power headaches, the war man power commission announced it had prepared a program designed to step up production in Chicago by 50 per cent "as quickly as possible."

Chicago, it was said, has more than a third of the nation's plants making electronics equipment, and half the country's equipment. Every tank, ship, plane, large gun, and many individual sailors and soldiers must have radio-radar equipment, and millions of pieces must be produced before the European invasion force can be equipped properly.

Frame Program Monday.

Representatives of the war production board, the war man power commission, the army and navy, and the army air forces, as well as labor union officials, will hold a closed session with the war labor board at 2 p. m. Monday, Robert K. Burns, WLB chairman, said, to work out pay schedules that will attract and hold workers in the industry.

The WLB, it was said, has completed a survey of wage rates and working conditions and is preparing pay brackets to cover all plants in the industry. One official said the radio-radar industry here "is handicapped by one of the lowest wage rate structures in the city."

Most plants employed semi-skilled women at 25 to 35 cents an hour before the war, and altho all increases permitted under the "Little Steel" formula and other limitations have been made, the average basic wage now is only 55 cents an hour.

Can't Compete for Workers.

"It is impossible for these plants to compete in our tight labor market with others paying more for similar skills," he said. "This inequality will have to be overcome." The board, he said, has power to grant further raises "in rare and unusual cases or where necessary to the prosecution of the war" and would be justified in setting higher brackets to meet army and navy demands.

William H. Spencer, regional WMC director, and Lester Brown, Chicago area head, agreed that the proposed wage increases would not be sufficient to attract enough women to fill the plants, and announced that a major item of a program they are preparing will be a patriotic appeal.

"If more women only realized the lives of their sons and husbands depend on their getting into the war plants, there would be fewer vacancies on production lines and far less absenteeism," Spencer said. "They must be made to realize that many of our men are going to die unnecessarily if we don't send them the equipment they have a right to expect of us."

Plan Increased Efficiency.

Spencer said other steps in the radio-radar stabilization program, as well as those to be started later for other industries, will include improved utilization of present workers, upgrading to supervisory jobs, training schools, better recreational and sanitary conditions, and overhauling of production methods to eliminate idleness of workers and equipment.

Spencer conferred yesterday with Brown and other regional and area officials and said he would have a complete program for the radio-radar plants and for more than 700 others next week. Foundries, aircraft and parts, and a few other "highly critical" industries will be given help as soon as possible, he said.

MOTHER, SISTER, AND 4 CHILDREN DIE IN FLAMES

Lima, O., Jan. 21 (AP).—Six persons perished early today in a fire that swept a farm home near Spencerville, southwest of here. Coroner Harry Lewis identified the victims as:

Mrs. Sadie Messer Handshoe, 32 years old; her sister, Cletha Messer, 19, and Mrs. Handshoe's four children, Ruby Murle, 7; Palestine, 6; Paul Glen, 3, and Charles Donald, 8 months.

James Handshoe, the husband and father, was at work in the Lima tank depot.

Lewis said the fire started from a stove used in heating the home, and that the six were trapped in their beds.

Five Die in Evansville Fire.

The dead were: Roy White, 22; a man identified as Roy E. Burroughs, and three persons whose bodies were too charred to identify.

Pullman Workers Name Chicagoan President

A. F. Lanka of Chicago was elected national president of the Independent Pullman Workers' federation yesterday at the convention in Morrison hotel. W. R. Heideman of Cincinnati, O., was elected vice president; E. M. Kurtz, Chicago, secretary, and J. C. Waterbrook, Chicago, treasurer. P. R. Jordan and Ezra Evans of St. Louis and W. F. Steen of Detroit were elected trustees. The federation membership consists of mechanics, electricians, painters, upholsterers, storekeepers, nonclerical workers, and car cleaners employed by the Pullman company.

DROUTH CAUSE IS BIG MYSTERY TO FORECASTER

The weather bureau confessed yesterday it was "in the dark" as to the reasons for the prolonged drouth thruout the middle west. The war has prevented gathering the usual hemispheric reports and the cause of the drouth is not revealed in any conditions prevailing in the United States, Forecaster G. L. Canaday said.

"Our flow of moisture into the United States is influenced greatly by semi-permanent high pressure areas such as the one lying over the Azores Islands. A change of its normal position or any unusual conditions there might well cut the fall of rain to this part of the country," he said.

"As the weather bureau no longer gets reports from ships at sea and foreign bureaus we do not know what is happening. We see here only the result and not the cause."

FORMER COUNTY CHIEF TELLS OF 3 RAIDS ON DOME

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

Hugh McCarthy, formerly chief of the county highway police, testified yesterday that he had twice ordered raids last summer on The Dome, a big gambling house at 7466 Irving Park road, and intended to raid it a third time. He was a state's witness in the trial of two of his former subordinates, Lt. Myles McDonough and Policeman Philip Schwartz, before Judge Rudolph Desort in Criminal court.

His men were a trifle late the third time, McCarthy said. They found the state's attorney's office had just made the raid that started a grand jury gambling investigation in which McCarthy himself was indicted, and nine city police captains were suspended.

Charged with Conspiracy.

McDonough and Schwartz are charged with conspiracy to aid and abet the operation of a gambling house. Their principal connection with the last raid on The Dome, which occurred Sept. 8, was in regard to the disposition of seven roulette wheels, six crap tables, and other gambling paraphernalia.

McCarthy, who is charged with malfeasance in office, said the two raids made by his men at The Dome were on complaints from the state's attorney's office. One was in July and the next on Aug. 12, he said.

The establishment was operated all last summer by the Guzik syndicate which netted $250,000 in winnings from the patrons, the state's attorney's office reported.

"On Sept. 8 I went home sick and some time later my secretary told me the Chicago crime commission telephoned a complaint about gambling at The Dome," McCarthy told the jury of six men and six women. "I called the Morton Grove station of our department and got Sgt. John Pufahls on the wire. I told him to raid the place and keep it closed.

"Told Aids to Coöperate."

"Pufahls called me later and said that when he got there the state's attorney's police were in charge. Lt. McDonough also called me. I told McDonough to coöperate with the state's attorney's police."

Sgt. Joseph Healy of State's Atty. Courtney's staff, testified that at the time of the Dome raid he marked each of the roulette wheels and tables "HX" as a means of identification. The two roulette wheels on exhibition in the courtroom were not among those seized in the raid, he testified.

The trial will continue Monday.

Inspector Edwin Daly of the police personnel department testified at the trial of Capt. Walter Healy before the city civil service commission that he searched the station records in vain for entries concerning gambling complaints relayed to the Hyde Park station from Police Commissioner Allman's office. Healy was commander of the Hyde Park station before his suspension.

REVIVED AFTER HEART ATTACK.

OPEN NEW DRIVE FOR INCREASE IN LAKE DIVERSION

Far south side civic organizations, in the area served by the Dunne crib where the coliform bacteria count reached an all time winter high on Jan. 3, are preparing new resolutions to congress demanding immediate approval of Chicago's petition for an increase in the water diversion rate from 1,500 to 5,000 cubic feet a second.

Frank Rydzewski, president of Russell Square Improvement association, at a meeting Wednesday night, assailed the delay of the house rivers and harbors committee, to which the city's petition has been referred. Rydzewski said a special meeting of the organization will be called to forward new resolutions.

Woodlawn Leader Assails Delay.

Albert H. Chapman, water purification committee chairman of Associated Clubs of Woodlawn, said yesterday that delay in acting on diversion petition and rejection of the city's requests for material priorities for the 79th street filtration plant have left his organization confused and disgusted.

"We are getting the run-around," said Chapman. "Our pleas are falling upon deaf ears. Our only recourse is to urge the boiling of water. We welcome the new daily coliform bacteria count."

Two Other Groups to Act.

William H. Frey, president of the East 75th Street Business Men's association, and Richard M. Lenihan, president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, are preparing resolutions to be sent congress. Both previously have filed pleas.

The coliform bacteria count at the Dunne crib Wednesday was as follows: 4.5 per 100 cubic centimeters of water at 2 a. m.; 13 at 8 a. m.; 2 at 2 p. m. and 7.8 at 8 p. m. The United States public health service has pronounced water containing more than 50 such bacteria per 100 cubic centimeters unsafe.

QUOTE HITLER AS URGING COUPS BY S. AMERICA NAZIS

La Razon Prints Letter Outlining Plots.

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Jan. 21 (AP).—A purported photograph of a letter signed by Ruppert Weilhermer, secretary of the political bureau of the German embassy at Buenos Aires, instructing Nazi agents in South America to do their utmost in 1944 to break up the Pan-American bloc, was published today by the newspaper La Razon.

The letter, quoting instructions from Erich Otto Meynen, German charge d'affairs in Argentina, said the inspiration came from Adolf Hitler. Iron crosses were promised workers.

See Link to Coups.

La Razon declared the letter proved a connection between German agents and the Argentine revolution of June as well as a tie-up with the Bolivian coup of Dec. 20. La Razon said the letter was addressed to Robert Kellman, Nazi agent in Brazil, and was dated Dec. 28, 1943. The letter stated Meynen had received a personal message from Hitler "expressing his gratefulness and recognition to me and all my collaborators on account of services rendered this year in the American continent.

"Besides, the fuehrer expressed his hope that next year [1944] each one of us using all his ability and sacrificing his properties, even his life, contribute to a realization of what had been ordered—a break in the Pan-American front under Yankee and Brazilian sway thru maximum help to all revolutionary, anti-allied, anti-semitic elements in South American countries and hinder as much as possible the supply of materials to the principal enemies of the third reich."

Tell of Patriotic Junta.

La Razon said the Argentine June revolution was the work of a "patriotic junta" originally created in the Army club at Buenos Aires in September, 1941, with Gen. Pedro Ramirez, now president of Argentina, and Gen. Arturo Rawson, leader of the coup, taking part.

The junta kept in close touch with the German embassy and with Bolivian and other South American nationalistic leaders, La Razon said. Their meeting place was the house of Count Karl von Luxburg, former German minister in Buenos Aires who was declared persona non grata in World War I.

Kohn Came Via U-Boat.

The newspaper declared that on the night of Aug. 15 a German submarine surfaced a few miles off La Plata, Argentina, and landed Willy Kohn, former Nazi party commissioner in South America and present director of the Latin American section of the German foreign office, along with 40 boxes.

Kohn then met a number of Argentine and German notables, including Enrique Ruiz Guinazu, foreign minister in the former Argentine administration of President Ramon Castillo, La Razon reported.

British Hold Argentine Consul.

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Jan. 21 (AP).—The Argentine foreign office announced tonight that British officials at Trinidad had detained Osmar Alberto Hellmuth, Argentine consul, from a vessel en route to Europe. "The British foreign office informed this chancellery that detention was the result of information that proved Hellmuth was an 'enemy agent,'" the statement said, adding that "as information supplied by the British foreign office may imply the existence of an espionage organization in our country, of which Hellmuth was said to be a member, the government has ordered an ample investigation."

It was learned that Hellmuth was headed for Barcelona, Spain, after being named auxiliry consul for that post.

Grace Buchanan-Dineen, prosecution witness in Detroit espionage trail.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 21 [Special].—How Nazi spies make a secret ink for communicating with each other was told today to a federal court jury trying two Detroiters charged with aiding an espionage ring. Reporters, however, were advised not to divulge to the public the name of the principal ingredient.

The disclosure was made by Grace Buchanan-Dineen, 35 years old, Canadian born self-styled countess, who has pleaded guilty with five others to charges of conspiring to commit espionage. She is the government's chief witness against her alleged former confederates, Dr. Fred W. Thomas, 44, an obstetrician, and Bertrand Stuart Hoffman, 27, merchant marine seaman.

Miss Buchanan-Dineen said she was told of the secret ink in Berlin by a German woman spy who also showed her how to make it by dissolving in 90 proof alcohol tablets of a drug now in common use but sold only on prescription. The ink is applied to paper with cotton batting on the end of a toothpick to avoid scratches that might reveal the presence of mystery writing. It is made visible by soaking in a baking soda solution.

J. J. SHERLOCK'S FUNERAL RITES SET FOR TODAY

Sherlock, 80 years old, who for many years operated a tavern at 1012 North Clark street that was a favorite meeting place of many old time political leaders, will be buried today in Calvary cemetery after funeral services at Mount Carmel church. He died Thursday in Mercy hospital. Mr. Sherlock had been in retirement for 10, years, residing in Union Pier, Mich. His widow, Catherine; a daughter, Mrs. Edward M. Collins, 5555 Sheridan road, and two sons, Don M. Sherlock, Los Angeles, Cal., and Edward J. Sherlock, 6341 Winthrop avenue, survive. Mr. Sherlock founded his tavern in 1892. He numbered among his especial friends both Carter Harrisons, the elder and the younger. The latter now is collector of internal revenue.

WOMAN DEALER IN DOLLS SEIZED AS SPY SUSPECT

Is Accused of Sending Code Messages.

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Kicking and clawing, Mrs. Velvalee Dickinson, 50 years old, a dealer in antique dolls, was arrested by FBI agents in a downtown bank today and charged with sending coded messages to South America.

She was held in $25,000 bail. The FBI said the woman formerly had Japanese connections and had concealed code messages in what appeared to be ordinary letters addressed to South America.

[At Montevideo, Uruguay, the newspaper La Razon yesterday published a letter instructing Nazi agents to do their utmost in 1944 to break the Pan American bloc thru a series of coups. Reportedly signed by Ruppert Weilhermer of the German embassy at Buenos Aires, the letter was said to quote Adolf Hitler as directing the plots. Story on page 14.]

Had $18,000 in Box.

Special Agent E. E. Conroy said Mrs. Dickinson was arrested in the bank's vault for safety deposit boxes where she had about $18,000 in one of the boxes.

The FBI said she operates an exclusive doll shop on Madison avenue and is considered an authority on dolls. It added that her shop attracted a wealthy clientele, including members of the Hollywood motion picture colony.

The federal bureau said Mrs. Dickinson had been a member of the Japanese-American society until 1937 and had handled brokerage accounts for Japanese residents in California's Imperial valley.

Knew Ja, Officials.

Conroy said she was well known to persons connected with the Japanese consulate and military attaches on the west coast prior to the war, and had been a frequent visitor to the Japan institute here.

She was charged specifically by United States Attorney James B. M. McNally with mailing a coded letter March 4, 1942, to Senora Inez Lopez de Molinali at Buenos Aires, Argentina, in violation of federal censorship laws.

The law provides a maximum penalty of fines totaling $10,000 or ten years in prison or both, Conroy said.

CITY GETS $500 HORSE TROUGH IF COUNCIL AGREES

The city will receive a check for $500 from the estate of Mrs. Florine Mix if the city council passes an order accepting the bequest, Corporation Counsel Hodes said yesterday. Mrs. Mix's will provided that the money be used for the erection of a drinking trough for horses.

The major part of her estate, which totaled $282,851 after state and federal inheritance taxes had been deducted, was left to Henry O. Larson, a former Chicago policeman who is now in the navy. Larson was the "cop on the beat" near Mrs. Mix's home at 1112 East 48th street until the time of her death in 1942.

Small Parties on Calendar Revolve About Visitors Here

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE few parties that are being given these quiet days—socially speaking—revolve about visitors in town. When Mrs. Thomas E. Torrey arrives from Washington, D. C., with her two little daughters Monday she will be seeing her old friends at a number of small gatherings. Her mother, Mrs. Frank E. Brawley, is giving a luncheon at the Woman's Athletic club Thursday.

Hope Torrey, who is 5 years old, and Vernon, 3, will be meeting a number of new playmates and renewing friendships with their cousins, the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Walker Lewis, who recently bought a new home in River Forest, which they still are in process of settling, as work of that sort is slow at this time. Dr. and Mrs. Brawley will leave for Fort Lauderdale, Fla., next month.

Mr. and Mrs. John K. Notz are entertaining at tea tomorrow afternoon in their Winnetka home for Mrs. Notz's mother and sister, Mrs. Albert Trostel of Milwaukee and Mrs. Frederick Welcher. Mrs. Welcher flew here from the Welchers' ranch home near Mexico City, where they have been living for the last six years.

Another visitor is Mrs. John B. Belair of Melbourne, Australia, who arrived in Winnetka Christmas night, surprising her daughter, Mrs. Edmund Kurtz, and Mr. Kurtz. Mrs. Kurtz had expected that her mother might attempt the long trip from Australia, but had not received any definite word from the traveler. Mrs. Belair made the trip by boat.

On the Calendar.

About 170 pictorial posters that were used as advertisments at the beginning of the century will go on view with a preview and tea from 4 to 6 p. m. tomorrow at the Chicago Historical society. Members have been invited to see the posters, all directly concerned with Chicago, which are from the collection of Joseph T. Ryerson. The exhibit will be opened to the public next Friday, to continue thru April 15.

Mr. and Mrs. Ryerson will be present at the preview, along with a number of trustees of the society, but there will be no receiving line, and tea will be served by the society staff.

Members of the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations and their guests will hear George Weller, war correspondent, speak following luncheon at 12:30 p. m. today in the Palmer House. Mr. Weller is the author of "Not to Eat—Not for Love," a novel about Harvard university, from which he was graduated in 1929.

At the speaker's table will be Frederic C. Woodward, president of the council, and Mrs. Woodward; the Donald McPhersons, Edwin Embree and his son, George Embree, and the Pierce Atwaters, among others. Mrs. Edwin F. Lee, wife of a Methodist bishop, who came from Singapore on the same ship with Mr. Weller, will be a luncheon guest.

A gala party for the 17th midshipmen class of the naval reserve training school at Northwestern university, which is about to be graduated, will be given tonight at the Chicago Yacht club. Members of the 18th class have been invited to witness the entertainment their predecessors have arranged, which includes a jam session, a take off of the Andrews sisters, and a can-can number. Mrs. William Faurot, who is in charge of the party, has asked some Service club members to put on a pony ballet and to stay afterward to dance with the navy guests.

Some of those in the club chorus will be Miss Priscilla Burr, Miss Beth Coleman, Miss Betty Berry, Miss Ann Mosson, Miss Nancy Hanna, Miss Mary Ann Anderson, and Miss Florence Yochum. Mr. and Mrs. Clyde E. Larish will act as chaperones for the Yacht club.

Engagement News.

From Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Waring of Plainfield, N. J., and Edgartown, Mass., comes the announcement of the engagement of their daughter, Carolyn Reid, to Capt. Robert Frederic MacLeod of the marines, son of Mrs. Ernest F. MacLeod and the late Mr. MacLeod of Glen Ellyn. White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Replies to Nosey.

I am intrigued with Nosey Parker's foray into a dangerous realm and offer myself as subject No. 6 in the study of why white collar girls hate the boss' wife.

I don't mind admitting my boss' wife is: [1] Stunning, [2] brilliant, [3] sweet tempered, [4] tactful, and [5] a challenge to any glamor girl in the office. DOROTHY.

P. S. I am the boss' wife and his private secretary.

Tell Nosey here is one white collar girl who doesn't hate the boss' wife—we all think she's swell! As for mink, what's mink, Nosey?

G. E.

I don't hate the boss' wife. He hasn't one. BETTY.

Now that Nosey Parker is back with us once more, all other poll takers may retire. For Nosey has touched inadvertently upon a deep, hidden spring of human conduct—the fact that women hate women.

Ah, Nosey, youthful and exuberant optimist! Didst hope to learn why? Blithe and foolhardy friend—friend to man if not to woman!

G. SAWYER.

Have You Heard?

From a Y. W. C. A. bulletin: "Have you heard about the young stenographer who, when asked how long she had been working for the firm, replied: 'Ever since the boss threatened to fire me.'"

White Collar Groan.

Something to wilt a collar: To have the switchboard girl take messages for my boss and give them to him when he comes in so he thinks I was not in the office while he was out. SECRETARY.

Looking for Trouble.

I hope to live to see the day
[I haven't seen it yet]
When two ash blondes will equal
The worth of one brunette.

SLUG.

On the Memo Pad.

With candy included in so many army rations, it's interesting to know that the Pilgrims sent to England for a supply of candy for their first Thanksgiving day; that half the candy bars manufactured in the United States are made in Chicago, it being an occupation that employs many thousands of women workers; that there are at least six large companies making candy bars in Chicago and that the first candy bars were put on the market in 1915—and that the business girls are eating bigger breakfasts now when it's harder to get a candy bar for a midmorning snack. . . . Girls and men overseas write home for many odd things. Bernice Koller tells about the Chicago WAC who wanted just one thing—a box of starch. . . . Nutritionists are saying that 50 per cent of industrial fatigue is due to poor diet. Only about half of a group of workers [under observation] chose adequate lunches in cafeteria lines and the women made poorer choices than the men. . . . A Chicago doctor is keeping a record of grammatical errors heard over the radio, including those of women broadcasters.

Advice Given on Managing Problem Boy

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Before me is a letter from which I will pick out a few salient sentences: "I have a 2 year old boy. Before he was born I had always adored children, but, to my sorrow, I am changing. Unless my son is spanked and punished he will not obey. When I scold him he is sorry, then tries to make up with one of his fascinating little smiles. He is wild and destructive."

My impulse is to make such a mother see what joy she is missing during these lovely years of young childhood. But since I cannot indulge myself, I will attempt a brief and practical answer to this letter:

First, I would emphatically suggest that you change your management of your son. Dispense with the scolding and punishment; he can be guided and managed so that you won't need to resort to these measures at all to gain his obedience.

For his destructiveness try giving him plenty of opportunities for vigorous play and toys suited to his age so that he has a constructive outlet for his energies. Give him blocks and such things to occupy his hands. In setting him play with many things around the house you will have to distinguish between the objects that he may just touch and those he may handle and play with.

It is perfectly natural for your son to want you to play with him. He needs talk and loving companionship of his parents and an interest in his accomplishments. Instead of being annoyed by this, why don't you just make a companion of him and let him share the things you do around the house and show interest in his play? Of course, it's a little difficult for mothers and naturally you will get tired, but it's well worth the trouble. Even tho your schedule of work and shopping may be behind, it shouldn't upset you. After all, his development is most important.

I only wish you might realize that this is probably the most captivating and enjoyable time in your little child's life.

Thru the Looking Glass

There's just nothing to be said for the strident voice in a woman. It's one of the worst qualities she can have because it inevitably makes her such a wearing person to be married to or to work with. It's unbecoming, in the first place, and in the second it is an assault on the ears and the sensibilities that becomes more and more unbearable with close association.

A good deal can be accomplished by voice training, of course. But we know few mature women who will take the pains to improve themselves in this respect. And, when you come right down to it, the thing that proves most annoying about a woman's voice is not so much the quality as the volume of it.

Speak softly. That's a habit the mature woman can easily acquire—and certainly one all parents can see that their daughters acquire. Whether your voice is thin and reedy or coarse and thick you can diminish its unattractiveness a thousandfold if you'll just LOWER it—on the telephone or in ordinary conversation.

Don't operate under the misapprehension that a loud voice makes you a person to be respected. In a woman, quite the opposite is true. The woman who has something to say and says it softly is the one with dignity. And that's the quality that commands more respect than roaring ever will.

It's quite true that the girl who works in a humming office feels she must shout to be heard and therefore falls into the habit of throwing her voice around. But it's equally true that she can always go quietly to the person to whom she wants to speak her piece and say what she has to say in a low tone. Speaking in a moderate voice under all circumstances is insurance against the bad habit of developing a speaking voice volume that drives your family and your friends mildly mad as you and they grow older.

Blouse-Jumper Combinations Again Popular

BY REA SEEGER.

The junior executives are wearing jumpers—jumper dresses of high colored wool, flannel, and gabardine for winter. Also they're looking ahead to sleek smart jumpers of cotton, rayons, and butcher's linen for summer.

Peasant style blouses to go with the jumpers have pucker drawstring neck lines and long sleeves that are simply gathered and tied into frilled cuffs. They're delightfully new models, especially in sheer cottons. Simple turnover neck lines of smart white pique under blouses provide another silhouette, because of the concise outline of the pointed revers and the cuffs of the long tailored sleeves.

Color is introduced to color when a jumper of gold wool is teamed with a blouse of navy blue, scarlet, green, or bright blue. Or the blouses can be of huge checked silk or rayon, plaids or awning stripes, or tattersall plaid patterns.

Basic jumpers provide sensationally large change projects. There are grays and neutrals for afternoon or day time wear, depending upon the occasion; brilliant high colors for spectator sports clothes, and smart dull blacks and blues which double for short evening or party dresses, using the deeply gouged out back and front neck line for flesh exposure and adding one of the provocative new shoulder shawls with fringe to cover the decollétage.

Women in War Work

—By Kate Massee—

Mrs. Charlene Gould is a Chicago woman whose war work has hemispheric proportions. She is an instructor in carburetors to aircraft technicians for the Brazilian air forces in Sao Paulo, Brazil.

Mrs. Gould, the daughter of Mrs. Charles B. Stearns of Miami, Fla., and sister of Charles B. Stearns Jr. of Evanston, was a professional violinist and music teacher until she took up aircraft studies at the Embry-Riddle school in Miami. She was trained there especially for the Brazilian project and studied Portuguese and Brazilian history and customs in addition to technical subjects.

The school in Sao Paulo is known as the technical school of aviation of the Brazilian air ministry and is said to be the most modern institution of its type in the world. It was organized as the result of a tour of the United States by Joaquim Pedro Salgado Jr., Brazilian air minister.

Mrs. Gould was born and reared in Chicago and was graduated from Senn High school and the American conservatory, where she obtained a bachelor of music degree in violin. She taught private music classes in Chicago and Miami for several years and is a member of the Miami Civic Music association and of the Miami Music club. The University of Miami granted her a B. M. degree in public school music, and she also studied at the music school of Oberlin college, Oberlin, O.

Crimes of Son, 13, Must Stop, Mother Is Told

BY RUTH MONTGOMERY.

Two brothers, 9 and 13 years old, respectively, were taken before Judge Frank H. Bicek in Juvenile court this week for larceny from the mails. This was the most recent and spectacular in a long series of juvenile offenses beginning when Harry, the elder, was 6.

"I wanted to get the money if there was any in it," the boy, standing on tiptoe to peer over the desk, murmured to the judge when asked why he stole the mail.

Questioned as to how he thought of seeking money in letters, he explained: "I knew crooks got money from mail. I've seen it in movies and read about it in detective magazines." His favorite motion pictures, which he attends at least once a week, are wild west thrillers, the youngster revealed.

Harry, whose first delinquency was "snitching money off of newsstands," has the burglarizing of 18 homes on his record. The proceeds from his latest theft, he said, he planned to use for the purchase of warm clothing. His mother countered with the information that she "had planned to buy him an overcoat if it got cold enough this winter."

The two boys never have attended Sunday school or church, altho their parents, in their youth, were Methodists. "I'd like to go to one, but I don't know how," Harry admitted. "Once I walked into a Catholic church with another kid, and I liked it all right—what I saw of it."

The father of the boys, a mechanic, is a chronic alcoholic whom Harry hates and fears. Referring to frequent beatings administered by his father, Harry said he preferred Parental school, where he has been sent several times by the Juvenile court, to "going home, where my dad is."

"I wanted to join the Boy Scouts and the Y. M. C. A.," Harry wept, "but my dad wouldn't let me. He said that was silly stuff. The day before I got in this jam I was hanging around the Y and wishing I belonged there."

Harry has just one ambition—to live on a farm. His father, two years ago, was the caretaker of a place in the country where the family lived. "I liked everything about it," Harry remarked, evincing his first animation. "I like to make crops and grow things. I like to live out of town. Then I don't get in trouble."

Harry's mother, who has eight children, was given two weeks by Judge Bicek to work out a satisfactory plan for the boy. Otherwise he will be confined.

"Gosh, she can't work out a plan," Harry sobbed. "I love my mother and I want to live where I can see her, but I can't go home to my dad."

Odd Fish Find New Popularity on Menu Here

The common dogfish is sharing a market boom in Chicago along with squid, carp, fresh water turtle, and other strange marine foods. This was revealed in a check-up yesterday following a report from Washington earlier in the week that various fish unusual to the table are finding increased favor.

The heightened demand for these fish was attributed by some sources to meat rationing and shortage of more popular varieties, such as salmon, tuna, and halibut.

Dogfish signs seldom appear in fish markets, however. The once lowly specimen has been dignified by the name bowfin. The change in the name and the general fish and meat shortage have made dogfish a profitable item for perhaps the first time in history. Dogfish comes from rivers and creeks of Illinois, Missouri, Arkansas and other middle west states, where fishermen used to throw it back as worthless.

Squid demand increased sharply, too, with 160,000 pounds received here last year compared with 18,000 pounds in 1942. Squid generally goes by its right name, but among the Italians, especially, it is known as calimary. Italians and Greeks always have eaten it.

Squid also has another name—inkfish—but no fish dealer calls it that. It is said to be related to the octopus. All this makes it no less tasty, fish dealers declared.

"Carp?" said one fish wholesaler. "We don't deal in that class of fish."

But other dealers reported they are doing a thriving carp business and the Washington fisheries office figures showed dealers here handled more carp in recent weeks than any other fin fish except halibut and salmon. Carp, dealers said, is known simply as carp.

Chicago turtle sales were up 50 per cent in 1943 and other fish dishes are being added to menus here—such as shark steaks, smoked buffalo fish, mussell chowder, and whale.

Kitchen Pointers

By Mary Meade

"What's the difference between a single acting and a double acting baking powder, and why do recipes call for more of one type than another?" That's a common cookery question.

Baking powders come in three types: "Single action" tartrate [Royal is a popular brand of this type]; phosphate "double acting," [Rumford]; combination, also "double acting" [Calumet]. Excellent baked products may be obtained from any type. Their reaction in batter differs to some extent, but in home cooking this is seldom an important consideration.

Tartrate and phosphate powders liberate their carbon dioxide [leavening agent] wholly or largely at room temperature. The combination type releases little gas until the product gets into the oven. This is an advantage if you wish to store a batter or dough for any length of time before baking.

Use any good baking powder and don't worry about the type or adjusting the amount according to type, is the advice of baking experts. Follow reliable recipes, and stick to the same baking powder for consistent results in baking.

Incidentally, it isn't smart to "add a little extra" baking powder to get a high cake or fluffy biscuits. You're more likely to produce a coarse cake which can be even gummy in texture or fall flat, and biscuits which are far from fluffy.

No, it isn't true that certain types of baking powder are injurious to health. Government standards are strict on this score.

"MADAME CURIE."

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

"Madame Curie" is more than a great screen biography. . . . It's a galvanic shock of inspiration, a warm mantle of reassurance—fleeced with the reminder that in the midst of world chaos there still burns the clear light of constructive science held aloft by the unfaltering hands of those who love their fellow men.

Greer Garson and Walter Pidgeon—beloved as "Mr. and Mrs. Miniver"—are quite as endearing in the roles of Mme. Curie and her Pierre, without whose love, patience, skill, and understanding her life work might quite possibly not have been accomplished.

The story picks up Marie Sklodovska, Polish student, at the time when she is studying for a master's degree in physics and mathematics at the Sorbonne in Paris. Here she meets young Pierre Curie, a splendid scientist, who, at the request of Marie's teacher, Prof. Perot, permits the brilliant young student to work in his laboratory.

Their shy romance develops sweetly and amusingly. It may be said to have consisted of an analytical courtship, a chemical proposal, a scientific marriage, and a honeymoon that fused all elements into a perfect union. . . .

Following close on success and fame comes tragedy. For Pierre is killed and Marie must go on alone. She thinks she can't. But she does!

While sometimes very technical, the piece is never heavy. It is highlighted by humor and, in every way, is a screen achievement of beauty and lasting worth.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Jan. 21.—Dudley Nichols is all set up these days because he gets Gregory Peck for his next picture, which is "Thieves Like Us." [No reflection on the picture industry.] He won't be able to get Peck until June, 'cause he has to do "Keys of the Kingdom" first. . . . This looks like Geraldine Fitzgerald's year. She's so good as Mrs. Wilson Twentieth Century is testing her for lead in "Keys of the Kingdom." . . . Freddie March can't be persuaded to work until spring. He turned down "Mrs. Parkington" and Greer Garson. That overseas trip sure took it out of him. . . . Judy Garland is out shopping for household furniture, accompanied by Dick Powell. . . . While Arline Judge is selling bonds in Minneapolis, Betty Lawford is living in her house and keeping an eye on her boys. . . . Frances Langford had to turn down the President's invitation to lunch at the White House. She'd promised the boys to do hospital and camp shows.

I'll Buy This.

From New York comes news that "Of Thee I Sing" will be Jack Benny's first independent picture. It's Jack's idea to co-star Fred Allen in it, and wouldn't that make a juicy combination! Whole thing would be brought up to date. It's just about the best story Jack's had. . . . Rene Hubert, designer, has knocked himself out doing clothes for "Woodrow Wilson" and half a dozen other pictures. Twentieth's letting him go—for the stingiest reason. . . . Monty Woolley finally finished "Since You Went Away." Too bad for the company, because he and the boss had such entertaining rows. . . . Ilka Chase has had many offers for her best seller, "In Bed We Cry." She'll do it into a play first and finish the adaptation in about a month. Already Hollywood wants to back the play so it can get the picture rights.

Gave His All.

When I suggested that our industry get together and do something substantial for D. W. Griffith [meaning a job] because he did so much for all of us, I didn't go far enough. Griffith's name should be stamped on everything that goes out from the industry. He was the daddy of all the things we're doing today. But he has no one to battle for him as Thomas Edison had. When we think of electricity we think of Edison. The man who insisted on Edison's name being used was Samuel Insull, once Edison's secretary.

Pays to Advertise.

Zsazsa Hilton, who, believe me, has had quite a life in spite of being Eva Gabor's sister, will let the public in on it in a book she's written with Victoria Wolf called "Every Man for Herself." She's lived by that slogan, too. The magazine rights already have been sold. . . . Jeanette MacDonald writes from Washington that when she dined with friends their 7 year old boy was mightily disappointing when she showed up. He had been told a movie star was coming, and he thought, of course, it would be Mickey Mouse! . . . John Frederics, the lucky one, is here for a five week visit. He's moved into Lauritz Melchior's home, complete with cook, maids, etc. . . . Nice of Buddy de Sylva to turn Lynne Overman's dressing room over to Bill Demarest, now that Bill is under contract and has inherited many of Lynne's parts. They were great friends.

Looking Ahead.

Much chitchat about Paulette Goddard's friendship with Mervyn Leroy. Why not? Mervyn's looking for a story for her. She's allowed one outside picture per year, and trust Paulette to make a good deal. . . . Guy Kibbee's little boy asked if he wasn't growing taller. "No," replied Guy, "why?" "Well," said the boy, "the top of your head is coming thru more and more!" . . . Bob Crosbys are expecting their third. What's he trying to do—equal Bing's record? . . . Olga San Juan has been borrowed from Paramount to play a Cuban in Humphrey Bogart's next. Fortunio Bonanova plays her husband. . . . Alan Ladd may be well enough to continue in "Now Tomorrow" next week. He's had three attacks of flu since leaving the army.

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

Of the three compositions Igor Stravinsky chose for his Mandel hall concert on the University of Chicago's composers' series last night, the oldest was the most happily received. It was the suite from "Story of a Soldier," written in 1918, the wry tale of a Russian deserter and the devil, wittily and brilliantly told to the tune of seven adroitly maneuvered performers, trailing toy trumpet echoes of "Petrouchka," and breaking ground for Prokofieff's "Lieutenant Kijé," which was to follow about 15 years later, and to be revived only two seasons ago by Fokine for Ballet Theater's "Russian Soldier."

Mr. Stravinsky conducted his remarkable suite with a bravura ensemble of Chicago Symphony players—John Weicher, violin; Robert Lindemann, clarinet; Hugo Fox, bassoon; Jerry Huffman, trumpet; Frank Crisafulli, trombone; Vaclav Jiskra, double bass, and Edward Metzenger, the busy man at percussions. The result was a masterpiece in miniature, a shining little trinket of music polished by a craftsman, and expertly exhibited by men who know their jobs.

If we are to believe Mr. Stravinsky, whose ear is not to be questioned in most musical matters, the clarinet and bassoon combine to make the very devil of a noise. He thrusts their heroics into the soldier's violin, with asides and ejaculations from trumpet and trombone, while the double bass beats a contemplative undertone and the percussions get in the last word with the drum's of the devil's march. The whole thing is fascinating, with gay little dances in the tango, the waltz and ragtime, and with a diabolical chorale so exquisitely put together you see the very designs, slightly sardonic, in the stained glass of its eerie cathedral.

By comparison, the other two compositions of the evening belonged to a more sterile period, not to be compared with the Stravinsky of ballet days or the Stravinsky who wrote so rich a symphony for the Chicago Symphony's golden jubilee. They were the Concerto for Two Pianos, written in 1935, an angular, clever, and hard to remember work well played by Mr. Stravinsky and Willard MacGregor, and the Duo Concertante for Piano and Violin, written in 1932, and played by the composer with Mr. Weicher. Here the violin often sounded like a discouraged banshee wailing over pianistic percussions. But there was no denying the intelligence back of the work, or the upcropping wit of the gigue and the bucolic design of the whole. It simply was the kind of music that is more fun to work with than to listen to.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

This is not the first time I have pointed out that many players who enjoy national reputations never earned those reputations in the field of slam bidding. Here is a deal that occurred in a recent New York duplicate game glitteringly studded with masters.

In not one case when a master player was in the South position did a North-South pair reach the laydown grand slam! At these tables the bidding was almost uniformly as follows:

North	East	South	West
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 spades	Pass	4 clubs	Pass
4 diamonds	Pass	6 spades	Pass
Pass	Pass

It will be observed that these experts, in accord with their usual habit, refused to bid two spades in response to one heart, their idea being that a "natural" rebid by North, rather than a forced response, would be more revealing. The outcome, however, was scarcely a triumph for this theory. As all the South players were quick to admit later, they had been unable to place North with the spade king, specifically—they had feared he might have raised on J-10 with one or two others—and since it is inexcusable to bid a grand slam when missing the king of trumps, they had to settle for a small slam.

Other Souths of less exalted rank were not above using the Blackwood or the Culbertson slam conventions in an effort, highly successful as it happened, to locate the vital high cards. Blackwood players found that North held one ace and all three missing kings, which would, of course, make 13 tricks absolutely cold. Players who used the 4-5 no trump convention received responses that announced the diamond ace and the kings of both bid suits, hearts and spades, and this information was enough to dispel all doubt concerning the grand slam prospects.

HEAD OF FAMILY MAY TAKE $1,200 TAX EXEMPTION

Single Man Eligible if He Supports Relatives.

(This is the fourth in a series of articles on the individual income tax. The Tribune Investors' Guide will answer specific tax questions accompanied by a stamped self-addressed return envelope.)

A taxpayer may be unmarried, or separated from husband or wife, and yet be entitled to a $1,200 annual personal exemption as the head of a family.

The various revenue acts and the internal revenue code have never defined the term "head of a family," but the treasury department's regulations are as follows:

"A head of a family is an individual who actually supports and maintains in one household one or more individuals who are closely connected with him by blood relationship, relationship by marriage, or by adoption, and whose right to exercise family control and provide for the dependent individuals is based upon some moral or legal obligation."

The most common examples of persons who might qualify as family heads would be a widow or widower supporting a dependent child, and a son or daughter supporting aged parents.

Numerous court decisions and treasury department rulings and regulations have served to liberalize the interpretation of the head of family definition. The most important liberalization is concerned with the dependency of a child more than 18 years of age.

After a child reaches his 18th birthday, his parents may no longer claim a dependency credit unless the child is mentally or physically incapable of self-support. A parent could, however, claim the head of family status because of supporting a child or other relative more than 18 years of age and mentally and physically capable of self-support.

It is not always necessary that the family head live in the same house with his dependents. A father would still be the head of the family if his child were maintained in a boarding school or if the father had to live apart because of his business or for other good reasons.

A serious barrier to the head of family status is the question of family control. The right to exercise control over the family "falls naturally to him who furnishes the means for its support and maintenance," states an internal revenue bulletin of March, 1942, yet a son's claim to such control was denied because the "natural" head of the family, the father, was living, altho the father's income was not sufficient for his support.

As to what constitutes a close connection by blood or marriage, the treasury department states that the only recognized relationships are parents [including father and mother-in-law], grandparents, brothers and sisters [including half-brothers, step-brothers, and brothers-in-law], uncles, aunts, nephews, and nieces. Cousins are not recognized as close relatives.

[The next article in this series, to be published Monday, will be on the credit for dependents.]

Dismisses $100,000 Libel Suit Against Book Firm

Federal Judge William H. Holly yesterday dismissed a $100,000 libel suit filed by George Washington Robnett, executive secretary of the Church League of America, against E. P. Dutton, Inc., publishers of the book entitled "Under Cover." In a memorandum opinion, the court held that the complaint set forth no facts which entitled Robnett to recover damages and that the charges were "mere conclusions." Robnett charged that he and the church league were defamed by advertising on the cover of the book.

The Inquiring Camera Girl

BY FREIDA ZYLSTRA.

[The Tribune will pay $5 for each interesting question submitted by a reader and used by The Tribune. Today's question was submitted by Elizabeth Sullivan, 6220 Greenwood avenue.]

THE QUESTION.

Did curiosity ever get you into trouble?

WHERE ASKED.

THE ANSWERS.

Barbara M. Roach, student, 5624 Wilson avenue—Cigaret lighters in cars always have intrigued me, and for a long time I had been wondering whether the socket of the lighter was as hot as the lighter itself. I stuck my finger in it, and the resulting burn convinced me it was even hotter.

Ernest Juliano, 12 years old, 837 South Winchester avenue—I often wondered what my sister talked about when she had dates in the living room. I didn't think it would matter much if I stood around the corner near the davenport. She caught me at it and there was plenty of trouble.

Robert Witensky, student, 836 East 53d street—My uncle had a beautiful new car. I couldn't wait to get at the instrument panel. I wanted to see what all the little gadgets would do. I pressed a button and the car leaped forward and banged into the car ahead. The new radiator grill was smashed.

Charlotte Morris, student, 3556 Wrightwood avenue—My little brother was always having strange little pets in the house. One time I was anxious to know whether the latest little captive snake was still in the box where he belonged. I opened the little side door and in a flash the snake was out. None of us was comfortable until he was recaptured.

David Ashe, student, 6954 Clyde avenue—I promised my parents a long time ago that I would never smoke, but one day I began to wonder what people liked about the habit. I thought I'd try just a few puffs. In the midst of my experiment my mother walked into the room. I had to talk pretty fast to vindicate myself.

Mary E. Goulet, student, 4414 North California avenue—It has never been a habit of mine to read my sister's letters, but one day she aroused my curiosity by tearing one up. I patched the pieces together. She made me feel rather cheap when she walked up and started reading over my shoulder.

RAPS SUBSIDIES FOR RIVALS OF SKILLED FARMER

The government should not subsidize competition against a skilled and efficient farmer, Chris L. Christensen, former dean of the college of agriculture of the University of Wisconsin, and now vice president of the Celotex corporation, said yesterday at the midwest conference on post-war and social security problems sponsored by the Council of State Governments in the Stevens hotel.

"One way to establish farming as a technical pursuit is to reward skill and efficiency," he said. "The public will hesitate to continue to supply the funds with which to provide economic security for those who unquestionably do a poor job at farming. It is hoped that the government will not inflict subsidized competition upon the self-supporting farmer."

OPA 'AIDS' FUEL OIL USERS WITH NEW DIRECTIVES

BY ORVILLE DWYER.

Several thousand Chicago families who have run out of fuel oil were given "relief" by the office of price administration at Washington yesterday but late last night both oil men and consumers were still trying to figure out where the relief lay and how they might apply it.

Meantime, those whose heating supplies were gone got no additional oil to light their burners, while the oil distributors and their experts sat analyzing, conjugating, parsing, and diagramming in strenuous efforts to arrive at meanings.

"Relief" Is Directive.

The relief had not come in the expected form of immediate validation of period 4 coupons, a simple move urged by practical men in the industry and the administration. It came instead in the form of a couple of new "directives" brought forth by Prof. Joel Dean [on leave from the school of business, University of Chicago], who wrote the original rationing regulations.

The relief directives were as follows:

"1. Local boards in special localities will be permitted to consider the applications of consumers claiming immediate hardship and where the facts warrant to grant a small additional [fuel oil] allotment until the period 4 coupons become valid [Feb. 8].

Won't Discuss Them.

"The amount of this allotment must not exceed the percentage of the year's ration to which the applicant is entitled under the regulations from the date of such application to the date upon which period 4 coupons become valid, after deducting the amount of oil on hand and of currently valid coupons in the consumer's possession.'

"2. Any consumer whose rations have been inaccurately figured by the local board or who has failed to submit correct information on which the basic ration is determined, is entitled at any time to go to his local board for a review of his application."

These pronouncements were disclosed to have been issued by Prof. Dean but both Paul A. H. Shults, acting OPA director for the Chicago area, and Alex Elson, acting regional OPA administrator, refused either to admit they exist or to discuss them. Shults said he had been ordered to refer all inquiries to Elson and Elson firmly insisted he must refer all questions to the Washington office of OPA.

Simple Relief Urged.

Dean's relief pronouncements were made after three days of meetings with his fuel oil panel, comprising members or officials of the Oil Heat Institute of America, representing the industry. Altho the panel members directly and other oil men by long distance telephone urged Dean to relieve the situation the simplest way by ordering the Feb. 8 coupon at once valid, he refused.

"It is impossible to figure why Dean takes such a stand," one Chicago member of the petroleum industry war council said. "If period 4 and period 5 coupons were made valid now it would make no difference excepting that those who ran out would have their troubles postponed until the middle of May or even later. They might have a little trouble getting oil to heat their water then, but it would then be warm anyway and at least they wouldn't freeze.

No Fuel Oil Shortage.

"And there is no shortage of fuel oil. Dean has been claiming there is but there is not. Dean's talk that every bit of fuel oil not burned can be 'converted almost gallon for gallon into aviation gasoline' is all poppycock. Military requirements come first; the necessary aviation gasoline has been taken out of every barrel of crude oil produced before any fuel oil for civilian use is taken from it. He hasn't a leg to stand on when he says 'Let 'em suffer.'"

FIRE DAMAGES SALES OFFICE.

Library Pamphlet Sales Halted Until Board Meets

Altho the sale of pamphlets by the Chicago public library has been approved as a legal function of the library, none will be on sale until after a meeting of the library board Monday, Carl B. Roden, librarian, said yesterday. The board stopped the pamphlet sale after a taxpayers' protest until a legal opinion could be had. Joseph F. Grossman, first assistant corporation counsel for Chicago, held the sale is "not an abuse of the powers" of the library board.

MARQUETTE WHIPS DE PAUL, 51-49; N. U. WINS

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

COLLEGE athletes who have known how it feels to be keyed up for an athletic contest now pass over war adventures as routine. . . . Lt. Don Turner, former Northwestern basketball player, writes, "My experiences haven't been particularly exciting. . . . After getting my commission at Pensacola, we flew submarine patrol to Iceland, then on to England, where we stood by for the African affair." . . . Just like that. . . . Vince Castino, the White Sox's rookie catcher, got only one home run last season, but it came with the bases loaded. . . . The Boston Red Sox once held title to Roger Peckinpaugh for exactly 10 minutes. . . . They got him in a trade with the Yankees and passed him on to the Senators in another swap at the same sitting. . . . Marquette university, with eight letter men, is looking forward to a good track season. . . . In all the discussions, pro and con, anent the reward of the Sullivan Memorial trophy to Gil Dodds as amateur athlete of the year, wouldn't you think some one would have gone to bat for Cornelius Warmerdam? . . . In 1941, Cornie first topped the "impossible" 15 foot ceiling; in 1942, he continued to soar and did win the Sullivan trophy; in 1943 he cleared 15 feet 16 times. . . . Bob Russell of the Yale wrestling team lost his sight at the age of 5 when he was hit in the head by a croquet mallet. . . . Federal Judge Murray Hurlbert, former president of the Amateur Athletic union, recently fined three men $10,000 each for black market offenses. . . . Joe Brown, former Temple university football player, teaches sculpturing as well as physical education at Princeton university. . . . Ensign John Busch, former Bucknell publicitor, is back in the United States after action in Sicily and Italy. . . . Howard Barry, for 12 years a member of the Tribune sports department and for five years turf editor of THE TRIBUNE, will join the staff of the Arlington Park and Washington Park race tracks early next month.

Cornelius Warmerdam

Vince Castino.

Horses owned by Ray Metcalf finished second 49 times in 1943. . . . Chicago fans still are calling Washington's defeat by Southern California in the Rose bowl an upset, but those in the northwest were not too surprised. . . . While the Trojans were playing a representative schedule, the Huskies, because of the withdrawal of conference opponents, were walking thru theirs. . . . St. Paul's largest boxing gate was the $41,306 collected for that Mike Gibbons-Mike O'Dowd battle in 1919. . . . Ward Cuff, the former Marquette star, who has been a New York Giant back field mainstay for years, has bought a home in Shorewood, a Milwaukee suburb. . . . Ashley Anderson, the ex-Wisconsin back, has arrived in England with an army air force outfit.

Within My Heart.

O, how I love to reminisce
Relive again within my heart
The childhood days of you.
I picture you upon the floor
With blocks and cars and train,
The little wooden soldiers, too,

The day you started off to school—
It was a big event,
I see you now, your rosy face,
As down the street you went.
You liked to skate and ride a bike,
Then added to the list,
The love of books and radio—
There wasn't much you missed.

The little boy has disappeared
Except, perhaps to me,
Today you wear a uniform,
You're far across the sea.
How very proud I am of you
And all that you have done,
But reminiscing plays its part

11,018 See Stadium Double Header.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Marquette university, the wonder five of basketball, conquerer of previously undefeated Camp Grant, bombed De Paul's Blue Demons last night in the Stadium, 51 to 49, to give the north siders their second licking of the year and topple them from their national No. 1 ranking. A crowd of 11,018 saw the climax of the program which opened with Northwestern defeating Notre Dame, 43 to 36.

The Marquette-De Paul scrap was a free scoring battle which was featured in the closing minutes by the Demons' spurt to cut an eight point deficit. With nearly 6 minutes to go, De Paul rallied its faltering forces and Jack Dean, with a penalty shot, and with Dick Triptow and Ed Kachan hitting from far out, the battle was on. When the clock read 2 minutes, De Paul trailed only 51 to 47 and then added another goal on George Mikan's under the board shot after the Demons had declined a penalty shot.

Marquette Unperturbed.

Marquette played deliberately thruout the game against a set defense, but on quick breaks on rebounds the Hilltoppers showed their speed and ball handling. In the test between the rival centers, Bill Downey of Marquette, 6 feet 6 inches, and De Paul's George Mikan, 6 feet 8 inches, there could be no choice. Each scored 14 points. In the last half, however, Downey was more valuable because of his stamina.

De Paul scored the first five points and then was tied, but eventually lost the lead in the first half at 13 to 12. Twice more the teams were deadlocked before Marquette finished the half leading 25 to 22.

N. U. Beats Notre Dame.

The Demons' opening rush again tied it at 29 all, but Marquette broke loose and midway in the second half built up a 42 to 33 advantage. This was the weapon Marquette used in its delaying tactics and from which it manufactured victory.

Northwestern's victory last night was the first time in 13 years the Wildcats have swept a basketball series with the Irish. Northwestern won the first contest on this court last December, 48 to 32. While Notre Dame could not win last evening from the more proficient Wildcats, the Irish did make good on their boast that the return game would be more evenly waged.

Indeed Notre Dame, after trailing thruout the first half, which finished in Northwestern's favor, 26 to 22, twice tied the score in the second period. The count was deadlocked at 26 and again at 28, but with 10 minutes to play, Northwestern went back in front, 32 to 28, and held this margin until only four minutes remained.

Schadler Sinks a Pair.

Ben Schadler, George Felt, and then Schadler again, hit long distance shots in succession and with 3 minutes and 40 seconds left, Northwestern had its 42 to 32 advantage and was assured of victory.

Northwestern had the better shooting and more of it, as the scores indicates, but from the tipoff at the beginning of the second half, when the Irish got possession of the ball, the game developed into a rugged defensive battle in which set shots were few.

The close man to man contact apparently also had its effect when free throws were awarded, for Otto Graham and John Ward missed seven times in the half and Leo Klier, Notre Dame's ace forward, also failed twice with the score tied. Just before 10 minutes of the second half had been played, Bernie Rutledge, Irish guard, was excused on four personals, and Johnny Lujack received the same penalty in the last minute of play.

Purdue Tops Michigan, 46-44; Iowa Beats Illinois, 56 to 51

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 21 [Special].—Battling from behind to tie the score at the end of the regulation period, Purdue's basketball squad remained out in front in the Big Ten race as it defeated Michigan in overtime tonight, 46 to 44. It marked the fifth straight conference victory for the Boilermakers and the fourth loss in five starts for the Wolverines.

Largely due to the sharpshooting of Dave Strack, Michigan took an early 8 to 3 lead, and altho Paul Hoffman sparked a Boilermaker rally that put Purdue in front momentarily, 18 to 17, three successive Wolverine field goals just before the gun earned the visitors a 23 to 18 margin at the rest period.

Hoffman Goes to Town.

Purdue started fast as the second half opened, trimming the margin to 25 to 23, but the combination of Strack and Donald Lund started clicking to make it 33-28. Here Hoffman took control to narrow the margin to one point at 37-36.

In the final moments of the regulation period, when Michigan seemingly had victory in its grasp, Bill Lodge emerged from a scramble under the basket to tip in a field goal and tie it at 42-42 as the gun cracked.

In the overtime, Tommy King hit a short shot from the side, but Hoffman again provided a field goal to tie the score at 44 to 44. In the final minute, Charley Haag provided the victory margin with a field goal from the side. Lineups:

IOWA, 56; ILLINOIS, 51.

Iowa City, Ia., Jan. 21 [Special].—The University of Iowa's young basketball team upset Illinois, defending Big Ten champion, 56 to 51, in the Hawkeyes' first real test tonight.

While 6,000 fans cheered, they piled up a 34 to 17 first half lead, widened it to 49 to 24 early in the second half and then stalled to protect their advantage.

Content with a 25 point lead after eight minutes of the second period, the Iowans killed all the time possible, while the desperate Illini drew out their defense and pressed hard for the ball. In the last 12 minutes, Illinois rallied to close the margin to five points.

THREE BOSTON MEN BUY BRAVES

President Quinn Stays in New Setup.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 21 (AP).—Control of the Boston Braves shifted tonight from a syndicate into the hands of three Boston contractors. President Bob Quinn announced that the trio, Joseph Maney, Guido L. Rugo, and Louis R. Perini, had bought up the stock of several members of the syndicate which gained control of the Braves in 1941 and had invested sufficient money to place the club on a sound financial basis with strictly Boston ownership.

Trace Financial Troubles.

The stock deal is the latest development in the emergence of the Braves from a tangled financial muddle under which the National league for a time underwrote the team after the removal of Judge Emil Fuchs as its head almost a decade ago.

Under its terms, Joseph Conway, Boston sporting goods dealer; Francis Ouimet, former national golf champion; Max Meyer, Brooklyn jewelry manufacturer, and Dr. William Rang and W. J. Powdrell, both of Boston, surrendered their stock to the three contractors.

C. F. Adams took over the Braves and placed Bob Quinn at the helm in 1937. Adams, who was interested in horse racing, disposed of his interests to the syndicate in 1941.

Quinn Stays as President.

The change of control into the hands of the Boston contractors also resulted in the selection of a new board of directors for the club. Quinn and Henry J. Smith, former Boston school committeeman, were named to serve with the three contractors.

Quinn also will remain as President, Maney, as treasurer, and Quinn's son, John, as assistant treasurer and secretary.

Blackhawks Home; Plan for Big Things

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Chicago Blackhawks, who are coöperating with the New York Rangers to keep the western hemisphere's two largest cities out of the Stanley Cup play-offs for the second successive National Hockey league season, slipped back into Chicago from Detroit yesterday morning and started preparations for tomorrow night's engagement with the Toronto Maple Leafs in Chicago Stadium.

Manager Paul Thompson, and the strongest squad he's had all year, came home with the pronouncement that the champion Wings, whom the Hawks whipped in Chicago a month ago tonight, 7 to 1, now have the best team in the league. There wasn't much else they could say, seeing as the Wings beat them, 4 to 3, Thursday night in Detroit, where the Hawks haven't won a game since March 15, 1940.

Ah! Three Home Games.

After paying their respects to the recently awakened and strengthened Wings, the Hawks promptly turned their thoughts to home operations. Three of the four games they will play in the next nine nights will be skated in their beloved Stadium.

The last time the Leafs were in Chicago they busted a seven game Hawk home winning streak by taking Manager Thompson's lads, 5 to 2. That was on Dec. 19, however, before the Hawks had purchased Goalie Mike Karakas. Too, Defenseman Art Wiebe still was in his Alberta bakery.

Allen Says He's Ready.

George Allen played in the Detroit game and yesterday reported he felt some soreness in the ankle, injuries to which had kept him out of five games since he was hurt on Jan. 1. He said he expected to be ready to go at full speed tomorrow night, however.

SET STANLEY CUP DATES

TORONTO, Ont., Jan. 21 (AP).—The Stanley cup playoffs will start on March 21, it was decided today at a meeting of the board of governors of the National Hockey league.

On that day the teams finishing first and third will open a best-of-seven game series with the first game on the home ice of the team finishing first. The teams finishing second and fourth will open a similar series the same day on the home ice of the second place team. Subsequent games will be played every two days with Saturdays and Sundays optional.

The winners of the semi-final series will meet in the final series, also the best-of-seven, starting on April 6.

HOPPE, COCHRAN SPLIT EVEN IN 2 CUE MATCHES

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 21 (AP).—Welker Cochran of San Francisco, Cal., tonight defeated Champion Willie Hoppe of New York, 51 to 50 in 38 innings, to break even in the day's two games of their exhibition three cushion billiards match.

Hoppe won the earlier block, 50 to 27 in 36 innings, with the day's high run of nine. After tonight's engagement Hoppe's lead in their cross-country tour was 1,750 to 1,583.

Two games tomorrow close their Detroit play and they resume in New York Monday. They will play to 2,150 points.

FT. WAYNE HAS FAST FIELD IN GOLDEN GLOVES

15th Annual Tournament Starts Thursday.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 21 [Special].—The Fort Wayne Journal Gazette's 15th annual Golden Gloves tournament will be another success despite some natural curtailment of entries due to the war. Approximately 100 fighters will answer the bell on opening night next Thursday. Two other nights, Feb. 3 and 10, will complete the tournament.

Most of these boxers will be newcomers but it is possible that Fort Wayne will uncover another King Wyatt, who won the intercity Golden Gloves title in 1935 or a Bob Burns, who won this honor in 1941 and 1942. Last year Fort Wayne placed two in the semi-finals of the Tournament of Champions, Virgil Zakhi, bantamweight, and Chester Harter, heavyweight.

Zakhi Is Back Again.

Zakhi was named in the Chicago team but was unable to report because of inability to get away from his work. He is one of the early entries for this year's tournament and it is probable that Spider Shock, flyweight champion, and Lowell Poyseur, light heavyweight also will compete again.

The Fort Wayne tournament will have entries from two army camps, Baer field, the near-by air base and Camp Scott, railway engineers' camp. Each probably will have at least a half dozen representatives. Baer field has entered two big colored boys, Edward Grigsby, 227 pounds, and John [Little Boy] Blue, 195. Both are tall and rangy.

TIME IS SHORT

Three days remain in which entries can be accepted for Chicago's Golden Gloves tournament, which will start on the south side in St. Sabina's gymnasium Jan. 31. All amateur boxers must send in entry blanks before Monday midnight to qualify for the final preliminary physical examination next Thursday.

A physical examination will be held Monday night in the C. Y. O. gym, 31 East Congress street, and the last examination on Thursday evening is scheduled for the same place. A parental consent is required for admission. Any boxer who has not reported can come to the last exam if he has the consent card.

The south side novice and open division champions will be crowned Feb. 1. Then the action shifts to Loyola university gymnasium, where the north side boxers will meet Feb. 2, 3, and 4. The champions in both divisions of these sections will fight in the Chicago finals in the Marigold Gardens Feb. 14.

Columbus, O., Jan. 21 (AP).—Paul Brown, head football coach at Ohio State university, announced tonight that Hugh McGranahan, his assistant who has coached the guards for the last three years, had submitted his resignation, effective March 1, when his contract terminates.

Brown said McGranahan planned to enter business.

GRIFFITH FINDS NO BASIS FOR PRO CHARGES

Big Ten Commissioner Sees No Irregularities

Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of the Western conference, yesterday released a statement explaining his position on the recent story in which George Strickler, director of the National Football league's service bureau, was quoted as saying that the colleges "offered some of our pro players the same salary they were getting in our league to play for them."

The complete statement follows:

"The directors of athletics of the Big Ten conference unanimously agree that the people who live in the seven states in which the conference institutions are located are entitled to know the facts concerning intercollegiate athletics as conducted by the conference universities.

Refers to Wisconsin, Iowa.

"You perhaps recall that some time ago there was considerable public interest in the question of whether athletes enrolled in the conference universities received preferential treatment at the hands of those who administer student aids to nonathletes and athletes alike. We sent the reports concerning scholarships, loans, and employment for athletes at each university to the press and radio and on the basis of the facts which we gave you we hope this helped you in forming your conclusions regarding this matter.

"In the Dec. 27 issue of Time magazine, Mr. George Strickler, press agent of the professional football league, was quoted as saying that the colleges 'offered some of our pro players the same salary they were getting in our league to play for them.' We discussed this matter with Mr. Strickler and asked him if any of the Big Ten universities were involved and he replied that the Universities of Wisconsin and Iowa were involved, altho he added that in one case it is possible that the school itself did not make the offer or back it up. He told me that the school he had in mind was the University of Wisconsin.

Discusses Fritsch Case.

"Mr. Strickler made it clear that he thought that some one had offered inducements to a professional football player, who had enrolled at the University of Wisconsin, to play on the University of Wisconsin football team. The facts apparently are these:

"Ted Fritsch, who now is a student at the University of Wisconsin, after being graduated from Central State Teachers college, Stevens Point, Wis., played with the Green Bay professional football team for the season of 1942 and also the season of 1943. Following the 1942 season of professional football, he worked in a Milwaukee defense plant until June, when he entered the summer school at the University of Wisconsin and obtained a job from Mr. Duane Bowman, owner of the Bowman Dairy in Madison.

"Mr. Fritsch, because of a perforated ear drum, has been rejected for military service and he decided to try to get a master's degree in physical education at Wisconsin. He apparently had in mind that he would spend the year necessary for obtaining his degree at Madison, and his job with the Bowman Dairy would enable him to work his way thru the university. Mr. Bowman apparently has no connection with the university, but each year employs a number of university students for part time work in the dairy.

Ashcom Case Cited.

"Mr. Strickler, in our conversation, indicated that he believed that while no one connected with the University of Wisconsin had offered Mr. Fritsch money inducements to enroll at the university, someone outside had done so. While Mr. Strickler did not mention Mr. Bowman by name, he apparently was of the opinion that when Mr. Bowman gave Mr. Fritsch employment he did so with the idea of strengthening the University of Wisconsin football team. The evidence at hand does not support this conclusion.

"The other man [Mr. Richard Ashcom] Mr. Strickler thought, had been offered money inducements to persuade him to attend the University of Iowa medical school. Mr. Ashcom, according to our information, played three years as tackle at the University of Oregon and was a member of the All Star squad last fall.

"At one of the practices in Dyche stadium Slip Madigan, the Iowa football coach, who was watching the practice, was approached by Mr. Ashcom, who said he desired to complete his medical education and inquired about conditions at the University of Iowa. Madigan advised him to go to Iowa City and talk to the medical authorities.

Tells of Conversation.

"A night or two later, at the Tribune party prior to the All Star game, Mr. Madigan and Mr. Gus Dorais, coach of the Detroit professional football team, were seated at the same table and Mr. Dorais mentioned the fact that Ashcom had been drafted by the Detroit team, but was not under contract with Detroit. Slip, in a kidding way, told Gus that he thought he was going to have this boy at Iowa because he had been talking about entering the University of Iowa medical school.

"It is true that Ashcom made a trip to Iowa City, arriving there on a morning train, interviewed the medical authorities at the university and found that he could not get into their school, and left on the next train back to Chicago.

"It may be that Strickler heard Slip and Gus kidding each other at the All-Star rally, but Dorais tells me that he never claimed that anybody was bidding against him for Ashcom's services. Furthermore, not the slightest evidence has been produced to indicate that any one had bid against the Detroit football team in an endeavor to subsidize Ashcom.

"These are the facts concerning the charges leveled by the spokesman for the professional league against the Big Ten conference. I have purposely tried to make this statement brief but will be glad to elaborate on any feature if perchance there are any who are interested in going into the matter in more detail."

TOKLE AND SKI SLIDE READY FOR TOURNEY ACTION

Several truckloads of the 200,000 pound consignment of artificial snow yesterday were applied to the wooden slide in Wrigley field for the invitational ski tournaments to be held tomorrow and next Sunday.

Karl Nilsen, director of the tournament, and a member of the sponsoring organization, the Norge Ski club, said perhaps 60 will compete in the four classes and the special events which will keep the fans gawking at the action from 1:30 p. m. until 4:30.

PIRRONE STOPS JIMMY JOYCE IN THIRD ROUND

St. Louis, Mo., Jan. 21 (AP).—Joey Pirrone, lightweight from Cleveland, O., scored a three round technical knockout tonight over Jimmy Joyce, Gary, Ind., in a scheduled 10 round bout.

A right dropped Joyce on his back 11 seconds after the start of the third round. Referee Harry Cook halted the fight as Jimmy tried vainly to regain his feet. He was down eight times in the second round. Pirrone weighed 135 pounds, Joyce 131.

WELLS SCORES 85-23 VICTORY OVERWASHBURNE

The Wells Seniors won their fourth straight game in the west section race by trimming Washburne, 85 to 23, on the Wells floor yesterday. Tom Hoffman and Wally Mroz paced the attack, the former with 36 points, and the latter chalking up 33.

Waller took over first place in the north section senior battle by upsetting Amundsen, 53 to 45, on the Waller court. South Shore, Calumet, and Morgan Park each won their senior assignments to remain in a three way tie for first place in the south section. Calumet defeated Vocational, 47 to 43, Morgan Park routed Englewood, 67 to 32, and South Shore triumphed over Bowen, 60 to 27.

The Glenbard heavyweights scored their sixth straight victory in the West Suburban conference last night, defeating Downers Grove, 37 to 13. In the Suburban league, Evanston and Proviso remained in a tie for first place with triumphs over New Trier and Waukegan. The former whipped New Trier, 26 to 25, on the Evanston floor and the latter beat Waukegan, 42 to 23.

Blue Island remained in second place in the South Suburban league by sinking Calumet City, 42 to 31. In other South Suburban games, Lockport defeated Argo, 38 to 26, and Bloom beat Kankakee, 34 to 29.

CHICAGO'S WAR WORK TO GO ON THO NAZIS FALL

Plants Will Center Output on Japs.

BY CHARLES GOTTHART.

Altho Chicago area war plant officials expect a curtailment of some types of production after the defeat of Germany, the output of other types will continue until the last shot is fired in the offensive against Japan, plant executives said yesterday.

This will hold true regardless of the war man power commission's threat to shift the Chicago area from its No. 2 status to a No. 1 area of critical labor shortage, plant officials said, because this area is the principal government source of many weapons, including the aerial and naval weapons directed against Japan.

An inquiry was prompted by the recent announcement of J. I. Case company, Racine, Wis., that its war contracts would be completed in two months, and that the manufacture of farm equipment then would be accelerated.

Big Firms Maintain Output.

Big Chicago companies holding a variety of war contracts have no such deadlines, it was said, because these contracts are constantly being revised—some increased and others canceled—according to the "fluidity of war" pattern. Smaller companies making one type of war product are subject to more abrupt change, depending on the need for their goods.

Companies turning out war products not materially different from their normal goods reported they would be able to swing back to civilian operations with a speed determined only by the release of raw materials. Some of Chicago's biggest corporations will be able to convert entire departments to civilian operations and still maintain large scale war production.

International Harvester company, for example, reported a gradual expansion in the manufacture of tractors and other farm equipment without interference with the production of a wide variety of war items. The shift has been accelerated because with few exceptions the company's plants and facilities for the production of its normal lines were not materially disturbed in the swing to war work. Warehouses and a few entirely new buildings were utilized.

Speeds Farm Equipment.

Thru making men and materials available, the cancellation of some of Harvester's war contracts has accelerated the rise in farm implement manufacture toward the government's permitted quota of 80 per cent of the 1940 or 1941 output.

New government contracts have replaced some of those canceled, and even when contracts have been canceled, production facilities have been retained to turn out specified quotas of replacement parts.

The comparative simplicity of Harvester's conversion problems was likened to that of the railway equipment manufacturers.

"Some of our contracts may be terminated with the demise of Hitler," a Harvester representative said. "Others, such as those for aerial torpedoes, most likely will continue until the defeat of Japan."

Ready for Reconversion.

Officials of the Stewart-Warner corporation, one of the first Chicago area companies to move completely into war operations, said that entire departments can be returned to civilian production almost overnight.

Aside from material expansion, the company's Alemite division has not changed its operations in turning out lubricating fittings for United States and British army equipment instead of for the civilian automotive industry.

The manufacture of gasoline burning heaters is another Stewart-Warner activity involving no perplexing reconversion problems. The company expects to utilize its expanded production facilities in the manufacture of a new home heating unit developed in the process of perfecting various types of heaters for airplanes and for ground installations. All operate on the principle of the Stewart-Warner automobile heater.

Kept Busy on Fuses.

Production of bomb and shell fuses assures Stewart-Warner of continued operations in this field as long as military and naval needs exist, it was said.

Chicago area producers of radio and radar equipment said they were prepared for a relatively quick conversion to civilian operations when their government orders begin slackening. The hope was expressed that the greatly enlarged production facilities could be utilized fully, or nearly so, in supplying potentially huge civilian demands for radio equipment after the war.

Officials of the Zenith Radio corporation said that the big strides in radio and electronics since the war have magnified the post-war market, and that post-war plans were being made accordingly.

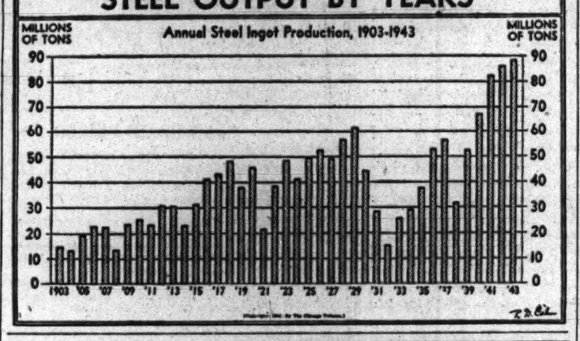
STEEL OUTPUT BY YEARS



Profit of Hart, Schaffner Is $11.46 a Share

Hart, Schaffner & Marx, giving its earnings for the first time on a consolidated basis including its retail store subsidiaries, yesterday reported a profit of $1,631,319, equal to $11.46 a capital share, during the fiscal year ended Nov. 30. Had the company issued a consolidated statement for the preceding year, the profit would have been shown at $1,437,529, or $10.47 a share. In the form reported a year ago the profit was $1,233,660, or $8.98 a share. A reserve for contingencies totaled $200,000, compared with $150,000 a year earlier.

Meyer Kestnbaum.

Shares outstanding increased 5,000 during the year as a result of the exercise of a purchase option by Meyer Kestnbaum, president.

Termed More Accurate.

"The retail store subsidiaries have hitherto been carried on the balance sheet as investments, and profits or losses of these companies have been taken into account by adjusting the reserve against these investments," Kestnbaum said in the annual report to stockholders. "Because the subsidiaries have assumed greater importance both as to total assets and earnings, the directors have come to the conclusion that a consolidated statement would more accurately reflect the combined operating results and financial condition.

"Barring some drastic change in economic conditions, the immediate prospects appear good," Kestnbaum said.

"The company faces no major problems of conversion at the end of the war and is in a position to benefit from such demand for clothing as may be anticipated when the members of our forces are demobilized and return to civil life."

Income Taxes 1.7 Millions.

Federal and state income taxes, after deducting post-war credit, totaled $1,749,978 in the fiscal year. Consolidated earned surplus, reflecting credit adjustments to a consolidated basis, amounted to $6,804,998.

Storkline Furniture corporation reported a profit of $123,989, equal to $1.44 a capital share, during the fiscal year ended Nov. 30, compared with $164,057, or $1.84 a share, in the preceding 12 months.

Caterpillar Tractor company reported net income of $8,195,464, equal to $4.35 a share, for the year ended Dec. 31, against $7,002,449, or $3.72 a share, in 1942. Sales aggregated $173,945,023, compared with $142,168,850 a year earlier. Federal income taxes amounted to $20,884,255, or 71.8 per cent of earnings, compared with $15,311,965 in 1942.

VOLUNTARY BOOSTS IN PAY 7 TIMES THOSE GAINED IN DISPUTES

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—Voluntary pay increases granted with WLB approval during the first year of wage stabilization contributed almost seven times as much to the increase in average straight time hourly earnings of factory workers as did raises ordered in dispute cases.

The WLB reported to congress for October, 1942, thru September, 1943, an increase in factory straight time average hourly earnings of 1.09 cents. Adjustments voluntarily proposed by the employers or agreed to by unions and employers contributed .95 of a cent and increases ordered by the WLB in dispute cases averaged .14 of a cent.

The board said this rise of 1.09 cents represents only 1.3 per cent of the average level of straight time hourly earnings prevailing at the beginning of wage stabilization.

VEGETABLE CANNERS PREDICT TEMPORARY RATION SUSPENSION

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 [Special].—A better than ever chance that the OPA will soon suspend temporarily the rationing of canned vegetables, was reported by canners who are here to confer with government officials concerning the allegedly congested condition of the canned vegetable market.

Altho individual canners seemed confident that their proposal would be accorded a favorable reception, officials of the OPA indicated they were not convinced of the necessity for such action.

The OPA officials were noncommital, however, on two alternative proposals offered by the canning interests. The first was a suggestion that a "bonus" in ration stamps, similar to that granted on pork over the year end in order to move supplies of that meat, be accorded and the second was that point values of all canned vegetables be slashed drastically in the February tables to be announced next week.

Wheat Prices Close Uneven; Rye Is Lower

Grains advanced early yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade under influence of professional operations, but when selling pressure appeared prices reacted swiftly. Rye declined 1¾ cents a bushel from the top and closed ⅝ to ⅞ cent lower. Wheat finished ⅝ cent higher to ⅓ cent lower, oats ⅛ cent lower to ⅛ cent higher, and barley unchanged to ½ cent lower.

Altho concern was expressed over continued dry weather in many districts, brokers said it was almost impossible to determine whether the winter wheat crop had been damaged seriously.

Corn Drying Delayed.

Despite favorable weather, the corn crop has not dried out as rapidly as brokers expected. They said the big price discounts on damp grain as provided in OPA regulations tended to hold back corn on farms, because farmers were reluctant to sell.

The extent of the record demand for cash grain which has existed for more than two years was shown by Lyman C. West, statistician for the Board of Trade. In a report to the grain trade West said leading markets received 1 billion, 437 million bushels of all grain and soybeans in 1943.

Urge Higher Prices.

Reports from Washington indicated that some interests in the war food administration are seeking higher prices for soybeans, flaxseed, and other oil seed crops which are regarded as selling too low compared with wheat and corn.

May wheat in Minneapolis sold at 9½ cents below the Chicago price at one time, the largest discount of the season, and about 1 cent more than a full freight rate difference.

U. S. IS ADVISED TO CONTROL ALL SALMON WATERS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—A senate commerce subcommittee was told by witnesses today the United States should exercise control over all salmon fishing waters off the Alaskan coast so that fishermen of other nations do not destroy the salmon industry of this country.

The committee is considering a bill by Sen. Wallgren [D., Wash.] designed to set up a new code to govern salmon fishing off Alaska and to conserve the fish.

Erie Road's Profit Dips Despite Peak in Traffic

Despite record traffic and revenues during 1943 the Erie railroad's net income fell, the company reportported yesterday. Revenue totaled $157,893,223, an increase of 18.4 per cent above 1942. Profits during 1943 decreased to $9,717,053 from $14,339,524 in the preceding year because of increased provisions for federal taxes and increased operating expenses. December net income was $1,408,620, compared with $779,399 a year earlier.

Rails, Special Stocks Rise; Others Mixed

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Rail and specialty stocks advanced today, but many leaders failed to make progress or declined. Certain favorites gained fractions to as much as five points.

Carriers engendered optimism thru the return of the roads to private ownership, chances that net income would be well maintained after the war, and the belief wage boosts would be offset by excess profits tax relief. Earnings and dividends propped individual climbers.

Among stocks posting new 1943-'44 highs were Swift & Co. common, up 2¼ on a boosted dividend, and American Cable and Radio, up ¾. Park & Tilford ran up 5⅛ and, issues which gained 1 to around 2 included American Viscose, Cudahy, Santa Fe, and Atlantic Coast Line. Ahead were Southern Pacific, New York Central, Southern Railway, Delaware and Hudson, International Harvester, and United States Steel.

BOND SALES INCREASE.

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Bond market volume today rose to the top level of the week on a further surge of buying in rail loans.

Trading was broad in the carriers and there were many gains ranging from fractions to 2 or more points. Interest in other corporate groups was relatively slack but prices were well maintained. Foreign issues were lower.

Up 1 to about 2 points at the close were Baltimore and Ohio 4s of '48, Burlington refunding 5s, St. Paul general 4s of '89, Big Four general 4s, Illinois Central 4¾s, Kansas City Southern 3s, Michigan Central 4½s and Lehigh Valley 4½s.

CHICAGO STOCKS HIGHER.

Prices were generally higher in yesterday's trading on the Chicago Stock exchange. Swift & Co. with a turnover of 2,550 shares advanced 2⅝ points net, in response to the increase in the quarterly dividend to 40 cents a share and the declaration of a special payment of that amount. On its maximum gain of 3⅛ points, the stock sold at 30¾, highest since 1930. Of the other volume leaders, Commonwealth Edison was off slightly, and Domestic Industries A, Utah Radio, and Raytheon Manufacturing preferred made fractional gains. Raytheon common rose 5⅛ also to a new peak since 1930.

RETAIL DEALERS BACK PATMAN ON DISPOSAL PLANS

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—A program for disposal of billions of dollars worth of surplus government property was submitted to congress today by the American Retail federation. The plan embraces precautions against speculators and regard for private enterprise.

In principle, the association supported legislation drawn by the house small business committee, headed by Rep. Patman [D., Tex.].

The federation made only one major exception to the Patman bill. This was to a provision that the prices at which any particular class of property is sold or leased should be uniform.

4TH LOAN DRIVE CUTS MUNICIPAL BOND OFFERINGS

New York, Jan. 21 (AP).—Another light week in new state and municipal financing, because of the 4th war loan campaign, was indicated today by a tabulation of the Daily Bond Buyer showing a total of $6,372,803 of new paper scheduled for sale next week.

This compared with $8,004,500 in the current week, the first week of the bond drive.

One issue accounted for more than half the aggregate. The Chicago Park district will offer Tuesday $3,310,000 refunding bonds due March 1, 1964. Early in 1941, the district sold a slightly larger block at 101.072 as 2¼s. Everett, Mass., will receive bids on a temporary loan of $500,000 Wednesday. Beverly, Mass., will sell $300,000 of short term paper on the same day.

URGES AIRWAYS OPERATION FOR SHIPPING LINES

Bland Asserts Such Service Is Vital.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Operation of transoceanic air lines by steamship companies is necessary if the American merchant marine is to compete successfully with foreign air and water transport companies, the house rules committee was told today during discussion of pending aviation legislation.

Representative Bland

The case for the merchant marine was argued by Rep. Bland [D., Va.] and Rep. Welch [R., Cal.] chairman and ranking minority member, respectively, of the house merchant marine committee.

No Ownership Provision.

The rules committee was holding a hearing to determine whether the bill to streamline existing civil aeronautics legislation, introduced by Rep. Lea [D., Cal.], should be brought to a vote. The Lea bill does not provide for air line ownership by surface carriers. The hearing will be continued next week. Meanwhile, Bland called a public hearing on the bill before his committee for Jan. 25.

"Ownership of air lines by steamship companies is important to American foreign commerce and to the life of the merchant marine as an instrument of national defense and the preservation of world peace," Rep. Bland said. "If we had had an adequate merchant marine before the war we would be in a much better position today."

Plans of British shipping companies to operate international air lines were outlined by Rep. Bland. The Elder Dempster Line, which is British, plans air lines to West and South Africa and South America, he said. British courts have altered the charter of another British line, Elders & Fyffes, to include air service to the West Indies and South America, Bland told the committee.

Tells Swedish, Canadian Plans.

Quoting Adm. Emory S. Land, chairman of the United States maritime commission, who has asked the house interstate commerce committee to sanction air lines ownership by American ship operators, Bland said that Swedish and Canadian operators have plans to combine air and water transport under the same management and ownership.

"By making no provision for our merchant marine to utilize air transport, the bill puts our shipping business in a strait jacket," Rep. Welch told the committee.

Rep. Lea, sponsor of the aviation bill, and Rep. Bulwinkle [D., N. C.] observed that a bill presented by Bulwinkle, which prohibits air line ownership by any surface carrier, would give merchant marine interests an opportunity to present their case when hearings on the measure are opened.

"That will be too late," Rep. Welch declared.

The war might end suddenly, he said, and, while congressional committees were still arguing the issue, foreign companies could start operations.

FOREMEN HEED WLB'S REQUEST, RETURN TO WORK

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 21 (AP).—Approximately 1,100 foremen from eight Chrysler corporation plants in Detroit returned to their jobs today after voting last night to end a work stoppage in compliance with a war labor board request.

The WLB request was made Wednesday night to Robert H. Keys, president of the Foremen's Association of America [Independent].

The walkout began Jan. 13 in a dispute over a union demand that the corporation recognize the FAA as bargaining agent for the foremen.

Foundry Men End Strike.

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 21 (AP).—The 6,000 striking foundry workers of Washington and Oregon voted today to return to their jobs in approximately 80 plants, Neil V. Pardo, secretary of the AFL Molders and Foundry Workers' union, said tonight.

Republic Steel Asks Perkins to Give Wage Dispute to WLB

Cleveland, O., Jan. 21 (AP).—Republic Steel corporation said today it had requested Secretary of Labor Perkins to certify issues in contract negotiations with the CIO United Steel Workers to the war labor board for settlement.

Altho William F. Donovan, chairman of the union committee, said negotiations had broken off after a series of 10 meetings, the company announced it had offered to continue to negotiate pending action by the government.

Negotiations started Dec. 13 on an agreement to succeed a contract expiring Christmas eve. Unionists participated in a two day work stoppage immediately after Christmas to enforce demands that any new wage rates should be made retroactive. The WLB agreed to retroactivity.

Union Asks Pay Boost.

The union, seeking to depart from the government's "Little Steel" formula, asked a 17 cent hourly wage increase, severance pay, a more liberal vacation program, and a bonus for second and third shift workers in Republic plants.

Donovan said unionists were directed to remain at work pending WLB action.

Republic, in a formal statement, said the union presented the company with 43 demands whose money value could reach a minimum of more than 53 million dollars a year.

"In addition to the 53 million annual increase which can be computed, there is also a demand for a guaranteed minimum weekly wage and for severance pay, which the company estimate would average $300 a man, which could increase the total by many hundreds of thousands of dollars annually. Largest single demand is one for an increase of 17 cents an hour, which alone totals more than 19 millions a year," Republic said.

Warns of Inflation Step.

Republic, the nation's third largest steel producer, contended union demands for one year "are within 12 million dollars of Republic's net earnings since it was founded in 1930 and represented an approximate 33⅓ per cent increase in the company's 1943 pay roll, the highest pay roll in Republic's history."

To meet union demands, the company said, would entail an increase of about $9 a ton above present government ceiling prices on steel shipped by Republic in 1943.

Men Overseas Will Again Get Canned Beer

American soldiers and sailors abroad will receive their "three-point-two" beer—despite transportation difficulties and a shortage of containers. The war food administration announced yesterday that brewers were permitted again to use tin cans for packing beer exclusively for off-shore shipment. Beer in cans is expected to be available for this purpose in about 60 days.

Tin can companies in the Chicago area are reported already to be getting into production on the manufacture of the containers. Use of cans for packaging beer has been prohibited for more than a year. Recent amendment of war production board order M-81 does not permit the containers for civilian use.

Metal Shortage Eased.

An easing of the supply of metals and a scarcity of bottles led to the amendment. Drain on bottle stocks has been abnormal, the brewing industry advisory committee reported. Breakage in transit has resulted from the requirement to load freight cars to the maximum and other losses occurred from the constant reuse of cardboard cartons. The committee requested new bottles in 1944 to replace current losses.

Beer production in 1944 is expected to exceed 72 million barrels, the highest in history, and the industry has been concerned over containers, barrels and dispensing equipment. The expectation that some aluminum would be available for civilian use soon caused the advisory committee to study and estimate the quantity needed for linings on cork disks and in the production of kegs.

Bottle Caps Assured.

Enough bottle caps to take care of all bottles made available to the industry in 1944 was assured by the committee, as the brewers have been authorized to use 15 per cent more closures. More use of lighter bottles, known as "single-trip" bottles which need not be returned, was recommended by some brewers.

In addition to beer shipped from the United States, overseas fighters have supplies of beer made available to them in the countries in which they are stationed. Three breweries are reported to be operating in North Africa.

CATTLE PRICES BID UP TO MEET SUBSIDY LEVEL

Prices of some classes of cattle were higher yesterday at the Chicago stock yards as packers bought actively in an attempt to bring their monthly average costs in line with requirements of the cattle subsidy program.

Some of the medium to good grades fell below the government's price ranges, and to balance the monthly cost it was necessary for buyers to raise their bids on these classes. The result was a two day rise of 25 cents to $1 a hundred pounds in many classes of steers selling from $15 to $16.50, and in heifers bringing from $14 to $15.50.

Hogs below 200 pounds sold quickly at strong to 10 cents higher prices, but all other weights sold slowly at about steady prices. Lambs sold strong to 15 cents higher.

POST-GRADUATE STUDIES.

I am a design engineer and during the last year have taken two graduate courses in engineering at the suggestion of my employer. Will it be allowable for me to deduct the cost of these courses in computing my income tax? U. E.

Answer: The cost of post-graduate courses is considered a personal expense and no deduction is allowed. This is true even when the employer or the terms of employment require the taking of such courses. Teachers, for example, may be required by their contract to take certain advanced courses of study during the summer months, but the cost is not deductible.

WILSON CONFERS WITH F.D.R.; TO BE 'AROUND A WHILE'

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21 (AP).—After a conference with President Roosevelt today, Charles E. Wilson, executive vice chairman of the war production board, said he would "be around Washington a little while."

Wilson acknowledged he discussed the question of his resignation, but aside from the one comment declined to discuss the conference.

Wilson tendered his resignation in December, saying he wanted to return to the presidency of General Electric company, but he was prevailed upon by War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes to stay on the job until Mr. Roosevelt—then abroad for the Teheran conference—released him.

MOORE ASSAILS PRC ACTIVITIES IN FOREIGN OIL

Urges Liquidation of Ickes Agency.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Jan. 21.—Prompt liquidation of the Petroleum Reserves corporation, a government agency engaged in undisclosed oil operations abroad, was called for today in a bill introduced by Senators Moore [R., Okla.] and Brewster [R., Me.].

Sen. Moore said the activities of the PRC, set up by executive order last July and headed by Secretary of the Interior Ickes, have been "shrouded in mystery." He charged that one of its chief purposes is to seize government control of "oil reserves and oil companies" from private interests.

Under the order creating PRC, the agency received broad powers to buy oil outside the United States, to purchase stock in oil companies with foreign holdings, and to construct oil refineries, pipe lines, and other facilities abroad.

Geologists in Middle East.

"The organization and activities of PRC have been shrouded in mystery," Moore said. "What commitments have been made or attempted we do not know. A party of geologists and other technical men was sent to Arabia and elsewhere in the middle east recently to obtain a foothold for this corporation in that area. It is also known that the corporation has plans for financing the construction of a large refinery in a foreign country and that it has a commitment for a loan of 30 million dollars from the Reconstruction Finance corporation."

Declaring there is doubt of the legality of the agency, Moore said it "is obviously designed to engage this country in the business of owning, producing, refining, and transporting petroleum and petroleum products in the post-war economy."

Terms Aims Imperialistic.

Government ownership of oil reserves abroad, Moore continued, is incompatible with the administration's announced intention to respect the integrity and sovereignty of other nations, and instead, he added, promotes "imperialism and international distrust."

"The existence of PRC with its vast and unlimited powers," Moore said, "is a threat to private enterprise of our nationals at home and abroad, and is inimical to individual initiative and free and competitive enterprise."

Meanwhile, congressional sources heard that Harry L. Hopkins, the President's confidant and major domo of the White House palace guard, has supplanted Ickes as the working head of PRC and other administration plans affecting foreign oil operations.

"Hopkins' Hand Runs Show."

The report was published by the National Petroleum News, a trade journal, which in its current issue said: "Secretary Ickes, as president of PRC, is only the front man. Altho top ranking administration authority on oil, his views no longer control and the hand that is really running the show is that of Mr. Hopkins."

Asked about this development, Sen. Moore said: "That has not come to my attention as yet. But whether it's Ickes or Hopkins, the government should stay out of the oil business and the PRC should be dissolved at once."

VAST SHORTAGE OF OIL FORECAST BY INDUSTRY AID

Cleveland, O., Jan. 21 (AP).—"A terrific oil shortage" was predicted today by Warren C. Platt, editor of the National Petroleum News.

Platt charged army and navy officials were not permitting the facts to become known to the public and asserted an oil shortage had been caused by refusal of the government to permit producers to raise prices to encourage more production. He said a situation existed that, if continued, may result in an inadequate supply for military purposes.

"My point is that the White House is presumably more interested in getting oil in from foreign lands under its good neighbor policy and in spending lend-lease money for oil producing and oil refining abroad than it is in maintaining domestic production at a proper level," he said.

He also predicted a further decrease in gasoline rations within six months.

ABANDON NEW JERSEY POULTRY AUCTION FOR THE DURATION OF OPA

Vineland, N. J., Jan. 21 (AP).—The Vineland coöperative egg and poultry auction, described by its president as the largest of its kind in the nation, will cease handling poultry March 1 "for the duration of the OPA."

"It is useless for us to continue after that date," said President John H. Weed, "as the OPA has killed the auctions."

The 13 year old auction in 1943 did a gross business of $250,000 in poultry and $2,750,000 in eggs. The egg auction will continue tho OPA ceiling prices have led to the substitution of rationing for auctioning, to assure wide distribution of the eggs.

JAP BATTLE FLAGS CAPTURED IN SOUTHWEST PACIFIC

● Both flags, it will be noted, bear hand written inscriptions. Translators say that the large characters on the flag at the left mean "Serve for your emperor with courage." Among other patriotic mottoes on the same flag are: "Fight with high spirits," "Victory or death," "Serve with best courage," "I am sending you best wishes," and "Please fight with dauntless spirit."

● Writings on the flag at the right indicate it was sent to one Kanehachi Iwasaki, obviously a Japanese fighting man, as the other inscriptions on the flag bear out. Among these are "Praying for your military victory," "You are fighting for the Asiatic order," "To dear, loyal, and sincere brave fighting man," and "Praying for your victory and your courage."

● Flags of this type are carried by the Japanese soldiers, usually rolled up and secured in the linings of the helmets. These flags are presented to the soldiers as they go to war or are sent to them while at the front by relatives or friends. Another type of flag, known as the "flag of 1,000 stitches," is carried wrapped around the soldier's body. Usually it is sent to him by his sweetheart. He takes out a stitch a day, the assumption being that he will be back home before the 1,000th stitch is reached.
